Split Vote Saves Title For Louis

BULLETIN

New York, Dec. 5 (U.P.).—Joe Louis retained the world's heavyweight championship tonight when he outpointed Jersey Joe Walcott in their 15-round bout.

Louis survived two knockdowns in the grueling fight.

Walcott, 33-year-old father of six children, gave Louis a boxing lesson but the ring officials awarded Louis a split decision.

Both judges Frank Forbes and Marty Monroe gave Louis the nod but Referee Ruby Goldstein voted for Walcott.

U. S. Official 'Subversive' List Blasted On All Sides

Groups Mentioned Call Clark Report Shocking, and Others Hold It Incomplete

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

All sides yesterday blasted the Government's official 1947 "subversive list" which names 91 organizations.

Groups on the list called it shocking. They said they were branded without a trial and that the Government was starting a system of thought control.

Anti-Reds called the list a joke. They claimed Attorney General Tom C. Clark—who got it up—pulled his punches, and threatened to put out a much longer one of their own.

Ordered by Truman

The list was gotten up on orders from President Truman, for use in the loyalty gift of Government workers that has been going on since July. Chairman Seth W. Richardson of the Loyalty Review Board sent it to heads of all departments and agencies, with a caution to go slow about saying people were disloyal because they belonged to groups that were listed.

Clark said so, too.

Representative J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.), chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee told the Associated Press that Clark's list didn't begin to cover the subversive groups in the country.

"If the Attorney General can't do any better than this," said Thomas, "the committee will supply a list that will put his to shame. There are hundreds of Communist front organizations alone."

363 Groups Listed

Thomas' committee got up a list of 363 organizations in May, 1946. This list has not been made public, yet. It is likely that many of the organizations on it do not know that they have been found subversive, as neither the committee nor Clark gave suspected groups a chance to answer evidence against them. Nor is it clear what it takes to make an organization subversive, as no standards have been set up by law, or even by executive order. The committee used its own opinion, or that of its counsel and investigators. Clark used his own judgment, after getting the advice of Justice Department aides.

Another member of the House Un-American Activities Committee is Representative John McDowell (R., Pa.). He said yesterday the committee knew the names of hundreds of anti-American groups more important than those named by Clark—except the Communist Party. Clark listed the Communists twice—once in an old 1943 "subversive" list which he quoted, and again among 44 groups that he added to the old ones.

McDowell said he could not see why Clark held out so many names. He thought the Attorney General

Who Pays For The Paper When You Forget To Pay?

Your carrier boy does. He buys his papers from The Washington Post at a wholesale price, gets up early every morning for a month to deliver the paper to your home, then collects from you for both product and service. The loss of just a few collections wipes out his profit on all his other customers—he works a whole month for nothing. Not a very fair way to treat a boy, is it? Please remember to have the money ready for your carrier on collection night.

No Good Reason Seen

Butter and egg prices zoomed to record levels yesterday as industry spokesmen here expressed fears that the two commodities would be priced off the average housewife's table.

Henry T. Males, chairman of the butter and egg division of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, declared butter prices would be "at least $1 a pound" here early next week.

Egg prices "are reaching their highest point since just after the last war," he said.

The wholesale price of grade AA butter, continuing a steady upward march, climbed to a record high of 91 cents a pound on the New York Mercantile Exchange yesterday, 2½ cents higher than Thursday's closing quotation. The price of 92 score butter, the biggest seller, reached 87½ cents.

Egg prices rose 2 cents a dozen on the New York wholesale exchange, expected to bring New York prices above 95 cents a dozen.

Males said that based on his own

To Avert Shortage

Voluntary curbs on pleasure driving, as a means to avert a threatened shortage of gasoline and oil will be asked next week, an Interior Department official told Congress yesterday.

This, and the demand of Republican freshmen Senators for their party to come forward with a definite program to halt inflation, highlighted yesterday's developments in Congress' search for ways to hold the cost-of-living line.

Some communities already have adopted measures to cut down gasoline for nonessential driving. These usually take the form of shorter hours for filling stations, and complete closing on Sunday.

Robert E. Friedman, counsel for Interior's Oil and Gas Division, predicted the appeal would come before next weekend, probably from the White House.

His statement was made before

Chest Needs 70,000 More Contributors

77 Per Cent of Quota Reached With Six Days To Go in Campaign

Sagging below quota with only six days to go, the Community Chest campaign today will start a search for 70,000 new donors needed to realize the $3,900,000 goal.

With $152,807 reported as yesterday's donations from four District and five suburban units, the fund reached $3,007,559—or 77.11 per cent of its quota.

The committee, appealing to the public to notify headquarters at 1101 M st. nw. of any home or business house which has not been solicited, said it was inevitable that some areas would be missed.

At yesterday's report luncheon at the Burlington Hotel, a check for $4321.24, representing the Chest's share of the benefit football game between McKinley and Central High Schools, was presented to Campaign Chairman Edward H. Foley, jr. The presentation was made by Hardy Pearce, athletic director of District schools.

Bus Ham, sports editor of The Washington Post, cosponsor of the game with the Interhigh School Athletic Association, cited the contest as helping to aid community spirit by bringing segments of the city together in a single cause.

A plea for more community spirit was voiced by the Rev. Dr. Charles W. Sheerin, rector of Epiphany Church. He deplored what he termed "denominational differences" in the Chest campaign.

Foley lauded Chairman Albert A. Smoot of the Alexandria, Va., unit for his volunteers' showing of the best suburban units—87.2 per cent of their quota.

Other reports received: Government, 90.2; Business Unit No. 2, 89.95; Prince Georges, 82; Business No. 1, 78.22; Montgomery County, 73.12; Residential unit, 72.52; Arlington, 66.5; and Fairfax, 54.59.

Top Air Chiefs Meet Secretly On Promotions

Board Has Studied 1600 Officer Records Since September

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

An Air Force disclosure yesterday that "secret" promotion boards have been in session here for weeks gave indication that more of those youthful flying generals and colonels are in prospect.

The announcement said that 13 top-ranking Air Force chiefs have been meeting at the Pentagon since late September going over the records of some 1600 senior USAF officers. It made public the closely guarded secret.

Members of two of the selection boards have finished their work and chosen an undisclosed number of officers for permanent advancement to major general and brigadier general, it was said.

Records Awaited

The third group, however, assigned to picking the most able officers for promotion to colonel, has been adjourned temporarily, awaiting "the arrival of additional records on some eligible officers."

This announcement indicated to Air Force circles that the accent was again on youth. Officers guessed that the boards have gone farther down the lineal lists than anyone anticipated and are considering the promotion of some outstanding younger airmen.

A wide bracket of officers is eligible by law for advancement, but the speculation was that the personnel section had not gone to the trouble of gathering complete efficiency records of some of the more junior officers they had not expected would be considered. The board starts at the top and goes down until it has chosen the requisite number.

Secrecy Explained

To a query as to why the membership of the three boards was kept secret until now, an Air Force spokesman replied that it was to prevent "pressure" being brought on the members.

The three boards are the first of their type in Air Force history, but Navy admirals sitting on similar selection groups have been plagued for years by Congressmen and civilian friends "putting in a word" for young officers up for selection.

When the Army named its first selection board this fall, officials considered keeping its membership dark. But it was decided that it would be too difficult, with top-rankers like Generals Bradley,

Death Toll Nears 100 in Arab Riots

40 Million Moslems Protest Holy Land Partition; Reign Of Terror in Aden

Jerusalem, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—The toll from five days of riot and battle as the Arab world's 40 million Moslems violently protested the partition of Palestine mounted close to 100 today with belated reports of a reign of terror in Arabia's Aden, where 44 persons were said to have been killed.

Arab guns cracked along a 5-mile smoke-blackened "front" in the border area of Tel Aviv and Jaffa and Palestine's death roll, by Associated Press count, mounted to 48.

Elsewhere, in Egypt, Syria, Iraq and Lebanon Arabs faced Holy Mecca and prayed to Allah for help against partition. Most of them then turned to peaceful pursuits on the Moslem Sabbath, but in Aden, the British colony on the Arabian coast, serious disorder prevailed.

Crater Quarter Invaded

The British Colonial Office said the trouble started Tuesday after a partial Arab strike erupted into an invasion of the Jewish "crater" quarters which resulted in the deaths of 44 persons, 25 Arabs and 19 Jews. The city is a colony, while the surrounding area is a protectorate.

The British flew 300 troops into the town from Khartoum, Egypt, and two companies of infantry were dispatched from the Suez Canal to support a naval landing party which was attempting to restore order. A curfew was clamped on.

A spokesman denied reports that British Gov. Sir Reginald Champion had been killed or harmed.

Reports from North Africa told of outbreaks in a new quarter when the Arabs of Derna in Libya stormed Jewish metalsmith shops with guns, clubs and hand grenades. A number of shops where American soldiers once bought souvenirs were leveled.

Twenty thousand Egyptians gathered at Al Azhar mosque in Cairo and broke through police lines at a threatening moment after hearing a fiery priest call for a holy war.

Shout "Down With Traitors"

Shouts of "down with the American, British and Russian traitors," interrupted speakers.

"You will get weapons when you are trained," Abdul Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the Arab League, declared. "Egypt will lead the Arab countries in the struggle."

Further demonstrations were curbed by officials.

A Government ban curbed further demonstrations in Bagdad, Iraq, where a mob had sacked a United States information office.

Beirut, Lebanon, ancient capital of the Phoenicians, also was the scene of a peaceful demonstration by 50,000 persons.

From Damascus, Syria, the rumbles of future trouble for Palestine were loudest. Basic military training was started for volunteers at secondary and high schools, and Fawzi Bey Kawkazi, military leader of the 1936 Palestine Arab revolt, was reported eager to go on the warpath again.

Recruiting Centers Jammed

Recruiting centers in Syria were hardly able to keep pace with the flow of volunteers registering for service to defend Palestine Arabs. Donations of funds to the "Palestine liberation committee" from wealthy Syrians were heavy.

Premier Jamil Mardam Bey will leave Sunday for Cairo for a meeting of the heads of Arab states.

Police Told to Fire on Mobs As 2 French Towns Are Seized; Rome Slum Area Torn by Riots

One Demonstrator Killed After 2 Hand Grenades Are Tossed At Police; Many Hurt

Rome, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Police and demonstrators battled tonight in Primavalle, one of Rome's outlying slum sections which has been torn by disorders for the past 48 hours, and one demonstrator was fatally shot. Nine others, including five police, were wounded.

The demonstrator was shot through the head when police opened fire after two hand grenades were tossed at them. A police lieutenant was gravely hurt and many others on both sides suffered minor injuries.

A police official said the outbreak was "obviously ordered."

While the demonstration was in progress, Italy's Constituent Assembly voted down a proposed law which in the words of one of its opponents "would have legalized insurrection."

Another Leftist Defeat

Rejection of the proposal—contained in the last section of Article 50 of the new Italian Constitution now being formulated—was in effect another defeat for extreme leftist forces who failed last October to win support for any of three no-confidence motions against Premier Alcide de Gasperi's government.

As formulated, the proposed article read: "When the public powers violate the fundamental liberties and rights guaranteed by the Constitution, resistance to oppression is the right and the duty of the citizen."

Harried by Stock Crash

The Premier was harried by a crash in stock prices on the Milan exchange. Small traders, apparently panic-stricken over the prospect of paper losses of millions of lire, invaded the trading pit and chased out the operators. Business was halted for a time. Police finally cleared the floor, but demonstrators gathered outside.

A drop in prices of stocks has been under way in Milan and Rome for several days, and the position of speculators holding for higher prices has become untenable.

The Primavalle incident was the latest in a series of leftist-generated disorders which have swept Italy. Police officials, describing Primavalle as made up of "some of the worst elements in Rome," said the pretext for the demonstration was hunger. "But there's not much hunger there," one added. "This is all part of the plan."

New Italian Regime To Weaken Red Faction

Rome, Dec. 5.—Premier Alcide de Gasperi reached agreement tonight with Republican and right-wing Socialist leaders on the formationof an enlarged anti-Communist coalition government.

A spokesman said that two new vice premiers will be appointed—Giuseppe Saragat, leader of the dissident Socialists, and either Randolfo Pacciardi or Cipriano Facchinetti of the Republican Party. One and perhaps two ministries will also be turned over to the Socialists whose price for joining the government was until now the application for economic reforms.

The exclusion of the two left of center parties will increase De Gasperi's parliamentary support to more than 50 per cent.

AFL Official Says Reds Aim to Seize Europe This Winter

Disorders Declared 'Stimulated, Timed;' Foes Hack at Relief

AFL Secretary-Treasurer George Meany said last night that congressional refusal to put the Marshall Plan for European recovery to work would mean "a war in which the United States would be practically alone."

In a broadcast (Mutual) he pledged the AFL to any sacrifices needed to make the Marshall Plan effective, since "it is far better to make moderate sacrifices today in order to avoid being compelled to make sacrifices a thousand times as great tomorrow."

He said that, after spending 400 billion dollars to gain victory in the late war, our Nation would be stupid to throw away the victory by refusing to spend 5 per cent more.

Calling Joseph Stalin "the Russian Hitler," Meany said the Soviet dictator and his collaborators "are trying to move heaven and earth to block the Marshall Plan." If American aid is not rushed to France, Italy and the other countries covered by the Marshall Plan, he Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett told the Senate Appropriations Committee yesterday that the Soviet Union is using the Communist-led strikes in France and Italy as "an extension of Soviet foreign policy."

Lovett urged that the United States not be "frightened out of its foreign aid program by these demonstrations," which, he said, were timed to coincide with the special session of Congress and the meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers in London.

Lovett was testifying in favor of granting the full 597 million dollars sought by the Administration for emergency aid to France, Italy and Austria.

On the other side of the Capitol, House foes of the Administration program redoubled their efforts to slash the relief figure nearly in half.

Lovett told the Senate group he did not believe the Communists could defeat American efforts to

AFL to Seek $8,000,000 Election Fund

Voluntary Donations Will Bolster Fight for Pro-Labor Congress

By Charles M. Herrold
United Press Reporter

The AFL's new political league voted yesterday to raise more than eight million dollars in voluntary contributions to help elect a pro-labor Congress next year.

[The Associated Press said "some AFL officials said privately they thought such an appeal might bring in $2,000,000 to $3,500,000.—Editor's note.]

In announcing the campaign AFL President William Green hailed it as "an historical act by the AFL" and said it represents an intensification of the union's long-standing policy to "reward your friends and punish your enemies."

He called on the AFL's 7,600,000 members to contribute at least $1 each to the fund.

Confident that it will be "very largely successful," he said that its chief goal will be the defeat of those members of a "reactionary Congress" who voted for the Taft-Hartley Labor Act "and assigned labor a secondary citizenship."

To Await Conventions

He said the AFL also may indorse a presidential candidate, but will wait and see what happens at the Democratic and Republican conventions at Philadelphia next June and July.

The AFL's goal brings to almost 18 million dollars the amount sought by organized labor to defeat Taft-Hartley Act proponents at the polls in 1948.

The CIO Political Action Committee seeks $1 contributions from six million CIO members and the railroad brotherhoods a similar amount from their 1,200,000 members. The International Association of Machinists (Ind.) has opened a drive to raise one million dollars among its 600,000 members.

The AFL earlier voted one millions dollars in membership assessments to finance an "educational" campaign against the labor law,

Marshall Asks Russian Terms On Germany

Molotov Makes New Attack on Policies Of Western Powers

London, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—United States Secretary of State George C. Marshall challenged Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov point blank today to state Russia's price for German unity. Molotov replied with a new attack upon the Western powers' policies in Germany.

The sharp exchange came as the four-power Foreign Ministers tackled the thorny issue of Germany's economic future without agreement—indeed, without sign of concession or compromise between the East and the West.

In a long speech Molotov accused Britain and France of "actually hindering" the economic recovery of western Germany, claimed greater efficiency in the Soviet occupation zone, and repeated his charge of a Western plan to set up a separate regime over western Germany.

Bevin Replies Sharply

Ernest Bevin of Britain, lashed back. He labeled Molotov's arguments "the limit." He termed Molotov's contentions "a miserable way to treat the facts."

Bevin said bluntly that Molotov's remarks were designed "to convince the Germans that they have but one friend—the Soviet Union."

Marshall demanded that the council "leave generalities and engage in discussion which will enable (it) to make some progress."

Informants reported the course of today's meetings as:

The American diplomatic chief had laid down his own specific proposals in a formal paper that favored the establishment of a provisional government reflecting the "free will" of the German people and functioning "without outside interference" except for Allied security measures.

But he said first must come agreement on such common principles as basic freedom for the individual; abolition of zonal boundaries; free flow of persons, ideas and goods throughout all Germany, and clear determination

Union Leaders Meet With Auriol; New 'Token' Walkout Of 1,200,000 Called

Paris, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—French police were ordered tonight to fire on mobs in self-defense after strikers had seized temporary control of two cities in the crippled nation.

President Vincent Auriol received leaders of the General Confederation of Labor (CGT) after the Communist-dominated organization said the door was open for new strike settlement negotiations.

Communist-hatched work stoppages, sending France through another day of turmoil, erupted with particular force at St. Etienne, an armament-producing center near Lyon, and at Arles, 50 miles from Marseilles. Police finally drove the strikers from the streets and regained control of both cities. A number of persons were reported injured in hand-to-hand fighting.

Skirmishing in Marseille

Skirmishing continued between strikers and the authorities in Marseille. Thousands of troops reinforced the police in France's second city where the present disorder was born three weeks ago.

Interior Minister Jules Moch, a Socialist, told the National Assembly he had issued the firing order to the hard-pressed police.

Communist deputies answered by screaming "Assassin! Assassin!" Moch declared the police "can use their firearms" if they are being subjected to attacks and have no other means of defending the terrain they occupy.

"The commander of the troops has the duty at that moment of warning the attackers by drum, bugle or loudspeaker," the minister said. After being attacked with bricks, iron bars and other weapons "the representatives of the public order must no longer show any hesitation on seeing their comrades fall," he declared, adding:

"I have counseled prudence to my men, but I add that no matter what happens the law must be respected."

"Token" Strike Called

Moch spoke in answer to Communist protests over the death of three strikers from gunfire in Thursday's riots at Valence. The Assembly subsequently accepted Moch's report on the Valence shooting by a vote of 408 to 183 with the negative ballots being cast by the Communists. Thereupon Communist Deputy Jeannette Vermeersch shouted:

"It may seem funny to you that there are French in this Assembly who fight against Moch—Americans that you are."

With two million workers already idle, Premier Robert Schuman's cabinet ran head on into a call for a "token" strike until Tuesday by 1,200,000 government and public service employes.

This strike call went out to teachers, public utility employes, sanitation workers as well as employes of the ministries and the Premier's office itself.

Paris Power Off Two Hours

This new walkout got off to a confused start with only a few workers leaving their posts. Electric power was off in Paris for about 2 hours halting factories and the subway and choking off communications. The electric company of France said the power failure was caused by a circuit breaker failure and that the delay in restoring service was due to the inexperience of the soldiers and sailors operating the plants in place of strikers.

A further frustration of the government workers' walkout appar-

Nativity Carols in N. Y. Schools Left to Teacher Discretion

New York, Dec. 5 (U.P.).—The Nation's most polyglot city was in an uproar today over whether Christmas carols referring to the Nativity of Christ should be sung in its public schools.

Bildersee

Andrew Clauson, jr., president of the board of Education, and William Jansen, superintendent of schools, held a hurried conference as controversy mounted over the prohibition order issued by their subordinate, Assistant Superintendent Isaac Bildersee, who is in charge of 23 Brooklyn schools.

After the conference, Clauson said the order would not be rescinded, but that the nature of the Christmas program in each school would be left to the discretion of its principal.

This seemed at least to supersede Bildersee's order which specified that "Christmas carols with reference to the Nativity may not be sung, nor any decorations include religious symbols of any faith."

Clauson, however, was unspecific, and reiterated his faith in Bildersee's intentions. He thought the reaction to the assistant superintendent's action was "a mistake."

Nevertheless Jansen's letter appeared to remove Bildersee's ban on the singing of such carols as "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," and "Silent Night" in the 23 schools under his jurisdiction which have approximately 30,000 pupils, 20,000 of whom are Jewish.

Clauson and Jansen acted after Mayor William O'Dwyer ordered an investigation of Bildersee's directive.

"Jews and Christians alike will join in insisting upon the freedom within our democracy which will allow such an observance," it said.

It was upheld by the American Jewish Congress and by Eugene P. Connolly, American Labor Party member of the City Council.

Leo Pfeffer, a spokesman for the American Jewish Congress, said: "We believe that public schools could be free of any celebrations which may embarrass persons of any race or religion."

Matthew F. Kennedy, chairman of the Catholic affairs committee of the State Council, Knights of Columbus, termed the order an "insult to all Christians," and Bishop Charles K. Gilbert, the Episcopal Bishop of New York, described the directive as "distressing."

Kick on Waffle Check Shatters Peace (and Door) of Snack Bar

The Tasty Snack Bar was a cozy nest of tranquility laced with tempting odors of waffles and bacon.

William T. Carrick, a hungry man, would have some of the same. Peacefully snaffling a waffle crosshatched with four slices of bacon and trimmed in potatoes, Carrick, 39-year-old radio repair shop owner, was jarred out of gastronomic reveries when he asked for the check.

It was for $1.05—a stunning fact and too much money, Carrick told a Municipal Court jury yesterday.

His protests bounded off an impasse in the person of Mrs. Amalia P. Christakos, the owner. Carrick, who lives at 5619 1st pl. nw., sued for an armistice, asked if he could sign the check and talk things over with the day manager the next day.

The reply to this entreaty was as subtle as indigestion.

Mrs. Christakos ordered him to sit at the counter until he paid the bill, Carrick told the jury. Then, he said, she locked the door.

Placidity was no more in the Tasty Snack Bar at 4300 Georgia ave. nw.

Carrick picked up a handy pistachio nut machine, slammed it through the door and left "with something tugging at me from behind." He called police on gaining freedom from a reluctant debtor's fate; was charged later with assault and destruction of private property.

The jury in Judge Thomas Dewey Quinn's court decided Mrs. Christakos had, in effect, "imprisoned" Carrick.

He sallied forth—a free man.

Mihai Will Seek Permission To Wed, His Secretary Says

Lausanne, Switzerland, Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Maj. Jacques Vergotti, private secretary to King Mihai of Romania, said today the King will ask Romania's Communist-dominated government for permission to marry Danish Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma, "perhaps next week."

He declared, however, the King had not yet sent a message advising the Bucharest government of his intentions. He described as "stupid, malicious" a London newspaper report that the government already had refused assent because of Russian objections.

The secretary's statement came after the King had denied reports of the engagement.

Vergotti said that contrary to reports, the King and his party were not leaving Lausanne for Bucharest tomorrow. The princess is here, too.

(In Copenhagen, a member of the Danish royal household said today the King and Queen were not surprised. "The young couple told their majesties about their plans during the recent royal wedding in London," the informant said.)

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 5 (A.P.).—Fraternity and sorority members at the University of Illinois will glean Champaign County cornfields Sunday to aid the starving peoples of Europe.

Stocks Off $1 to $8 In Selling Wave

New York, Dec 5 (A.P.).—A blast of selling knocked down leading stocks $1 to $8 a share in the Exchange late today.

Selling orders poured in so fast that for a time the high-speed ticker tape ran as much as 2 minutes behind actual transactions.

Wall Street sources attributed the sharp declines to a general feeling of pessimism among investors and speculators in connection with proposed anti-inflation measures and the disturbing foreign situation.

Interior Lacks Oil Ration Power

By BLS Index

Retail Food Prices Drop 1% in Month

Retail food prices in Washington went down one per cent from mid-September to mid-October.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported, however, that food prices still were more than twice as high as the average for the period 1935-39. The index as of October 15 stood at 200.9 per cent of "normal."

Other more recent surveys have shown specific rises since October, but the BLS report, released yesterday, recorded a reversal from September 15 to October 15 of the upward trend prevalent for the preceding two months.

In the period surveyed, the average price of butter dropped from 95 cents a pound to 84 cents. Oleomargarine prices, meanwhile, rose from 37 to 38 cents, "reflecting housewives' resistance to butter prices," according to BLS.

Meats, poultry and fish declined 2 per cent for the month, after advancing each month since May. Lower-priced meat cuts actually increased, but decreases for more expensive meats outweighed the advances.

Fruits and vegetables were down nearly 1½ per cent. Fresh items decreased more than 1 per cent, canned more than 2 per cent, and dried about ½ per cent. Largest decreases—between 10 and 30 per cent—were reported for lettuce, sweet potatoes and oranges. An early frost that destroyed nearby green beans pushed prices for that item upward more than 46 per cent.

Prices of fats and oils over the month jumped more than 8 per cent. Lard went up 7 cents a pound. Cereals and bakery products generally increased about 2 per cent, with bread unchanged. Coffee prices were up nearly 2½ per cent and sugar 1 per cent.

Action on Request Up to Secretary, Counsel Declares

The Interior Department has no power to order rationing in the oil and fuel industry, Robert E. Friedman, counsel for the department's oil and gas division, said yesterday.

Friedman was questioned on what action was contemplated on a request by the Retail Gasoline Association of Washington for voluntary gasoline rationing program among dealers.

The association's suggestion calls for filling stations operating only from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. on weekdays, and remaining closed on Sunday.

Friedman said that the association's request has not yet been received by the Interior Department, and that it would be up to the Interior Secretary to determine what action should be taken on it.

R. A. Herrick, executive secretary of the association which has a membership of about 200 dealers in this area, said the association is asking for an appointment with Interior officials early next week to discuss their plan.

Friedman, who explained that oil and fuel is an "entirely private industry' in peacetime, added that some form of public conservation is "badly needed.'

purchases yesterday, the top grade of white eggs from nearby points would retail here as high as 95 cents a dozen.

"Frankly," he said, "I do not see any good reason why the price should be so high. These eggs should be selling at about 65 cents at this time of year. There is no gain for us in such prices for we work on a set margin. My personal opinion is that consumer resistance is the only thing that will bring down these prices."

In Baltimore yesterday, butter was selling as high as $1.10 a pound, the Associated Press reported.

Dairymen pointed out that there is a spread of 16 cents a pound between the price quotation of the poorest and best grades of butter on the New York wholesale exchange, accounting for a wide difference in retail prices.

Some chain stores here yesterday were selling grade A eggs at 79 cents a dozen, which wholesalers predicted would rise to about 85 cents cents. The 95 cents a dozen price is expected in some neighborhood stores.

N. Coppola of Grande Valley Products Co. here said yesterday he paid 70 cents a dozen wholesale for the same grade of eggs which cost him 50 cents at this time last year.

Butter consumption, he said, already is falling off because of mounting prices.

Allentown Paper Uses 'New Look' As Printers Strike

By The Associated Press

The "new look" in newspapers, born of printers' labor disputes with publishers, spread to Allentown, Pa., yesterday.

The method of publishing editions through a typewriting and photo-engraving process was introduced to the industry in Chicago, Nov. 24, when 1500 members of the AFL International Typographical Union walked out. Chicago's six big dailies have appeared in that form ever since.

Yesterday 80 members of ITU Local 134 in Allentown walked off their jobs and company executives immediately announced plans to continue publication with the Chicago process.

The Allentown typesetters struck after turning down a 16 2-3 per cent wage increase that carried with it a provision that the recently expired contract with the Allentown Call-Chronicle newspapers be continued.

Voluntary Curbs to Be Asked on Motoring

the Joint Committee on the Economic Report in the course of a plea for emergency powers to fix prices and to ration gasoline and coal. He added that so far the department has made no definite plans for the operation of such controls.

Later Friedman stated that the department has not yet received a request for shorter selling periods at oil stations, from the Retail Gasoline Dealers Association of Washington. When received, he said, it will be put up to Secretary of Interior Krug.

The proposed voluntary rationing of gasoline falls in with plans of the Republican Policy Committee on an anti-inflation program.

These plans, admittedly tentative at present, would call for voluntary allocation and rationing of scarce cost-of-living items.

Senator Robert A. Taft, GOP Senate leader, told newsmen that Senate and House leaders will meet next week to consider an over-all program as well as "one or two" measures to halt inflation which might be adopted before the special session ends.

Among these he listed extension of export controls, limitations on speculative trading on the grain exchanges, and measures to curb installment buying.

Topic of Policy-Makers

At a morning meeting the Senate Republican Policy Committee discussed a proposal for the Government to aid in seeking to bring about voluntary controls, Taft said.

Among the suggestions was legislation to exempt businesses that join in the program from prosecution under the Antitrust Act.

The discussions also considered tax reduction, with suggestions that these reductions be passed on to taxpayers in the form of nonsalable Government bonds.

Another suggestion was to attract savings from small investors with an issue of Government bonds bearing higher interest than the present "E' bonds. This was considered an incentive to take money out of circulation and aid in halting inflation.

Seek to Force Statement

The determination of Republican leaders to seek a definite program was brought about by the insistence of freshmen members for such action. One first-timer declared that the newcomers had agreed among themselves upon forcing a concrete statement of their party's aims.

"We will have a program if we can get a general agreement among the Republican members of both houses,' Taft asserted, adding that all members will get an opportunity for suggestions.

From the House side, Chairman Wolcott (R., Mich.) of the Banking Committee, expressed firm belief that his party will "come up with a policy to stabilize the Nation's economy.

Meantime Undersecretary of the Interior Oscar L. Chapman pleaded before Taft's Committee on the Economic Report, for President Truman's request for authority to place price controls and rationing restrictions on coal and oil.

Sees Threat to Marshall Plan

Questioning of Chapman brought a charge from Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) that "some people in this country, and some in Congress want to do what Soviet Russia desires—wreck the Marshall Plan."

O'Mahoney declared that domestic controls are needed to carry out the European reconstruction program. "It is not a political question nor a partisan question," he asserted.

Among the voluntary controls that may be asked to conserve gasoline and fuel oil supplies, Friedman listed:

1. The oil industry will be asked to produce to its full capacity and to develop new supplies.

2. Efforts to keep the Illinois River open to navigation this winter to provide barge transportation for coal and oil into the Chicago area, already threatened by a serious shortage.

3. Voluntary rationing of oil supplies and allocation of such supplies by the industry.

4. Return to operation 100 oil tankers now in reserve, and increased use of the tankers now in service.

5. An educational campaign to reduce the use of gasoline by motorists.

Clark's 'Subversive' List Attacked From Many Angles

Based On Secret Evidence

Clark based the official 1947 list on secret evidence and didn't say what it was or where he got it, except that he used FBI reports. Since J. Edgar Hoover, the FBI chief, is keen on stamping out subversivies, McDowell said he was sure Clark had the data for a better job—that is, for a longer list.

Representtive Richard M. Nixon (R., Calif.), another member of Thomas' committee, said there were only about 15 active Communist fronts among the 91 organizations listed by Clark. He said the Attorney General ought to put more names on the subversive list right away.

Clark told Chairman Richardson that there would be more.

What it means to be on the official subversive list was shown less than 24 hours after the names were made public.

Hotel Bars Parley

From Hartford, Conn., the Associated Press reported that the Bond Hotel there barred the Connecticut State Youth Conference. The group had a reservation for Sunday, January 11.

"The place for them to meet is in Russia," said Willard B. Rogers, the hotel president and manager. "I'm through tolerating these groups," he added. "Imagine them meeting on a Sunday."

The youth group last May condemned the Taft-Hartley Act and the Greek-Turk aid bill. There were about 50 at the May meeting, including spokesmen of the American Veterans' Committee, the Methodist Youth Federation and of American Youth for Democracy (another group on the subversive list).

Denials Made

Here is what spokesmen for some of the branded organizations had to say:

AMERICAN YOUTH FOR DEMOCRACY — Meyer Frieden, California secretary, wired Clark and Mr. Truman that "we have asked, but never received any information from either the Un-American Activities Committee or the Department of Justice, for a single bit of evidence to prove that we have at any time committed a disloyal act. In truth, you do not have any such evidence."

CIVIL RIGHTS CONGRESS—One of its leaders, John Shepherd, University of Michigan psychology professor, said, "the Congress is primarily devoted to labor and its problems. Its classification as subversive is nonsense." The treasurer, Raymond C. Ingersoll of New York, said, "this business of using lists to scare Government employes is a very dangerous procedure, no matter what organization is involved. I'm not afraid of standing up to the House Un-American Activities Committee."

HOLLYWOOD WRITERS MOBILIZATION FOR DEFENSE—Former Chairman Howard Koch said the group was formed to help the war effort against Germany and Japan and he couldn't see what was subversive about that, he added that the group broke up six months ago.

SAMUEL ADAMS SCHOOL FOR SOCIAL STUDIES, of Boston.—Dr. Harrison L. Hartley, director, said, "I am inclined to feel that the judgment was made on hearsay evidence and is part of the pattern of thinking that if you ever have any person of known Communist pattern on your staff who is suspected, then you are all fellow travelers." One of the teachers, Dirk J. Struik, who also is a mathematics professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said the Adams School tried to teach the principles of American democracy.

JEFFERSON SCHOOL OF SOCIAL STUDIES, of New York.—Dr. Howard Selsam, director, said if his school belonged on the list then "any teaching of social science that differs from the beliefs of J. Edgar Hoover is to be labeled subversive."

JOINT ANTI-FASCIST REFUGEE COMMITTEE—Dr. Edward Barsky, chairman, said it was shocking for Clark to list a charitable organization like his.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN SCHOOL, Chicago—Herman Schendel, trade union director, said the school would go ahead even though Clark thought it was subversive to fight for democracy. He said his school taught union members political action and shop problems.

SEATTLE LABOR SCHOOL—Bert MacLeech, director, said his school was set up by and for unions and that Clark's listing was "an example of the alarming and increasing trend toward thought control by the use of fear and smear tactics."

On the other hand, Roy W. Atkinson, CIO regional director, said the labor school needed to be "called" for its radical activities.

WALT WHITMAN SCHOOL OF SOCIAL SCIENCES, Newark, N. J.—Abraham Welanko, former director, said the school broke up two years ago.

THE COMMUNIST PARTY—Simon Gerson, legislative director, said he would not talk about the Clark list until "we study it.'

Brain Operation Fails to Erase 'Criminal Traits'

Pittsburgh, Dec. 5 (AP).—Millard F. Wright, 38-year-old convicted burglar who underwent a delicate brain operation designed to curb his criminal tendencies, is still "evasive, crafty and cunning," the behavior clinic of Quarter Sessions Court reported today.

Wright, now serving a 2-12-year term for burglary, has been under the constant surveillance of psychiatrists since he underwent the operation—a prefrontal lobotomy—last spring.

The clinic report labeled Wright a "psychopath unable to adjust himself to disappointments and frustrations," and added:

"When last examined Millard Wright was still the evasive, crafty, cunning person that he had been before the operation. There was no noticeable alteration of his egocentricism. It certainly had not decreased."

U. S. Allows Britain To Use Rest of Loan

Final $400,000,000 Unfrozen to Ease Dollar Shortage in Paying Current Debts

The United States agreed yesterday to let Britain resume drawing on the last 400 million dollars of her $3,750,000,000 American loan.

This sum has been "frozen" since last August. At that time the British government announced it could no longer meet a condition of the loan agreement requiring it to pay current trading debts in dollars whenever foreign suppliers asked for them.

Release of the 400 million dollars was announced in an exchange of letters between Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder and the British Chancellor of the Exc' equer, Sir Stafford Cripps.

Cripps Explains Status

Cripps said that although the British could not pay their creditors freely in dollars, they intend "to adhere as closely as possible to the objectives of the agreement at all times and to implement these objectives fully at the earliest possible time." Snyder answered that he was "pleased" to get Cripps' statement.

Snyder also issued a statement explaining that the British would not be able to resume dollar payments freely for some time because of "the serious economic conditions existing in the world."

Use of the remaining 400 million dollars, Snyder went on, would permit Britain "to continue the purchases in the United States necessary to maintain its present austerity program and hence will not add to inflationary pressures in this country."

Gold and Silver Sold

The British have been so short of dollars that they have had to sell gold and other assets to pay for purchases here, and recently got a short-term credit of 240 million dollars from the International Monetary Fund in exchange for sterling.

Unfreezing of the remnant of the British loan had been expected for several weeks. It took place only after the British had made arrangements to protect themselves against a renewed "run" on their dollars and after Secretary Snyder had received the approval of congressional leaders.

China Builds a War Memorial of Skulls . . .

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

GRISLY REMINDER—This is a cross section of some 5000 skulls of Chinese—defenseless farmers or fleeing villagers—massacred in June, 1944, when the Japanese were on the march through China. They have been laid neatly, row on row, across a hillside outside Hengyan, in China's central Hunan Province, overlooking the scene of the Japanese advance. The spectral gallery is an eloquent reminder of the reality of war to the farmers of Hunan. The picture was made by Roy Rowan, an UNRRA official, during a field trip in China. # French Strike BlowNot Fatal, Dulles Holds

Paris, Dec. 5.—John Foster Dulles, Republican adviser to Secretary of State George C. Marshall, declared today that although France has been scratched and scarred by the current strike wave, neither the Marshall Plan nor France itself has yet been dealt a fatal blow by the Communist-led walkouts.

In 24 hours, Dulles has conferred with five of Frances' top leaders, including President Vincent Auriol and Premier Robert Schuman.

He said he felt the strikes here would encourage support for the Marshall Plan among Republicans in Congress as France's crisis was making the need for United States aid more apparent.

The swift-moving events here, he said, were of far greater importance than the procedural discussions now going on at the Council of Foreign Ministers in London, and may have a more decisive influence on the whole future of Europe.

Dulles said he was not here to negotiate with anybody about anything, that he was not concerned with French politics, and that he was here only to collect information.

Although he will not present a formal report on his findings to Marshall, he would be available to present his facts if the Secretary of State asked for them.

Asked if he would see General Charles De Gaulle before he returns to London on Sunday, Dulles said he did not plans to, but that the possibility was not precluded, as he was always open to see leaders of any Frency party.

He emphasized that he did not consider the Communists as members of a French party.

Blast Kills Workman

El Segundo, Calif., Dec. 5 (AP).—A terrific explosion, possibly caused by lightning, blew a big storage tank at the Standard Oil refinery apart today, killing one workman. # Jewish Underground Worries Over Sealing of 'Escape' Routes

By Seymour Freidin

Vienna, Dec. 5.—Leaders of the Jewish underground through central and eastern Europe are seriously concerned over sealing of the regular "escape" routes from Poland, Romania and Hungary into Austria.

Informants associated with underground traffic which has fallen off considerably in the last few days—far more than was anticipated even with a proposal increase in use of Black Sea ports this winter—said tonight that frontier vigilance has been tightened drastically and illegal crossing of Jews and non-Jews alike is now actively prohibited.

The border changes were induced mostly, it was said, by the escapes of political opposition leaders as Stanislaz Mikolajczyk, of Poland, and Zoltan Pfeiffer, of Hungary. In addition, use of Black Sea ports in Romania must be paid for in dollars or British pounds, reliable sources said, any any increase in revenue from illegal shipping would aid Romania whose stocks of hard currencies are low.

keep alive the democratic governments of western Europe.

"What we must frankly face up to is this demonstration of the extension of foreign policy," Lovett said.

"It come at a time when Congress is in session and these committee meetings are taking place, and, in addition, at the time of the Foreign Ministers' meeting in London.

Not Get Frightened

"At some point, Senator, we have just got to make up our minds whether or not we can get into this thing in whatever appropriate way Congress may decide, and not get frightened out by this sort of demonstration.

"A good deal of this (wave of strikes) is a concerted, stimulated timed effect," Lovett said. He indicated that part of the reason, of course, might be due to economic conditions, with workers receiving wages not high enough to cope with the high prices.

Lodge, chairman of a Military Affairs Subcommittee that visited Italy recently, said "the present disturbances in Italy were ordered through the Cominform in Belgrade," and that the United States must carry out its treaty obligation to guarantee Italy's "essential nationhood."

Occupation forces were to have been withdrawn within 90 days of the treaty's ratification. The leaving date for American troops was recently moved back from December 3 to December 15.

Italy, along with France and Austria, would benefit under both the House bill and the program proposed by President Truman, and adopted without major change by the Senate. The House bill debated today includes some 60 million dollars for China.

Representative Ellsworth B. Buck (R., N. Y.) told the House there should be a 25 per cent reduction in the funds which the bill authorizes for Europe. The bill was drawn with the intent of giving China 60 million dollars and France, Italy and Austria 30 million.

Democratic and Republican supporters of the full Administration program held most of their fire for Monday's debate on amendments, although Representative Harris (D., Ark.) voiced support of the measure on grounds of "security of our Nation."

Harris said mistakes have been made in past foreign relief programs, but asked whether that was any reason for us to tell European countries "we're going to leave you to communism.' He added: "I want to say to them; 'we want you to have a chance to have democracy.'"

But Representative Hoffman (R., Mich.) declared that the present United States policy "means, in the end, a third world war."

Meany Sees War if Aid Fails

warned, "it is but a matter of time—and not a great deal of time, at that—before we will find we have a new neighbor on the Atlantic shore."

"If we permit the nations of western Europe to fall," the labor spokeseman said, "our new neighbor on the Atlantic will be Joseph Stalin's brutal Fascist dictatorship."

Meany warned bluntly that this Nation cannot escape war by "dawdling or hiding our heads in the sand." A new conflagration can be averted, he said, only by "taking intelligent preventive action—by taking such action while there is yet time."

"The events in France and Italy during the past few weeks show us how short time is," the AFL's secretary-treasurer emphasized. "The Communists are deadly serious. They hope to capture western Europe for Moscow this winter."

He went on:

"Some Americans say, 'Why not let these countries go Communist? In that way, the people will soon enough find out that the Communists having nothing beneficial to offer and will turn them out of office?'

"But these people disregard the record which shows that once the Communists get into power in another nation, there is no way short of war or violent revolt to break their iron grip. As we have seen in Yugoslavia, Poland, Hungary, and other satellite states, the Communists quickly install the secret police and use terror, the firing squad and the Russian slave labor camps to suppress all civil liberties and political opposition.

For example, we all know that the overwhelming majority of the people of Poland would like to be rid of their Russian masters. We know also that the wishes of the majority of Poles mean absolutely nothing to the Communists.

"In the same way, if the Communists are allowed to gain control in western Europe, they will not be moved out of control very easily. Communists often speak of democracy, and they are not averse to using democratic institutions in order to seize power, but once they have come to power, they see to it that their will prevails regardless of the preference of the majority who oppose them. That is what dictatorship means. 'Dictatorship, whether Fascist or Communist, laughs at its slaves. Their desires mean nothing.'"

"America must act quickly. The emphasis must be on speed. Stalin doesn't want us to approve the Marshall Plan. The Russian dictator is not our friend. It would be criminal stupidity to heed his counsel.

"The Marshall Plan, if promptly put into effect, can possibly keep western Europe free, and stop the forward surge of totalitarian slavery. In the long run, it may save hundreds of billions in dollars and, in addition, the lives of thousands of Americans.

"For all of these reasons, the working people of America hope that partisanship will be forgotten by the members of Congress and that they will act quickly and favorably on this most vital question."

Chinese Red General Quits Lair on Foray

Kiukiang, China, Dec. 5 (AP).—The elusive Communist Gen. Liu Po-cheng has daringly led his 100,000 men out of the Ta Pieh Mountains and thrown them all into a major engagement, a Chinese government spokesman declared today.

Lieut. Gen. Hsu Tsu-yi, chief of staff at this new government headquarters, 300 miles southwest of Nanking, said 30,000 American-trained government troops were opposing Liu's men, and that it would be four or five days before the battle reached a critical stage.

The government general said he could not discount possibility that Liu was trying to break out into China's wild west Province of Szechwan, whose principal city is Chungking, wartime provisional capital of the nation.

(This suggestion, however, does not square with previous government reports that Liu was intent on ravaging the rich lower Yangtze Valley and eventually crossing the big river to the south for a long term campaign in the very heartland of government strength. It was to prevent such developments and to herd the one-eyed Liu northward that the Kiukiang headquarters was established.)

Hsu said the present battle was in a triangular area between the cities of Sinyang, Hwangchwan and Shangcheng in eastern Honan.

Burmese Communists Establish Rebel Regimes in 3 Districts

Rangoon, Burma, Dec. 5 (AP).—Rebellious Burmese Communists, floating the authority of Premier Thakin Nu's government, have seized power in three districts north of Rangoon, and established regimes of their own, it was announced officially today.

Large detachments of police have been rushed into the region by Burma's central government. High officials said details of the uprising in the Tougoo, Pyinmana and Yamethin districts were not available. The three districts extend for 150 miles along the Rangoon-Mandalay Road.

The uprising is believed to represent a greater threat to the central government than the separatist movement which has developed recently in the Arakan district on the West Coast.

Tougoo, Pyinmana and Yamethin long have been regarded as strongly Communist areas. Military operations were conducted there early this year in an effort to rid the section of "undesirable" elements.

Observers in Rangoon believe the uprising may be the result of preaching by the White Flag Communist leader, Than Tun, for a country-wide upsurgem of Communist activity.

Relations were broken last month between the Communists and the anti-Fascist Peoples Freedom League, which won the election several months ago, and controls the central government.

Burmese Communists are divided into two groups—the Red Flag and the White Flag. A British commonwealth relations officer described the White Flag Communists as the "less extreme."

Burma is to receive complete independence from Britain January 6.

Tito Due in Budapest To Sign Military Alliance

Budapest, Hungary, Dec. 5 (U.P.).—Marshal Tito will arrive here tomorrow to sign a Yugoslav-Hungary military alliance similar to the the pact he made with Bulgaria last week, the foreign office announced today.

This latest treaty leaves only Romania outside the Yugoslav network of alliances with the nations of eastern Europe. Unofficial reports reaching here from Bucharest said that Tito was expected there soon, possibly this weekend, for treaty talks.

Italian Ship Adrift

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 5 (AP).—The Italian steamer Francesco Barbaro, disabled by the loss of her propeller early today, 300 miles east of Cape Hatteras, drifted in moderate seas tonight while the SS Rum River stood by and the commercial tug Curb proceeded to her assistance. The Coast Guard said the Francesco Barbaro was in no danger.

World Bank Sends Mission to Chile On Loan Request

The World Bank announced yesterday it is sending a mission to Chile to make economic and technical studies relating to Chile's application for a 40-million-dollar loan.

The mission will consist of two bank officials and two engineers from United States firms.

Chile applied for the loan last September to finance water power development, forest industries, railway electrification, transportation facilities and port mechanization.

Head of the mission will be Gilbert H. Clee, chief of the western Latin American division of the bank's loan department.

Police Told to Fire on Mobs As 2 French Towns Are Seized

ently came when the Federation of Public Service personnel said it had decided to keep its members at their jobs. They include workers in gas and electric plants, subways, buses and street cleaning and other occupations.

Gas, electric and street workers already are on strike in Paris. It was not immediately clear whether they would be ordered back to work.

CGT Hints at Compromise

The CGT, fountainhead of the whole series of walkouts throughout the nation, held to its demands for cost-of-living premiums and guarantees of purchasing power, representing about a 25 per cent raise in current wage minimums. But the confederation's statement said:

"The CGT has never refused to resume negotiations with the government under new conditions involving a minimum chance of agreement.'

Only last week the CGT said it would refuse to negotiate with Schuman's government if the Assembly approved the Premier's strike and sabotage control measure. Despite this threat the Assembly voted its approval.

Benoit Frachon, Communist general secretary of the confederation, said the CGT had asked Auriol to "create a more favorable climate for negotiations" by getting the government to soft-pedal application of the new law against strike inciters and saboteurs.

Franchon declined to indicate Auriol's response.

Strikers Appoint "Police"

There was no sign of an end to the strikes, although a powerful back-to-work movement among the rank and file had reduced their effectiveness somewhat.

The 50,000 strikers who seized control of St. Etienne for a time established a censorship committee and ordered the printers' union not to allow newspapers to appear there unless they had received the committee approval.

"Police" appointed by the strikers took over the streets.

An alleged secret order of the Communist Party for the Loire Department around St. Etienne, shown in Paris, called for "offensive action against all police forces." It added: "Preserve all stocks of material. Do not carry firearms. Use only pick handles, monkey wrenches, stabbing awls and other toothed tools."

Virginia Merchants Fight Sales Tax Plan

Richmond, Va., Dec. 5 (AP).—The Virginia Retail Merchants Association today entered the fight to keep Virginia from adopting a sales tax, with a document entitled "Is a Sales Tax Necessary in Virginia?"

Twenty-six affiliated local merchants associations are listed in the bulletin by Association Counsel Walter M. Evans, which attacks the sales tax as a "tax of desperation" which "violated every cardinal rule of just taxation."

Bender Heads K. of P.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Dec. 5.—Douglas Bender has been named chancellor commander of Washington Lodge No. 1, Knights of Pythias. Other officers are W. Y. Wayble, Charles L. Walker, Roy M. Jette, Dr. V. B. Studwell, J. B. Johnson and H. F. Hines.

Admiral Towers, Exponent Of Navy Air Power, Retires

ADM. JOHN H. TOWERS

Admiral John H. Towers, the "father of naval aviation," has retired from active naval service, it was announced yesterday.

The pioneer naval pilot, who flew the Navy's first airplane in 1911, gave up his post as chairman of the Navy General Board Monday. He will become president of the Pacific War Memorial—a scientific foundation—in New York City.

Jack Towers was a stormy figure through much of his 41-year naval career. He led the uphill fight for recognition of air power against reactionary "battleship admirals" and through the '20s and '30s was a chief proponent of the aircraft carrier. Later he saw the latter replace the battleship as the Navy capital ship.

Native of Georgia

A native of Rome, Ga., Towers was wartime deputy commander of the Pacific Fleet and commander of the Pacific air force. Later he became commander in chief. Pacific Fleet and Pacific Ocean areas.

His retirement, the Navy said, was for age. Towers is 62.

Taught to fly by Glenn Curtiss in 1911, he was one of the first three naval officers assigned to air duties. The other two were killed in the early days, and Towers for years has taken precedence over all other naval aviators.

Set Endurance Mark

When the Navy bought its first plane in late 1811, young Towers put it through its test flights at the Navy's first air base at Greenbury Point, near Annapolis. He set a world's endurance record for seaplanes the next year of 6 hours and 10 minutes aloft.

That same year, Towers was nearly killed flying as a passenger in an open cockpit two-seater. Both he and the pilot were thrown out when the craft hit an air current over Chesapeake Bay. The latter was killed. As a result of this accident, the seat-belt, still in common use, was first devised.

Towers headed the embryo Naval Aviation Flying Corps in 1916 and was in command of the NC flying boats which took part in the historic transatlantic flight in 1919. One of the craft, the NC-4 made the first Atlantic crossing.

He was chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics from 1939 to 1942, organizing the mass production of naval planes and huge pilot training program.

Other Shifts Announced

The Navy also announced that Vice Admiral John L. McCrea, now deputy chief of naval operations, will become deputy commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet. Admiral DeWitt C. Ramsay succeeds Admiral Louis Denfield as Pacific Fleet commander, though no announcement of the shift has been made yet.

Rear Adm. Walter F. Boone has been transferred from the General Board to be assistant chief of naval operations for strategic plans.

Nearly 100 Dead in Arab Fight on Partition

President Bishara Al Khoury of Lebanon stopped in Damascus for two hours on his return from a visit to Iraq and talked with President Al Sayed Shukri Al Kowatly.

Arab informants said 3900 men and 53 women from Lebanon have volunteered to fight against Palestine partition.

In Rangoon, a mass rally sponsored by Burma's one million Moslems pledged "all practicable support" to Arab leadership as an "emphatic protest" to partition.

Sullen Peace Maintained

In most of Palestine, a sullen peace was maintained by the parallel action of Arab leaders and the British army which kept the Arabs tightly to themselves in all but the volcanic market place between Jewish Tel Aviv and Arab Jaffa.

There, however, roaring flames illuminated a battlefield where 30 Arab homes evacuated by Jewish families were set alight.

A crescent of gunfire reached from Salemeh Village to Jaffa as Arab snipers were answered by patrols of Hagana, self-styled Jewish defense army, with bombs, grenades, rifles and machine guns.

Arabs began a two-pronged attack on Tel Aviv's Hatikvah and Zablawi quarters a few minutes after Moslem congregations had streamed from Jaffa Mosques.

Hagana fighters at once sent out flanking patrols and returned the fire. Heavy explosions were heard in the Manshia quarter.

The battle raised the Associated Press count of dead for five days, however, to 25 Jews and 23 Arabs, but the Arab total doubtless is incomplete, because of disrupted communications. Hundreds have been injured.

A Hagana communique said the Arab attackers wore the uniforms of the British-commanded Transjordan Arab Legion and Najada, unofficial army of the Palestine Arab Youth Organization.

The Arabs charged Jews with raiding food shops on both sides of the boundary.

Other incidents in Palestine included the throwing of a bomb into a Haifa garage, which killed an Armenian.

A Jewish laborer was killed and a Jewish truck driver injured near Ras el Ain northeast of Tel Aviv when their truck was fired upon and overturned.

One Arab was beaten to death by Jews when found carrying a bomb on Tel Aviv's Moghrabi Square.

A Jewish civilian employe of the British army was shot and fatally wounded and a British official wounded in the thigh when two men raided a British post exchange and demanded money.

The British in an extraordinary step closed all highways south of Palestine, as far as Hebron, and north as far as Ramallah. The measure halted Arab villagers and tribesmen from jamming Jerusalem for a demonstration on the Moslem Sabbath.

Embargo Placed On Arms Shipment To Palestine

The United States clamped an embargo today on licensed shipments of arms and ammunition to Palestine and neighbor countries "in view of the current disorders in the Middle East."

Licenses granted in the last 22 months for shipments of arms and ammunition to Palestine and six other countries showed such shipments totaled in value less than $8000, official records show.

No shipments to Palestine whatever were licensed during 1946 and first 10 months of this year. Shipments licensed to Egypt during this period amounted to $1640, to Lebanon, $2820, Syria, and Trans-Jordon, none, Saudi, Arabia, $2366, and Iraq $432.

A later announcement said the embargo extended to arms and ammmunition which "may be located outside the United States, including transfers, re-transfers and surplus sales abroad of lend-lease arms and ammunition." Officials said they believed the amount of this also was small.

Potomac Board Alternates Named

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 5 (AP).—Governor Lane appointed three alternates today for Maryland members of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin.

Louis J. O'Donnell, assistant to the Governor, will serve in the chief executive's place; Dr. R. V. Truitt, head of the Department of Research and Education, for Senator Harold L. Sothoron (D., Prince Georges) and James S. Thayer, Cumberland, for George F. Hazelwood of Cumberland.

O'Donnell explained that frequently it was impossible for members of the commission to attend meetings dealing with the Potomac River basin problems.

Top Air Chiefs Meet Secretly

Devers and Eichelberger gathered at the Pentagon.

The relative youth of many Army Force top officers has led to much ribbing by thbeir odler contemporarires in the Army and Navy. One of the most famous quips is the sign put over a bar in an officers' club in the Pacific: "Air Force lieutenant colonels under 21 will not be served unless accompanied by their parents." . . .

Yesterday's announcement said that the names of those already selected for promotion to one and two-star generals will not be made public until all three boards report and President Truman approves the promotion liststs. Those on the anxious seat will have to wait longer.

Chairman of the major general's board is Gen. Joseph T. McNarney. Other members were Gen. Hoyt Wandenberg, Gen. George C. Kenney, Lieut. Gen. John K. Cannon and Lieut. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer.

Kenney heads the brigadiers' board, with Cannon, Streetemeyer, Lieut. Gen. Nathan F. Twining and Maj. Gen. St. Clair Street as other members. Maj. Gen. Hubert R. Harmon is chairman of the colonel's board, composed of Streett and Maj. Gens. Willis H. Hale, Muir S. Fairchild, Clements MacMullen and Thomas J. Hanley, jr. The generals were called in from posts as far away as Alaska for the assignment.

Marshall Asks for Statement Of Soviet Terms on Germany

of the economic burdens the German people are to bear.

He asked Molotov to be "precise" regarding the creation of conditions which would make a central German government "a living reality and not a pretense."

Still later, he asked Molotov if Russia still was insistent upon its demand for 10 billion dollars in reparations from Germany as a condition to that country's economic and political unity.

He didn't get a direct answer either to the request for "precise" conditions or to the query on reparations.

Instead, Molotov said he interpreted Marshall's statement as meaning that economic unity must come before a German government is formed, and then cited a passage in the Harriman report on the Marshall Plan which suggested the early setting up of a western German regime.

"Who is right?" Molotov asked, "the Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Harriman, or the Secretary of State, Mr. Marshall?"

Marshall denied that there was any "difference in principle" between the State and Commerce Department positions. He said the argument would serve no purpose but to consume time.

Molotov, however, insisted that it indicated a move to set up a separate regime. He said the Marshall statement of the United States position as a whole was "too narrow and hen unjust.'

He termed the Western-power agreement to raise the level of German industry "a flagrant violation' of a Moscow agreement under which he said all such matters should be handled by the Allied Control Commission.

Molotov declared that the Soviet Union believed that "fulfillment of Germany's obligations," including payment of reparations, should be insured and that only then "could correct economic relations be established between zones."

Bevin exploded at this, pointing out Britain is helping feed Germany. Reparations, he added, should not be obtained by one ally at the expense of another.

French Make Concession On Steel Production

London, Dec. 5.—Georges Bidault, French Foreign Minister, made the first real concession that has been heard of during this session of the Council of Foreign Ministers when he accepted today, with certain security and economic reservations, a steel production for Germany of 10 million to 12 million tons a year.

His offer was not a new one, for it was first made during Anglo-American-French talks last August, but it stood out this evening as the first departure from a solid position taken by any member of the Council since its session in Moscow last spring.

It brought about, therefore, general four-power agreement on a level of German industry for until recently France alone stood out against permitting Germany to produce so much steel.

J. W. Stuart Declines Candidacy for Marshal

By The Associated Press

John White Stuart, jr., of Lebonan, Va., who had the indorsement of Senator A. Willis Robertson (D., Va.), eliminated himself yesterday as a candidate for United States marshal for the western district of Virginia.

Stuart wrote Robertson that he has decided "that in the long run my best interests would be promoted by practice in the legal profession."

Robertson is considering another candidate to recommend to the attorney general for the post left vacant several months ago by the death of Stuart's father, John White Stuart, sr.

Senator Byrd (D., Va.) has made no recommendation.

Film Notables Face Contempt Trials

AFL to Seek 8-Million Fund

and authorized another levy of up to two million dollars for "emergency" needs.

John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers Union (AFL) has set up a "Labor's Nonpartisan League" but has not disclosed its political or financial plans.

Green emphasized that the AFL programs drafted by the executive committee will not violate the Taft-Hartley Act ban on union expenditures for political purposes. The law prohibits the use of union dues for such purposes, or coercion of members to contribute to a political fund.

Agree With Statement

Two members of the House Labor Committee who helped frame the law agreed with Green's statement, but one of them, Representative A. Richard Nixon (R., Calif.), was confident that labor leaders will be "overwhelmingly defeated" if they make the act a political issue.

"If they are smart," Nixon added, "they will steer clear of the law because the country, including rank and file union members, are overwhelmingly in favor of it."

Representative Gerald Landis (R., Ind.) said that once the "average union member" understands the act, he realizes that it is not "antilabor or slave labor."

"And once they know the truth," he said, "the rank and file unquestionably will have some checking to do with their own union leaders."

Green said the political league authorized its administrative committee to endorse nominees for Representatives, Senators and, "if we choose," a presidential candidate. The committee, he said, also was authorized to hire an executive director to carry out league policies.

The administrative committee will consult with State Federations of Labor and City Central Labor Unions before recommending which congressional and senatorial nominees will be endorsed. Its decision will be subject to approval of the national organization, Green said.

Work Harder, Longer, Urges NAM Head

New York, Dec. 5 (AP).—Admonition that everyone must work longer and harder and a forecast of continued pent-up demand ahead for goods was given the National Association of Manufacturers tonight at the closing session of its fifty-second annual Congress of American Industry.

Morris Sayre of Montclair, N. J., newly elected NAM president, said at his first news conference that while he was no crystal gazer, he could not "see anything but continued pent-up demand ahead."

"I don't believe any of us are working as hard as we can or ought to under the circumstances," said the 62-year-old NAM head who rose from boiler washer to president of the Corn Products Refining Co.

He said he thought it would be "a wonderful thing if the work week was increased."

In this he was joined by Charles E. Wilson, president of the General Motors Corp., who said the combination of high Government cost and need for aid abroad was "an impassable bar across the path of increases in wages without longer hours."

Moratorium Urged on Increases

One-year moratoriums on wage and price increases were urged by Lewis H. Brown, chairman of the board of the Johns-Manville Corp.

The moratoriums were part of a program he offered to "keep inflationary pressures under control."

The 3000 industrialists at the Waldorf-Astoria for the three-day congress heard Thomas S. Holden, president of the F. W. Dodge Corp., New York, a fact-finding organization for the building industry, amplify the NAM recommendation for a maximum Federal budget of 31 billion dollars for the fiscal year of 1949, one of the planks in the association's anti-inflation program.

Ceiling Placed on Foreign Aid

The NAM budget program placed a ceiling of three billion dollars on foreign aid, which Holden termed "a sufficient amount."

In his news conference Sayre said that the budget should not include "more than four billion dollars for foreign aid," explaining "we can't weaken our economy in an effort to save theirs."

Frederick C. Crawford, president of Thompson Products, Inc., Cleveland, Ohio, said that it was a fallacy to say that wage increases, without correspondingly higher production, give workers more purchasing power, and he added that President Truman is to blame for "touching off this inflation that we are fighting here."

"Mr. Truman believed it: wages are purchasing power. It is a plausible one. And he cried for a 25 per cent wage increase and touched off this inflation."

Indictments Voted Five Minutes After End of Testimony

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Acting with unprecedented speed, a District Grand Jury yesterday indicted 10 highly paid Hollywood film personalities for contempt of Congress.

True bills were handed down approximately five minutes after the last witness had testified before the jury and within 24 hours after Assistant District Attorney William Hitz started presenting the Government's charges.

Attorney General Tom C. Clark had requested speedy action to preserve the integrity of the Congressional process after the 10 had refused to tell the House Committee on Un-American Activities whether they were members of the Communist Party. Communist Party membership cards of the 10 were placed in evidence before the committee.

All but 2 of the 10 writers, directors and producers were indicted on two counts. The 8 were accused of refusing to answer committee questions on membership in the Screen Writers Guild as well as membership in the Communist Party.

Lawson, Dmytryk Get 1 Count

Screen Writer John Howard Lawson, identified by the committee as a holder of Communist Party card No. 47275, and Director Edward Dmytryk, identified in the records as holder of Communist Party Card No. 35393, were charged on one count only. Both had testified their union affiliations were a matter of public record.

The eight indicted on both counts were Dalton Trumbo, writer, whose party card number was given in evidence as 47187; writer Albert Maltz, identified as holder of party card No. 46801; writer Alvan Bessie, holder of party card No. 46836, according to the evidence; producer Adrian Scott, holder of party card No. 35394, according to the record; Ring Lardner, jr., holder of party card No. 46806, according to the record; writer Lester Cole, identified as party card holder No. 47226; writer Samuel Ornitz, holder of party card No. 41826, according to the record; and Herbert Biberman, writer, director and producer, identified as holder of party card No. 46844, according to committee evidence.

Lawson Called 'Commissar'

Lawson had been termed by committee witnesses the "director" and "the Red commissar" of Communist activities in Hollywood.

For each count of contempt, a maximum of a year in jail and/or a $1000 fine can be imposed. The minimum sentence is one month in jail and/or a $100 fine.

Thus eight of the 10 face a possible two-year jail term and a $2000 fine if convicted on both counts.

Hitz said he would recommend December 19 or January 2 as the date of arraignment and would urge that the first of the trials start in January.

Bench warrants for the 10 will be sought, Hitz said, as soon as the date of arraignment is set so that the accused can be given an opportunity to post bond for their appearance here.

Protracted Trials Likely

By mutual agreement, the defendants could consent to a joint trial, but it is regarded as highly unlikely that they will do so. Consequently somewhat protracted trials appear to be in view.

The defendants, through their counsel, have already indicated their intention of taking the cases up to the Supreme Court.

Meanwhile all have been discharged or barred from employment in Hollywood.

The jury which normally returns indictments on Monday, made a special return yesterday to comply with the Government request for speed.

June Pine notified the jury that it would be free until Monday. The jury is the same panel hearing Government charges against Maj. Bennett E. Meyers, retired, who recently figured spectacularly in hearings before the Senate War Investigating Committee. At present the Government is laying charges involving perjury and subornation of perjury (the act of getting someone else to lie under oath) before the jury.

It is expected that the Government may resume the presentation of its case against the retired AAF procurement officer Monday.

Investigation Of Durr-FBI Dispute Asked

By the United Press

Senator Homer Capehart (R., Ind.) yesterday demanded a congressional investigation of the recent row between FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and J. Clifford Durr of the Federal Communications Commission.

The proposal was indorsed at once by Durr, who started the dispute by publicly criticizing the FBI for sending the commission "unsolicited, baseless gossip" about radio figures.

The commission later disavowed Durr's statement and gave the FBI a vote of confidence. In return, Hoover canceled an order which had stopped the flow of confidential data to the commission.

Capehart described the dispute as a "Shelly case" and aimed most of his fire at Durr. He said the commissioner was trying to "sabotage" FBI efforts to uncover communism and accused him of "dereliction of duty . . . in failing to see that FBI 'tips' and 'leads' were thoroughly investigated."

Congress should direct the appropriate committee to investigate, he said, so that Hoover, Durr and other interested officials can shed some light on the "many angles" of the case.

Hearing Set On Legality Of Union Oath

Justice Wilbur K. Miller yesterday set December 19 for a hearing on the constitutionality of the Taft-Hartley Communist oath.

Miller, a justice of the United States Court of Appeals here, will preside. Sitting with him will be E. Barrett Prettyman, also an appeals justice, and Bolitha J. Laws, chief justice of the District Court.

The Taft-Hartley Act says no union has any rights before the National Labor Relations Board unless it files a financial statement and its officers swear they are not Communists and do not belong to any group that wants to upset this Government by force.

The CIO National Maritime Union filed no statement and its leaders did not take the oath. They claim it violates their civil rights. So the NLRB left the union off its ballot in an election now going on among Great Lakes sailors.

This week the union asked the District Court to order the NLRB to call off its election and hold another one, in which the NMU would be on the ballot with its rival, the AFL Sailors International Union.

Chief Justice Laws agreed that the union raised solid questions about whether the act was against the Constitution and asked Chief Justice D. Lawrence Groner of the Court of Appeals to name the two other judges to take part in the case.

Hagerstown to Get Six More Policemen

Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 5 (AP).—Police Capt. Max W. Rickard today announced plans to expand the police department by appointing six new patrolmen in 1948.

He said parents have complained of inadequate police protection before and after school hours.

Truman Goes For Swim In Atlantic

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Key West, Fla., Dec. 5.—President Truman, who sat it out on the beach yesterday, plunged into the Atlantic today.

Using his Missouri sidestroke, with head high to keep his glasses dry, he swam back and forth for 15 minutes. Afterwards he got behind drove to his quarters for luncheon and a nap.

Tomorrow, the Chief Executive will interrupt his five-day vacation here to fly to Everglades City and deliver a conservation speech at the dedication of the Everglades National Park.

In a hilarious ceremony this morning aboard the captured German submarine XU-2513, Mr. Truman was appointed a "Qualified Submariner." The honor came because of his 450-foot dive in the U-boat last November.

Lieut. Comdr. James B. Casler, skipper of the former enemy craft, presented Mr. Truman with the Dolphin Pin of the underseas service and read a scroll signed by Admiral James Fife, submarine commander of the Atlantic Fleet.

Mr. Truman chuckled as Commander Casler, reading from the scroll, said that the commission of submariner was to continue in force regardless of "the opinions and recommendations of Congress." Another paragraph read:

"And I do strictly charge and require all officers, seamen, marines, soldiers, aviators, politicians, Senators, Representatives, bureaucrats and landlubbers under his command to be obedient to his orders and respectful of his opinions as a qualified submariner."

The President, who was wearing a seersucker suit and his familiar Goshen sulky cap, awarded medals to four submarine officers for gallantry in World War II.

Gold stars went to Comdr. G. L. Street of Richmond, Va., who also holds the Congressional Medal of Honor, and Comdr. I. S. Hartman of Columbia City, Ind.

Bronze stars were awarded to Lieut. G. W. Clarke of North Bend, Wash., and Comdr. G. H. Whiting of Lumberton N. C., a prisoner of the Japanese for 20 months.

Williamsburg to Have Old-Time Christmas

Williamsburg, Va., Dec. 5 (AP).—Colonial Williamsburg will carry on in the traditional eighteenth century manner with a mammoth Christmas celebration following old-time customs.

Street caroling, the burning of the Yule log, and a "Singing Candles" service on the public green around the community Christmas tree will usher in the season. To end the holiday a huge bonfire of Christmas trees will be lit New Year's night.

Residential Bans Declared Unenforceable

The Justice Department contended yesterday that "restrictive covenants" among private citizens to bar Negroes or other minority groups from residential areas are not enforceable by the courts.

In a brief filed with the Supreme Court, Attorney General Clark and Solicitor Genreal Philip B. Perlman argued that judicial enforcement of such private agreements would violate sections of the Constitution which prohibit racial discrimination and guarantee "the right to equal treatment before the law."

Called Artificial Quarantine

Their joint brief described the covenants as "an artificial quarantine of minority groups."

They filed the brief as "friends of the court" because of the Government's asserted concern over "its responsibilities for the protection for the protection of fundamental civil rights."

It was offered in nonnection with three cases now pending in the suprmee Court from Detroit, St. Louis and Washington, D C., where the courts held the covenants to be enforceable. The cases are to be argued next Thursday, when the Justice Department has been assigned one hour to support its brief.

Letters Sent to Court

Along with the brief, the Justice Department sent the Court a series of letters recently received by the attorney general from the Federal housing and home finance agency, the United States Public Health Service, the Interior Department and the State Department, contending that the covenants were causing them difficulties.

A letter from Ernest A. Gross, legal adviser to the Secretary of State, asserted that "the United States has been embarrassed in the conduct of foreign relations by acts of discrimination taking place in this country."

Recruiting Setup Changed

Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 5.—Under a recent change, the Army and Air Force recruiting substation at Warrenton will operate under the main station here and the Counties of Fauquier and Prince William have been added to the local territory. Ten counties are now covered by the Fredericksburg station. The Manassas substation will continue to function as such under the station here.

Goal: 100 P. C.

Chairman Edward H. Foley of the Community Chest campaign says that if we don't put the drive over the top, many charities will suffer, and these will have no recourse but to make separate appeals as time goes on. The reminder is Mr. Foley's way of asking for a little extra effort to make the Chest 100 per cent full. It is directed to those of us who for one reason or another have not yet contributed. Perhaps we have been missed by the collectors. Perhaps we have somewhere around the house a request from an organization which we have authorized as the agent of our donation. All groups do not put the same amount of follow-through into the mobilization of group contributions. This is a reminder to the laggard or the merely perfunctory of these organizations, as well as an appeal to members to be their own collectors. Perhaps, also, there are some among us who clipped our donation this year; to them we invoke a second thought and another dig into the pocket.

There can be no "Let George do it" in a neighborhood effort. We are George, for the agencies that benefit from the Chest are at the service of all of us. That will be perceived when the charities, deprived of Chest sustenance, begin to limit their benefactions. In that event a separate call would not be unheeded, and for that reason we suggest taking time by the forelock and sending something to the Community Chest Federation, 1101 M st. nw. Something can be anything at this arrested 75 per cent stage of the drive, for it is the mickels, as the Scots say, that make the muckle, to wit, 100 per cent. Any Chest deficiency would be the community's—in neighborliness and services rendered, too.

Mysterious Mufti

It was Mr. Churchill himself, who conferred upon Haj Amin El Husseini the distinction of being the deadliest enemy of the British Empire. This man is the Mufti of Jerusalem—a title which makes him an official expounder of Mohammedan law. His outfit is the Arab version of the Jewish Sternists. He is reported to be back of the "irresponsible elements" (as Dr. Hussein Khalidi, secretary of the Arab Higher Committee, calls them) who are stirring the witches' caldron in Palestine—this time against the United Nations for deciding on the partition of Palestine. It is the testimony of most observers that Arab and Jew, if left to themselves, would live amicably side by side, whatever political settlement had been achieved. This, however, does not apply to the politicos, of whom the Mufti is the leader.

The history of this sinister figure dates back to the disappearance of Turkish rule after the First World War. When the Briton took over the role of the Turk, it inherited the right to name the Mufti of Jerusalem. The Jewish Sir Herbert Samuel, Britain's first high commissioner of Palestine, named Haj Amin, though even at that time he was a fugitive from justice in Trans-Jordan. He had fled there after the British government sentenced him to prison for 10 years for organizing anti-Jewish riots in Jerusalem. Why Samuel gave him the job (he was only fourth in line) was probably a move in appeasement. But, as usual when appeasement rules policy, it backfired; Haj Amin became more intransigent than ever. A scoundrel at heart, he organized new mobs, and they added to his power in the approved style of gangsterism. He is reputed to have been the mainspring in the Arab revolt of 1936, and again to have given aid and comfort to the pro-Axis and anti-British uprising in Iraq in 1941. When things became too hot for him, he escaped to Germany, and broadcast anti-British and anti-Jewish propaganda to the Middle East.

Haj Amin was apprehended in the French occupation zone in 1945, kept in detention near Paris, and escaped in early 1946. How he got away is still wrapped in mystery. Why the British did not take him over is even more mysterious. They had more reason for hanging a man who had opposed them in two world wars and who was perhaps the first of the war criminals than for hanging many of the persons whom they sent to the gallows. Yet he was allowed to escape to Egypt, where he started jockeying for control of the Arab League. He has lost none of his tricks, his gift for leadership and organization is pretty high-grade, and his hatred has never wavered against any non-Arab. Without a doubt he has a following. But King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan is itching to get his hands not only on Arab Palestine but also upon His Eminence, for the Hashimite dynasty, to which Abdullah belongs, has many a bone to pick with the rascally Haj Amin.

He's Got 'Em On A List

The awful Jovian silence of the Department of Justice has at last been broken, and the Attorney General of the United States, in a kind of papal bull, has told the American people which among their myriad voluntary associations are subversive and which, at least by inference, he considers it appropriate and acceptable for them to join. The Attorney General has brooded so long over this selection that one must assume it to be exhaustive, although he has reserved the right to add to the roster at any time. Thus it would appear that any organizations not specifically cast into the outer darkness by Mr. Clark are made up predominantly, for the moment at any rate, of true-blue Americans, loyal and beyond reproach. The omissions from Mr. Clark's list are therefore even more interesting and significant than the list itself.

The National Lawyers Guild, for example, has evidently been captured by non-Communists since 1943 when a former Attorney General, Francis Biddle, designated it subversive; so far as Attorney General Clark is concerned, this group today is no more to be suspected than the Boy Scouts of America, also omitted from his index. The Southern Conference for Human Welfare, indicted lately as a Communist front by no less an authority than the House Committee on Un-American Activities, is not so regarded by Mr. Clark; somebody must be mistaken. Senator Taft and Representative Rankin, diverse personalities of opposite political affiliation, have both denounced the American Veterans' Committee as communistic; yet the Attorney General, the supreme, irrevocable, absolute authority in such matters, says these worthy legislators were talking through their hats.

What impresses one most about the Attorney General's list is its remarkable restraint. Nobody's feelings are likely to be hurt by the inclusion of those groups, nearly half the total, which have long since gone out of business. It is safe to say that the Sokoku Kai, or Japanese Fatherland Society, has not been subverting anyone for some time, and its membership probably does not now care whether it is proscribed or not. Some of the other organizations named, the Communist Party for instance, are so brazen about their subversiveness as to be indifferent to the charge. As for the rest, Mr. Clark seems to have contented himself for the most part with ruining the reputations only of groups whose reputations were long ago ruined by common gossip or by the Committee on Un-American Activities.

The Attorney General's restraint is praiseworthy. So is his decision, or the decision of the Loyalty Review Board, to make the list public. Yet these indubitable virtues scarcely suffice to set at rest misgivings occasioned by reflection upon the vast and unrestricted power placed in the Attorney General's hands. This appointed official is authorized in his absolute discretion, subject to no appeal or review of any kind, to declare disloyal, and therefore, in effect, to outlaw, organizations which American citizens have joined in pursuance of their constitutional right of voluntary association. He is authorized, moreover, to do this on the basis of mere caprice; for no standards have been set to shape his judgment. He is authorized to do this altogether arbitrarily; for no procedure has been prescribed for him, not even the elementary device of a public hearing. Have our enemies so bewitched us that they have persuaded us to forsake the freedoms that have been the true source of our security?

Whisky Rebellion

The 60-day suspension of distilling activities into which the country's liquor manufacturers entered voluntarily if somewhat reluctantly at the request of the Citizens Food Committee will come to an end on Christmas Day. If the distilling industry is left entirely free from that time forward to purchase and consume grain in whatever quantities it desires, the effect will be at once to cause a serious shortage of bread at home, a breakdown of our grain shipments overseas for European relief and a disastrous inflation of the cost of living. It is imperative that the use of grain for the production of alcoholic beverages be curtailed and controlled in the public interest.

We do not believe that this can be done effectively on a voluntary basis. And indeed all the benefits of the present voluntary shutdown will almost certainly be dissipated if the industry is left uncontrolled. The plain truth is that the savings in grain effected during the shutdown period were largely canceled out by excessive grain consumption in the period just before the shutdown began. During the first 25 days of October, 8,164,000 bushels of grain and grain products were used in the production of beverage alcohol. This was nearly twice the amount used in the preceding month and a good deal more than twice the amount used during October, 1946. The inference is inescapable that, whatever may have been the self-restraint of individual distillers, the industry as a whole responded to the appeals for conservation on the part of the President and Mr. Luckman by stepping up its production very sharply before consenting to cut it down. If after Christmas it were to make up for lost time by consuming grain at the October, 1947, rate, the consequences would be disastrous.

Representative Francis E. Walter is quite right, we think, in feeling that these consequences can be avoided only by a mandatory continuation of the distillery shutdown. He has introduced a bill to make this possible by restoring the President's authority to allocate grain to users other than the users of grain on the farm on which the grain is raised. In the light of the record, it does not seem to us that the distillers have any reason to complain about this sort of control. In point of fact, as Mr. Walter has made plain, their interests would probably not be harmed in any way. The inventory position of the industry is now very good. It has produced twice as much whisky as it has sold during the past two years and now has stocks of whisky representing, it is estimated, a six-year supply. A continued shutdown, or at least a very stringent limitation on production for as long as the food crisis continues, should not, therefore, impose too severe a pinch. It is a pinch which, in any case, the industry must accept in the public interest.

Science Foundation

The communication from the Washington Association of Scientists, appearing on the opposite page today, is encouraging evidence that efforts are now going forward to bring to reality a national science foundation. The Washington Post has consistently supported the President's appeal for establishment of such a foundation. The assistance it would give to scientific research and to the training of young scientists is at once an indispensable link in the chain of national security and a necessary step in the promotion of peaceful progress.

Nevertheless we urged the President to veto the national science bill passed in the last session of the Eightieth Congress and were glad that he did so. That bill would have foisted on the foundation a most unsound administrative structure, one which would have made the foundation not so much a Government agency as an agency of privately controlled scientific institutes and universities. It would, moreover, have deprived the President of all authority, by taking from him the power to appoint the director, over an agency for which he would have to assume responsibility as a part of his Administration.

It would be ruinous, we think, for the President to yield on the important principle which is at stake here. The Association of Scientists seems to share our view respecting this principle. Yet its communication says that "a compromise formula now is being sought to reconcile this view and that contained in the vetoed Smith bill." The issue, it should be clear to scientists, is not one which admits of compromise.

Gas Rationing

The gasoline and oil shortage about which various officials have warned can more properly be termed a transportation shortage. Although we are exhausting our petroleum at a faster rate than new reserves are being found, there is as yet no shortage of the basic commodity. There are, however, insufficient refining facilities, pipe lines, ships and tank cars to meet the present demand, and not enough steel is now available to expand these facilities rapidly. The result is that on the distribution level gasoline and oil supplies are extremely tight. Local shortages already have been experienced, and if anything unusual occurs in weather or transportation tieups, the pinch may become severe.

To blame the scarcity on foreign shipments, as some spokesmen have attempted, reflects just plain ignorance of the facts. Total American oil exports to France, Italy and Austria under interim aid will amount to less than half of one day's domestic consumption. Our entire oil exports today are less than prewar, whereas our oil imports have more than doubled. The root cause of the shortage, of course, is simply the tremendous increase in demand, an increase which surveys have consistently underestimated. We are now using more oil and natural gas for energy than coal. This great expansion of demand has taken the form of widened use of oil heat, conversion of railroads to Diesel operation, and broadened industrial consumption, as well, of course, as the continuing increase in gasoline consumption by pleasure vehicles.

We agree with petroleum industry officials who cite the manifold disadvantages of a return to formal gas rationing. Nevertheless, it is apparent that there must be some form of conservation if supplies are to be distributed fairly and some areas are not to suffer unduly. We hope that when the Department of the Interior announces its plan for voluntary rationing, it will publicize all the facts upon which public understanding and acceptance depend. Timely self-discipline can forestall the need for more extreme measures. Meanwhile additional help could come from the restoration of the 137 Government-owned tankers not now in service. Whatever their long-time economic value to the oil companies, it is obvious that these ships can be of great assistance now in meeting the unanticipated demand.

In the last analysis the oil shortage is a timely reminder of the profligate rate at which we are using up one of our natural resources. As dependence upon oil increases, so does the necessity for husbanding our reserves. If we are not to find ourselves permanently caught short in the not too far distant future, then we must not only increase our search for substitute fuels, we must also insure that the most efficient use is made of our oil—and this means better methods of utilizing natural gas and other by-products that far too often now go to waste.

"Epilogue To Yalta"

It is with a feeling of profound regret that I feel compelled to ask you to publish in your newspaper my vigorous protest against the contents and form of your editorial of November 30, "Epilogue to Yalta."

The article tries to represent the question of the final resting place of Ignace Paderewski as a politically controversial issue. Up to now, there has been no official exchange of opinions in this matter, and no plans of any kind have ever been proposed. Thus, I do not understand the reason why this editorial was written.

We in Poland conscientiously abide by the precept that the dead should be allowed to rest in peace. The Polish government has not intended and does not intend to make use of this question of the eventual transport of the remains of Paderewski to Poland for propaganda purposes, as your editorial insinuates.

The memory of Paderewski and his genius belong to all the Polish people, and not to any special group. No one today can declare that Paderewski would not want to rest forever on Polish soil, amid the dust and coffins of six million Poles who were murdered by the German aggressor, on the soil where today 24 million living Poles are trying to build a better future for themselves and coming generations.

JOZEF WINIEWICZ,
Ambassador of Poland.

Washington.

"Dismantlement"

Your November 29 editorial, "Dismantlement," states certain important facts, namely (1) that there is ample equipment left in German factories for the production of recovery goods and (2) that it is not dismantling of factories which is keeping output so low, but a shortage of food, fuel and raw materials.

In the town of Rheine, not far from the Ruhr, where I was stationed for almost two years as director of an UNRRA DP assembly center, there were a number of cotton factories, which, although they had been bombed, were still in usable condition. In talking with several mill owners in an effort to obtain employment for DPs, I found that they were willing to assist us but because of Military Government rules they were allowed only sufficient power and fuel to operate one day a week.

Of course, raw materials, which were in short supply, undoubtedly had something to do with this one-day-a-week schedule. However, the Germans did not mention lack of factory equipment, but, rather they concentrated on how to get more food, power and fuel—the essential needs, they stated, for the rebuilding of their economy and rehabilitation of their people.

For those who have not personally seen the inertia of Germany, some understanding of the situation may be possible if they will visualize our transportation system, our mines, agriculture, finance, education, industry and government in almost complete paralysis for two years. This closeup should include the picture of all our great cities in ruins. Over this grim scene imagine ourselves wandering about hungry, sick, jobless, ragged and helpless.

Such an attempt to bring the German situation into our intimate thinking should convince us that until the Germans can work and produce with their hands, at least, we shall have nothing tangible, no human resource, that will be morally and physically strong enough to respond to our rehabilitation or reconstruction program. It should also prove, as you have pointed out so clearly in your editorial, that a shortage of food, fuel and raw materials is the basic need in Europe. There are other needs, but they are not so pressing. When men, women and children are hungry and cold, little else matters to them or to their world.

Drunkenness Arrests

Just before starting this letter, I witnessed the removal of a drunk from a house by officers of the law.

The man, obviously so intoxicated as to be incapable of rational conduct, was being "assisted" down the steps by two policemen; a third, with his nightstick ready for any contingency, brought up the rear. A fourth officer, who was waiting in the street where the patrol wagon and scout car were stationed, then strolled over to observe the proceedings. I heard stern commands to "Get up on your feet and walk!"

Not receiving immediate response to the orders given, two of the policemen took hold of the man under the armpits and half dragged him to the rear of the waiting patrol wagon. With the weight of the man's body resting on the two officers, a third lifted his feet and placed them on the rear step. The two officers then heaved the drunk headlong into the narrow opening. The sound of the body hitting the floor inside reached me where I stood across the street.

As the two vehicles moved away, a man standing near me remarked, "Now you know why so many of them die."

Laughing Gull

Allow me to call your attention to an erroneous caption attached to the remarkably fine picture in Parade of November 30. It is not a tern, but a laughing gull (larus atricilla) that is shown. This bird resembles the herring gull except for its smaller size, soot-touched head and absence of spots on the longest wing feathers.

Religion In Schools

I refer to the article in your November 29 issue concerning Mrs. Agnes E. Meyer's address urging church leaders to oppose "released time" religious instruction.

Again and again, "released time" instruction has been condemned as a violation of the principles of separation of church and state, and as a cause of religious intolerance. These arguments are specious.

Like many others who oppose "released time," Mrs. Meyer pleads for tolerance in "that one broad area," the public school system, where the child is not yet primarily a Protestant, a Catholic, or a Jew, but an American among Americans."

A Protestant is not a Protestant or an American, he is a Protestant and an American. The same applies to a Catholic, or Jew, or atheist. Tolerance does not consist in ignoring or glossing over the religious differences which exist in public schools, or in any other large group. Tolerance does consist in recognizing these differences, in respecting them, and in making a definite effort toward understanding them. Religious intolerance is invariably the result of ignorance, not of religious teaching. The man who is well grounded in his religion is more able to appreciate other men's beliefs.

Parents who want to take advantage of "released time" religious instruction for their children are actually laying the foundation for real tolerance, for, by this method, those children can be taught to respect their comrades because of their beliefs, and not in spite of them.

Since religion is an integral part of the individual's life, it certainly deserves a place in the school curriculum, and the clergy are the qualified teachers of this subject. They should not have to "batter down the doors," but should be invited to enter the classrooms, there to instruct the children in spiritual values which far outweigh any other subject in importance.

Anti-Communist Oath Delusion

I understand that it is a fundamental principle of the Communist Party that "the end justifies the means," and that it is deemed to be the duty of party members to do whatever is necessary to achieve the party's ends, and specifically to make false statements when they will serve those ends. If this understanding is correct, can it be doubted that a party member who has managed to get himself in a key position in the Government service would without hesitation sign the so-called non-Communist affidavit when called upon to do so?

Can it be doubted, therefore, that if there were Communists in the Federal service when the order was issued to require all Government employes to sign such affidavits, they are still there notwithstanding such requirement? Having signed the affidavit with alacrity, would they not have escaped suspicion and be all the freer to pursue the purposes of the party, which are reputed to be to take advantage of every opportunity to promote any measure which will tend to embarrass and weaken the Government?

If any Communists have been discovered and purged from the Government service, I venture to surmise that it has been by reason of affirmative evidence wholly apart from the making or refusing to make this affidavit. I suggest that not only does the blanket requirement of this affidavit from all Government employes not afford any real protection against Communists and communism, but it also puts the Government at a positive disadvantage in the effort to protect itself against disloyalty and subversion for two reasons:

First, it sets up a convenient barricade behind which members of the Communist Party can, with the greater safety, pursue their nefarious purposes of sabotage and subversion.

Second, it tends to create a false sense of security on the part of the Government and the people, in leading them to believe that it is a real defense when in fact it is not a real defense. As the French, by placing their dependence in the Maginot Line, found themselves at a greater disadvantage by reason of that line, may we not find ourselves the more open to insidious attack by reason of this practice?

In a rather long experience in the Federal service I have known of situations in which a few individuals engaged in practices which were wrong and in which no really conscientious and faithful employe would engage, and instead of handling those individuals directly and without gloves the responsible administrative authorities have issued a general regulation prohibiting the wrong practice. Thus generally the great body of faithful and honest employes have been needlessly irked if not actually embarrassed and offended, and very little if any (sometimes none at all) remedial effect has been achieved. My surmise is that this blanket requirement of a so-called non-Communist or anti-Communist affidavit may be but another exhibition of the inveterate administrative weakness which has been so prevalent for so long. I hope you will continue your editorial opposition.

Retreat To Private Lives

By Malvina Lindsay

Volunteer Crisis

THE WOMAN bandage roller who could scarcely wait for the war to end so she could "go back to horseback riding" apparently has done so. Postwar sufferings and perils leave her as unmoved as did the thunder on the left at the late 1930s.

She and millions of her colleagues who once served as nurses' aides, or sewed, typed, drove motor cars, performed other volunteer work for the Red Cross, Volunteer centers of Community Chests, and similar agencies, now are shopping, partying, resting, housekeeping, looking after "me and mine" again. Men who once helped in hospitals, in civilian defense, in boys groups, now have their noses sunk in business.

Meanwhile hospitals with more patients than ever are desperate for nurses' aides. Social agencies, trying to cope with postwar maladjustments, cry in vain for volunteer helpers.

Community Chest Drives throughout the country have been short on workers. Largely because of this many drives have failed to meet their goals. The poor showings in these collections and in recent church and charity giving at a time of national prosperity are all part of the same social picture. It is a disturbing one to those concerned with seeing Americans meet their problems with democratic vigor in the volunteer way.

THE WAR-IS-OVER feeling is handicapping Army, Navy and veterans' hospitals. Men in these are war's worst victims—the others are cured and gone—and are in need of many volunteer services. But with the drama of the fighting war ended, it is hard to recruit men and women to pay the civilian debt of gratitude.

More civilians are in hospitals than during the war. Many of these neglected themselves physically in wartime. Recent cutting down on protective foods by low-income groups, owing to high prices, is causing increase of patients who lack resistance to disease. The acute shortage of nurses has heightened the need for more volunteer nurses' aides, especially in public hospitals.

It is true many volunteers had good excuse for leaving service. Older women were tired, having pushed themselves in wartime. Many girls married and, together with young matrons whose husbands returned, entered the baby race. Other women took paying jobs because of the pinch of living. Men were pressed harder to support families, meet postwar business competition.

Nevertheless it has been back to trivia as usual for many former volunteers. Their social and domestic piddling has not helped the morale of volunteers who stayed on the job. These feel that any conscientious woman with leisure time could give 150 hours a year (about three hours one day or night a week), the minimum required of nurses' aides.

WHAT IS most serious is that the escape mood, which is unhealthy psychologically, runs so strong. Women's impractical fashions strikingly express a yearning for the past, for a return to the sheltered life. Married couples hanker to get away from it all in a sequestered dovecote or at least a new motor car. Social attitudes turn toward fairy tale romance, as in the recent mass excursion to dreamland via the wedding of a princess. Many solid citizens cling almost hysterically to every symbol of a familiar past.

The crisis in volunteer service reflects this mood—this reluctance to realize that life is not as usual, this refusal to come to grips with the complicated problems of "peace." Yet this may be only temporary—by necessity. For postwar dilemmas are pushing dramatically on many communities. More people are finding that private lives are luxuries they cannot afford. Some even are discovering that giving of themselves psychologically is essential to their own well being.

There are occasional significant straws in the wind. One was a glowing young woman who recently blew in on an harassed social agency secretary.

"Now that I've found a place to live and have my job under control," said the young visitor, "I'm ready to go to work."

"Doing what?"

"Oh—whatever's needed. I've worked now in four cities and I've always given a part of my time to this sort of thing. I got started in the war and now I wouldn't miss it for anything."

Interhigh Championship

I find myself unable to be thrilled by the much publicized victory of McKinley Tech over Central High which resulted in Tech's being declared the interhigh football champion of the District of Columbia.

I do not wish to be an iconoclast, but I must remind you that this title is not undisputed since three of our "separate but equal" high schools were not permitted to participate in the eliminations.

Since there are three high schools of equal standing in the area which were not allowed to compete, I question the genuineness of this signal honor which Tech has won.

I recall that some years ago a similar situation prevailed in a Texas city, where there was a champion for both the white and colored schools. The student players elected to play off the tie and establish a city-wide title. They played their game in an empty stadium except for the presence of their respective coaches and principals.

I should like to see this title played off. And I believe that the Community Chest could realize a neat sum from the event if the public is allowed to witness the contest.

Science Foundation

A Communication

IN WASHINGTON this week at least two groups of people are drafting legislation for Federal aid to science through establishment of a National Science Foundation. Their object is to devise a bill acceptable to both Congress and the Administration—which fought the issue to a draw last session—and to those even more intimately concerned, namely, the scientists themselves. Because the course of this legislation has been long and beset with controversy, real danger exists that, engrossed in the technicalities of compromise, the planners (and the public) may lose sight of the basic purposes of the legislation.

At the close of World War II there was general recognition of a need for an expansion of fundamental research and over-all coordination of scientific effort. It was understood that the actual process of scientific discovery is unpredictable and difficult to plan or coordinate. However, much can be done to plan for research by removing financial and other obstacles and insuring that no area of scientific activity is neglected. For these purposes a National Science Foundation was proposed and—initially—almost unanimously supported. It is only in terms of these essential objectives that the specific issues now being discussed should be decided. It is our purpose to review certain of these issues in this light.

THREE POINTS of past contention may be grouped together under the general heading of the divisional structure of the foundation: (1) the place of the social sciences; (2) the role of research relating to national defense; (3) the establishment of special commissions dealing with specific problems. In all three, attempts have been made to solve in the legislation problems which can only be evaluated properly through experience.

The nature of scientific research is such that plasticity and noncompartmentalization of organization are primary desiderata. To enumerate divisions for biology, medicine, national defense, etc., while pointedly omitting the social sciences, is to exclude from support one of the types of scientific activity most vitally needed today. To set up a national defense division and hedge it about with special provisions is to distort toward military application a foundation whose prime function is the support of fundamental research and thereby to worsen the existing imbalance between military and civilian expenditures in the national science budget.

To establish in the legislation special commissions for specific practical problems—cancer, degenerative diseases, infantile paralysis—would be likewise a distortion of the foundation concept, particularly in cases where Federal agencies specifically charged with responsibility for these problems already exist. We therefore urge strongly that the enumeration of specific divisions be omitted from the legislation, that provision for military research be limited to liaison with the Research and Development Board and the Atomic Energy Commission and that the establishment of special commissions be left to the discretion of the foundation board itself.

IF FUNDAMENTAL research is to be expanded, it must have new personnel and new physical plants and it must be spread more widely over the country. Funds must be kept from gravitating in toto to facilities which exist. The most nearly satisfactory mechanism proposed to accomplish this is distribution of a portion of the funds on a population and geographic basis.

Attacks have been made decrying such a provision as "pork barrel" tactics. This it assuredly is not. Basic research must be developed in all sections of the country to tap all sources of potential new scientific talent and to increase laymen's understanding of the techniques and methods of science, both on the broadest possible basis.

A more valid criticism of the proposal is that it involves applying a rigid formula to fund-distribution, thus violating the precept of plasticity. In view of the importance of such widespread distribution, however, and because such a formula would apply only to a portion of the funds, we believe the advantages of the proposal outweigh its disadvantages. We therefore urge the incorporation in the legislation of provisions similar to those of the original Morse amendment to last session's bill, insuring that smaller institutions throughout the country, both publicly and privately supported, shall receive a share of the funds.

BASIC TO the question of expanding fundamental research is the problem of recruitment and training of skilled personnel. This matter has been amply discussed and documented in the report of the President's Science Advisory Board (Steelman Report, Vol. IV). All versions of National Science Foundation legislation have included a scholarship and fellowship program designed to remove financial obstacles in the way of talented young people interested in scientific careers.

It is unfortunate that, in the face of nearly unanimous support, the Steelman Report recommends postponement of the science scholarships and fellowships pending the development of a program for Federal aid to education in general. We favor the development of a general education program and hope that science scholarships and fellowships will some day be part of it. But there is a tactical consideration: science scholarships and fellowships have been widely discussed and generally accepted in principle; the selling power of the more inclusive program is yet to be tested.

We, therefore, urge that scholarships and fellowships in the sciences be included in the present legislation, and that they be incorporated later into a general program if and when it is realized.

Finally, it is necessary to mention briefly the vexing question of the administration of the foundation. We have consistently supported the compromise achieved in the Seventy-ninth Congress, calling for a full-time presidentially appointed director and a part time advisory board. A compromise formula now is being sought to reconcile this view and that contained in the vetoed Smith bill. This measure would have given full authority, including that to name the director, to the part time board.

HOWEVER chosen, the director must necessarily be the operating head of the organization. It is important that the individual selected must be of the highest caliber, both administratively and scientifically. In the long run, the proper balance between the director and the board will be set by experience and the personalities involved. But the legislation can prejudge the issue and, to our mind, jeopardize the whole foundation, if it so limits the functions of the director as to make the position unattractive to men of outstanding ability. To give the director, for instance, only the right to veto board proposals, not the power to initiate policies of his own, is to make him something less than a true executive. Furthermore, any director of a National Science Foundation obviously will be, willy nilly, a member of the so-called "Administration family." There is no point in trying to make him a negligible member.

Three years have elapsed since a National Science Foundation first was seriously discussed. During these three years of debate and compromise, the original conception of the foundation has been attenuated by successive deletions of controversial provisions. Compromise and negotiation lie at the root of the democratic process and are essential to the workings of American government. But simple cancellation of opposing views is not compromise at its best; its final product is the form without the substance of the initial conception. There is danger that this may happen to the National Science Foundation.

Selfish Minorities And The Tariff

EN ROUTE EAST Through Texas.—The sheep growers and cattle growers of the West are rallying to maintain the tariff wall that has protected them through the years from foreign competition. They know that they can exert powerful pressures, particularly in the Senate.

Childs

Their target is the long and complicated series of tariff agreements negotiated in Geneva, Switzerland, last summer and this fall. Those agreements are a preface to the free-trade charter incorporated in the International Trade Organization. They represent a heroic victory for world sanity—a victory that the scoffers and the doubters never believed in

The United States made tariff concessions on woolens, leather goods, whisky, pottery and some other products. In return, other nations made sweeping concessions which eventually will enable American manufacturers to reach large new markets

Most important of all, the nations in the British Commonwealth agreed to modify their ironclad imperial preference system of tariffs. This was a signal triumph for the hard-working negotiators in Geneva.

CERTAINLY the United States was obliged to agree to lower some of its tariff walls. We cannot go on forever exporting our products all over the world unless we are willing to buy what other countries have to sell.

In a time of high prosperity, imports can be absorbed and the necessary adjustments can be made within the country. That is one way to promote prosperity both at home and abroad.

Consider the opposition of the wool growers and the stockmen from another angle. A minority—a powerful and highly organized minority—is campaigning to break down present grazing restrictions on U. S. public lands. This selfish minority is waging relentless warfare on the U. S. Forest Service. In their greed they threaten the very life of the land and the life-giving water beneath it.

It is asking for national bankruptcy to trade the land for a commodity that can be bought more cheaply in the world market. If wool is necessary to national security, as the wool growers argue, then let's buy it in quantity and stockpile it.

IN MY opinion, approval by Congress of the International Trade Organization is just as vital as adoption of the European Recovery Program. Congress must also renew the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act when it expires.

To do less will be to announce that this country does not believe in the restoration of free trade. Coming from the most powerful industrial Nation on earth, such an announcement would have a fateful effect.

This may be the moment to recall a little history. In 1930, Congress adopted the Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act, which pushed American tariffs to new high levels. The act was passed in spite of dire warnings of what the consequences would be. A thousand economists and experts signed a petition setting forth in detail the evils that were certain to flow from such legislation.

President Hoover approved the act, although he said he did so reluctantly. The evils that had been predicted came swiftly and in abundance.

Other nations put up their tariffs. At Ottawa, imperial preference was ratified.

The Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act was the herald of world economic collapse. In its wake came the disasters that led directly to World War II.

This time Congress would not have to pass a Smoot-Hawley Act. Mere rejection of the reasonable concessions negotiated at Geneva and failure to renew the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act would be sufficient.

The cattle growers and the wool growers are a very small minority of the American people. They must not be allowed to initiate the kind of political log-rolling which can defeat the last best hope of peace on earth.

Truman to Wear Tails At Press Reception

Key West, Fla., Dec. 5 (Special to The Washington Post).—President Truman plans to wear white tie and tails at the annual White House press reception Tuesday night.

Mr. Truman has stated, however, that either white tie or black tie will be acceptable so far as guests are concerned.

Londons, Dec. 5 (AP).—The party lineup in Commons remained unchanged today after the Conservatives won a special election at Epsom, a silk stocking district. In the voting yesterday Conservative Malcolm McCorquodale received 33,633 votes; Laborite Richard Bishop 17,339, and Liberal Scott Cairnes 4121.

Lovett Doubts Soviet 'Panic' Means Much

Reports of a wave of buying in Russia have been confirmed by the United States Embassy in Moscow, Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett said yesterday, but he said the situation "does not indicate a breakdown" of the Soviet economy.

Lovett told the Senate Appropriations Committee "it would be a mistake to attach too much importance" to the Russian "buying spree." He agreed with Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) that the United States should not be lulled by the Russian development into a sense of false security.

The Undersecretary said it was the understanding of Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith's staff that American news correspondents in Moscow were unable, because of censorship, to transmit news of the buying wave outside of the Soviet Union.

Devaluation Rumored

First word of "panic buying" was broadcast Wednesday night by the State Department's "Voice of America," which said rumors were prevalent in Moscow that prices were about to be raised and the ruble decreased in value.

Several United States Senators interpreted the news as presaging serious economic trouble for the Soviet Union. However, diplomatic authorities attributed the reported buying "panic" to popular confusion stemming from the government's plan to end wartime rationing.

Lovett said yesterday that his information was based on an uncensored cable from the Moscow Embassy. He said the cable cited many rumors prevalent in Moscow, but placed the most credibility in one which concerned "the possibility of a new currency."

Long Lines of Buyers

The cable, Lovett said, gave this picture of the situation:

Long lines of buyers have been forming at dry goods, jewelry, fur and similar shops in Moscow. Most purchases have been in durable goods. Travelers report that similar buying exists in other Soviet cities.

Moscow's main department store (Mostorg) is reported closed "for repairs" and many of its branches also are closed. Other shops are reported closed "for inventory."

Shops still open have had a "very active business and the shelves have been rather bare."

Diplomats' Reports Uncensored

Ferguson asked if there is any Russian censorship on diplomatic reports.

"No," Lovett replied.

Ferguson then wanted to know if the diplomatic agents are free "to go out and collect information such as this."

Lovett said they were not. They are restricted, he said, to certain areas and regions.

"Then it is not like here, where if Soviet agents, if they wish, may take a plane to Detroit, Chicago or any other place, or the Ambassador may do so?" Ferguson asked. "We do not have the same rights in Russia?"

"My understanding is that we do not," Lovett replied.

Fur Farmer Woes Told To Congress

By Arthur Edson
Associated Press Reporter

Congress got word yesterday that things are so bad in the fur industry that some fur farmers are down to their last silver fox—and glad of it.

Joseph H. Francis of Ogden, Utah, who owns 100 female foxes and is executive chairman of the National Board of Fur Farm Organizations, explained it all to a House Agriculture Subcommittee:

A fox is no different from anyone else. His grocery bill (horsemeat, cereals) has gone up, too. It now costs $39.80 to raise him.

But the price of a good fox pelt has plummeted to $22.30, so that the Nation's 1280 fox farmers will lose $17.50 on every pelt they sell. Fondly, but sadly, Francis looked back 10 years to 1937.

Then it cost only $26.60 for fox feeding and raising, while a pelt brought $40.23. This meant that the profits were a silver foxish $13.63.

"What has happened?" asked Chairman Reid F. Murray (R., Wis.).

"Foreign countries weren't able to ship furs during the war," said Francis. "They built up huge stockpiles. Furthermore each country has a dollar shortage, and wants to ship as much to the United States as it can.

"So they ship all their skins here. We're getting four times as many as we did before the war. And, naturally, the price has dropped."

Francis told the committee he wished it could arrange some method whereby fur farmers could borrow Government money to tide them over to better times

But even if the loans go through, he said, 300 farmers are so fed up with the whole thing they have decided to make the fur fly—and go clear out of business.

"How much money do the fur farmers need?" asked Representative Andresen (R., Minn.).

"About $1,850,040," said Francis.

"Is that all?" asked Andresen.

The talk soon shifted from sand back to foxes, but the committee never did decide what could be done, if anything.

U. S. Studies Means To Protect Citizens In Troubled Lands

By The Associated Press

The State Department said yesterday new measures to protect lives and property of about 10,000 Americans in troubled Palestine and nearby countries are being studied.

These Americans are being advised through embassies and consulates in the Middle East to refrain from any acts which may be considered provocative and from taking any unnecessary risks.

Press Officer Lincoln White told reporters he does not think a decision has been reached on actual evacuation of Americans from areas considered dangerous. White said the United States has emphasized that foreign governments have the duty to protect Americans accredited to their countries. Passports are still being issued for persons to go to Palestine.

Canada May Add Controls

Ottawa, Dec. 5 (AP).—The Canaday it might restore more price ceilings to check the mounting cost of living.

The hint was in the traditional speech from the throne to the opening of an unusual pre-Christmas session of Parliament, read by the Governor General, Viscount Alexander. The speech actually is prepared by the Canadian government.

Pointing out that the government already has restored price controls on basic canned goods because of increases "felt to have been unjustified," Alexander referred to the government's concern with price increases which have increased living costs.

The Canadian bureau of labor statistics said last night that higher prices for food, clothing and home furnishings had raised the Canadian cost of living another 1.4 points to 143.6 on November 1, compared to 127.1 last year. The index was based on a 1935-39 average as 100.

The Gallup Poll

Weight of Voter Opinion Holds Indians Get Fair Deal

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 5.—The weight of voter opinion, numerically speaking, leans toward the belief that the Federal Government is treating the Nation's Indian population fairly. However, nearly two fifths of voters believe the treatment has been unfair.

President Truman this week gave official recognition to one aspect of the problem, namely the plight of the 60,000 Navajo Indians. He will seek congressional approval for a long-range program to improve living conditions of the tribe which lives on a 25,000-square-mile tract in Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado and Utah.

To test public sentiment on the question, Institute interviewers throughout the country posed this question to thousands of representative voters:

From what you have heard or read, do you think the United States Government has treated the Indians fairly?

The replies:

|---|---|
| Treated fairly | 44% |
| Not treated fairly | 38 |
| No opinion | 18 |

Those who answered that the treatment had been unfair were asked in what way it was unfair.

Their answers:

|---|---|
| Government took land without adequate compensation | 29% |
| Promises were not kept, general ill-treatment | 22% |
| Indians don't have full citizenship rights | 10% |
| Segregation on reservations unfair | 7% |
| Indians given poor land for their reservations | 6% |
| Economic opportunities poor | 4% |
| Educational opportunities poor | 3% |
| Miscellaneous | 11% |
| Don't know | 8% |

Another questions on the same ballot was:

Do you think Indians should or should not have the right to vote in New Mexico and Arizona?

The replies:

|---|---|
| Should have vote | 80% |
| Should not | 4 |
| No opinion | 16 |

In past years a number of States had restrictions against Indian balloting, but now only New Mexico and Arizona laws continue the prohibitions. The President's Committee on Civil Rights, headed by Charles E. Wilson, recently recommended revisions of the State constitutions involved to eliminate the discrimination. The committee pointed out that Indians are now citizens, paying State and Federal taxes, and that there is, "therefore, little justification for denying them the right to vote."

Railroad Nets Off 9 Million For October

By S. Oliver Goodman

The Association of American Railroads reported yesterday that estimated net income of Class One railroads was 48 million dollars in October, compared with $57,279,514 in the same month last year.

A 15½ cents per hour wage increase for non-operating railroad employes became effective September 1. The carriers put a 10 per cent freight rate increase into effect October 13 to cover this and other increases in operating costs. They are now asking the Interstate Commerce Commission for a further 20 per cent increase in freight charges.

For the first 10 months this year, net income of Class One lines is estimated by the AAR at 364 million dollars, against net income of about 162 million in the same 1946 period. In this connection the AAR emphasized:

"Comparisons of railroad earnings for 1947 with those of 1946 should take into account the fact that the first six months of 1946 included a period of industrial disturbances, work stoppages and railroad wage increases and railroad earnings were for that reason abnormally low."

By months, net incomes of Class One railroads compared as follows:

| | 1947. | 1946. |
|---|---|---|
| January | $28,821,994 | $29,752,349 |
| February | 14,381,546 | 21,936,312 |
| March | 43,146,942 | *33,423,247 |
| April | 33,579,501 | *19,579,437 |
| May | 46,360,195 | *36,028,688 |
| June | 38,402,391 | 15,186,552 |
| July | 37,026,984 | 33,080,844 |
| August | 51,343,346 | 53,502,279 |
| September | 20,146,955 | 40,029,497 |
| October | †48,000,000 | 57,279,415 |

STORE SALES: Washington department store sales in the week ended November 29 were 6 per cent higher than in the same 1946 week, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported yesterday. For the four weeks ended the same date, local sales increased 5 per cent over the similar period last year. Regionally, store sales in the Fifth Federal Reserve District advanced 4 per cent for the week and 3 per cent for the four-week period.

HECHT SURVEY: In current survey of the Hecht Co., the brokerage house of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane says, in part: "For the fiscal year ended January 31, 1948, it appears that total sales of the Hecht Co. should exceed 70 million dollars . . . Present expectations are for net income approaching $4 per common share for the year ended January 31, 1948."

OFFERING FILED: Potomac Edison Co., Hagerstown, Md., yesterday asked Securities and Exchange Commission authority to sell competitively four million dollars of 30-year first mortgage and collateral trust bonds and to issue and sell 50,000 shares of common stock to its parent, West Penn Electric Co., New York. West Penn will pay Potomac one million dollars for the stock. Proceeds will be used, Potomac said, for property extensions and improvements. At the same time Potcmac proposes to buy 27,000 shares of the $100 par common stock of Northern Virginia Power Co., Winchester, Va., for $2,700,000 cash. Northern Virginia, part of the West Penn holding company system, will use the money for its construction program.

Holy Land Partition Theme

The Holy Land partition was the theme for Sabbath services last night in synagogues, and will be discussed at traditional Chanukah services tomorrow night.

Chanukah commemorates the rededication of the Temple at Jerusalem in 165 B. C. after the Maccabean victory over the Assyrians. The observance runs eight days.

At Ohev Sholom Congregation, 5th and I sts. nw., a Jewish State service and Chanukah observance will take place tomorrow at 7:30 p. m., together with graduation exercises for the Talmud Torah scholars. Rabbi Zemach Green will speak on "The Maccabean Struggle Goes On." Cantor Paul Gewirtz will conduct the service. Israel Bachrach will be chairman of arrangements.

WRC to Dramatize Jewish State Tomorrow

Paul Muni and other talent will participate in a "Jewish State" dramatization at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow on "The Eternal Light" program over WRC from New York City.

To Speak at Howard

Dr. Channing H. Tobias, director of the Phelps Stokes Fund, New York City, will speak tomorrow at 11 a. m. in the Andrew Rankin Memorial Chapel, Howard University. The annual candlelight service will be held tomorrow at 6 p. m.

Consecration Of Church Set

The Right Rev. Frederick Dean Goodwin, Episcopal Bishop of Virginia, will preside at ceremonies consecrating St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Arlington, tomorrow at 4 p. m.

Highlight of the service will be the burning of the church mortgage by Dr. E. Maurice Blackwell, a retired commander in the Navy Medical Corps and senior warden since 1927. Members of the parish recently conducted a church fund-raising drive in honor of Dr. Blackwell, a charter member of the church. A reception will be held for Dr. Blackwell after tomorrow's service.

Bishop Goodwin will confirm a class of candidates during the consecration rites. Assisting in the service will be the Rev. John Sadtler of Falls Church, Va., first rector of St. Mary's, and the Rev. George Tittmann, present rector and former Navy chaplain. Harry DeLashmutt and Theodore C. Hudson are aiding Mr. Tittmann in arranging the consecration services.

Rev. H. C. Letts Installation Set For Tomorrow

Methodist Couple Gives Recipe For 50 Years' Wedded Bliss

By Robert Tate Allan
Post Reporter

"We've always stayed sweethearts from the day we married; we believe in give and take, live and let live, and stick by the church."

That is the recipe for wedded bliss of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse O. Jolliff, 2130 I st. nw., who this week celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

The Jolliffs have attended Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church since 1927. He is a member of the A. B. Pugh Bible Class, and she, of the Rainbow Class. Mrs. Jolliff is a native Washingtonian and he a Virginian, and they were married in Washington by the Rev. Charles T. Cook, then pastor of the People's Tabernacle. Jolliff retired in 1940 after 41 years' service with the Bureau of Plant Industry, Department of Agriculture.

"THE REDSKINS ARE AHEAD . . ."

Dr. Jesse R. Wilson knows human nature.

"You'll be glad to know the situation is under control," he advised the Chevy Chase Baptist congregation Sunday afternoon about football-broadcast hours. Dr. Pruden whispered to me as I was coming up here that the Redskins are ahead 16-13!"

The congregation, gathered for the indoor portion of the ground-breaking rites, chuckled as Dr. Wilson, the American Baptist Foreign Society's Home Secretary, began "warming up" for his formal address.

Bible Study and Missionary Lecture by the exiled Russian Church Leader,
Rev. Basil A. Malof
President of the Russian Bible Society, on the Subject:
"Trials and Triumphs on the Russian Mission Field"
A heart stirring lesson for young and old by this veteran Russian pioneer Missionary. He will speak and sing dressed in Russian native dress. Admission free to all.

From Monday till Saturday each week, at 10 a.m. each morning, in the special Prayer Room of the Bible House, a brief, but earnest season of Bible Study under leadership of Pastor Malof, and Intercession for spiritual, physical and material needs of the people of God. We believe that God is a prayer-answering God.

Requests for prayer are coming in by telephone, mail and personally from America, Europe, India. Everybody who desires can attend these earnest morning prayer meetings, or send in their requests by mail or telephone. Address all letters to the Prayer Room, Bible House, 1400 New Hampshire Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. Send no money with your requests, for we do not pray for money, but for the glory of God. You may telephone your requests to the Prayer Secretary, HObart 9433, or DEcatur 8715. Read Jeremiah 33:3, and believe that God will do what He has promised. Our theme song is:

"My House Shall be Called of All Nations the House of Prayer." Mark 11:17.

"I believe God answers prayer,
I am sure God answers prayer,
I have prayed God answers prayer;
Glory to His Name!"

Activities With Yule Theme Scheduled in Area Churches

Activities with a Christmas accent will be held in many Greater Washington area churches tomorrow and in the coming week.

Handel's "Messiah" will be offered in its entirety next Thursday night at Constitution Hall by the Washington Choral Society, with most of the 250 choristers affiliated with various church singing groups.

Louis A. Potter once again will conduct the oratorio. As an added feature there will be 250 additional voices for the singing of the famous "Hallelujah" chorus. They will be provided by the Alexandria Choral Society, American University Glee Club, George Washington Glee Club, Covenant First Presbyterian Church Choir, Maryland University Glee Club, Foundry Methodist Choir, Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Church Choir and Faith Lutheran Church Choir.

Guest soloists, all well known in the field or stage, oratorio and radio, are Harold Haugh of Cincinnati tenor, and professor of music at Oberlin University; Barbara Stevenson, California soprano, who sang in "The Messiah" last December; Florence McGovern, Bayonne, N. J., contralto, and Julius Huehn, youngest baritone ever to sing the role of Wotan in "Die Walkuere" with the Metropolitan Opera Association.

DR. HARRY W. BURGAN, minister of Hamline Methodist Church, 16th and Allison sts. nw., tomorrow at 11 a. m. will begin a series of Advent sermons, his opening topic being, "It Occurred at Night." A sound film, "A Saviour Is Born," will be shown tomorrow at 8 p. m. at Hamline Church.

Religious News Off the 'Wires'

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 5 (AP). Bishop Charles Wesley Flint, Washington Methodist resident bishop, today introduced a resolution before the Council of Methodist Bishops, asking the House of Representatives to appropriate funds to permit the Census Bureau to resume a count of Nation's religious bodies.

The council took under advisement a request made by Dr. Paul F. Douglass, president of the American University and Dr. Joy Elmer Morgan, editor of the Journal of the National Education Association, for assistance in the construction of a public affairs center near the White House in Washington.

Douglass and Morgan told the bishops the center could be built on a site now occupied by the university and would be an asset to Protestant culture in the Capital.

Plea to Aid Germany

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 5 (AP).—The southern regional unit of the National Catholic Educational Association was told at its annual convention yesterday that democracy cannot be taught to hungry people, such as Germany's present population.

The Rev. Felix N. Pitt, superintendent of Catholic schools in the archdiocese of Louisville, declared "it will take at least two generations to reeducate the Germans in democracy. The first step is to get them in a different frame of mind by feeding and clothing them."

For Navy and United

Buddy Rogers Has Dual Role

By Richard L. Coe

PEOPLE ABOUT THE TOWN: Breakfast with Charles "Buddy" Rogers after a veddy late night (the exhibitors told him what was wrong with the movies and we wish we'd been there) . . . Despite the dignity of advanced years—a gray-streaked 43—and the shift in jobs from making mama swoon at his screen prettiness to producer status with United Artists, he still answers to the name of Buddy . . . Buddy's here on double drum-beating duty . . . As a wartime Navy lieutenant commander, he's trying to interest young lads in the Navy as a career . . . A lot of two-year enlistments will be up within the next 90 days and Buddy's taking youngsters up in his two-motor, five-passenger Cessna (it's just like Vaughn Monroe's) to suggest the glories of flying . . . He got interested in planes while making "Wings" with Dick Arlen in Texas 20 years ago . . . Couldn't fly then but had to make out he knew how . . . Wife Mary Pickford has practically no air fears whatever, which Buddy lays to her strength as a Christian Scientist . . . Other drum beating is about "Sleep, My Love," which he's just finished coproducing with Ralph Cohn for Mary's United Artists . . . Claudette Colbert, Robert Cummings and Don Ameche are the stars of this one . . . Buddy's particularly praiseful of the literate dialogue St. Clair McKelway ( the New Yorker man) has written for it . . . "Why," we asked him, "Doesn't someone shoot Don Ameche?" . . . "They do," replied Buddy, "in Sleep, My Love."

PAUL FOLEY consults weather statistics the way Astrologer Carroll Righter hawks the starry heavens . . . Paul's the 28-year-old who went from accounting to law to tax experting and then got the idea t' t in his off hours he ought to run a theater, the Airport Drive-In, which has been making money every week in this, its first season . . . "From the second week in December on," Paul tells you, "the Washington temperature average is going to hover around 32 degrees. By March, according to present forecasts, things will be warmer in this area." . . . Sooo, Paul's closing his drive-in tomorrow night for the season and plans to reopen in March . . . The area's two other drive-ins—Sidney Lust's at Beltsville and E. M. Loew's on the Richmond pike—don't plan to reopen till April, but Foley's got faith in his statistics . . . Come March, we'll see how right they are.

FRANCIS CRAIG, the "Near You" composer on the Capitol stage, has one of those success stories that gives heart to those who plod along, successfully enough, in one spot for years. . . . For 20 years he led his own orchestra in Nashville's good, gray Hotel Hermitage and now his song is the year's best-selling record and has been at the top of the Hit Parade for months. . . . Nashville's quite a place for this sort of thing. . . . Dinah Shore worked for years with the Nashville Little Theater and Phil Harris still refers to his days on his radio show. . . . Another Nashville song writer who made a dent in the bigtime this year with her "Pic-a-nicking in the Park" is Hank Fort, daughter of the late painter, Cornelius Hankens. . . . And though Grand Ole Opry, the Saturday night radio show from the Hyman Auditorium, may blanch the cheeks of the sons and daughters who call it "The Athens of the South," Nashville certainly made a name for itself this fall when the opry folks played to $30,000 on one night at Constitution Hall. ' ' ' Yes, with Craig at the Capitol is Bob Lamm, the blind singer who did so well in that "Near You" recording.

THE MOUNT Vernon Players last night opened their season of international offerings with a representative of Denmark, Baron Ludwig Holdberg, "The Fussy Man." The American-Scandinavian Foundation reports that this is the first time the comedy by "The Moliere of the North" has been played in English in this country. The run is nightly except Sundays through the 19th.

TONIGHT the Montgomery Players, the little theater group of Bethesda-Chevy Chase, is offering the second play of its nineteenth season, Paul Vincent Carroll's "Shadow and Substance." The time is 8:30 at the Leland Junior High School, 44th and Elm sts., Chevy Chase, Md. In the cast are June Wyman, Marshall Smith, Dick Vosburgh, Howard Bandy, Blanche Schnapper, Doris Vosburgh, Cecil Dowd, Irving Day, sr., Pat Dowd and Geoffrey Gwaltney.

JEAN COCTEAU'S film, "The Blood of a Poet," will be screened tonight at 8:30 in Hurst Hall on the American University campus. This is part of an ambitious winter series of events sponsored by the university's department of fine arts and the Artists Guild of Washington, and is the first showing here of the Cocteau film. Some 13 years old, "The Blood of a Poet" is reported to be in the "best style of abstract art . . . using the symbolism of object relationships and sound."

THIS MORNING, besides the usual Children's Film Library offerings at the Warner neighborhood houses, both the Apex and the Naylor will be featuring special performances for children. That grand horse picture from Will James' book, "Smoky," is the feature at both houses, as well as a half hour of color cartoons. The Naylor opens at 10, the Apex at 10:30.

TOMORROW: Richard L. Coe reports on Emmet Lavery's new play about a Congressman, "The Gentleman From Athens."

New Mercury Isotope Allows World's Tiniest Measurement

The smallest precision measurement ever attained—one one hundred millionth of an inch—has been reached by the National Bureau of Standards.

To do it, Dr. William F. Meggers submitted gold to bombardment by neutrons and produced a mercury isotope not found in natural mercury. The new substance, called mercury 198, emits a single wave of green light. The green wave was isolated from the mercury spectrum because the human eye is more sensitive to that color.

Dr. Meggers of the bureau's spectroscopy section is now designing auxiliary equipment to measure one billionth of an inch.

Meter Bar Outdated

Use of a light wave for such refined measurements virtually antiquates the meter bar—kept in a Bureau vault as the legal length standard in the United States. Research laboratories have been using light waves for special types of length measurements for several years, but never to the refinement reached at the Bureau of Standards.

Advantages of light-wave standard over a physical length standard are twofold, according to Dr. E. U. Condon, Bureau director. Any laboratory with the necessary auxiliary equipment can have a basic standard "on the premises." The light-wave is indestructible and exactly reproducible.

Dr. Meggers' "discovery" was in his mind as early as 1931, when he suggested that an ultimate length standard could be obtained if it were possible to separate one of the mercury isotopes from the others. No means existed at that time, however, for such separation on an adequate scale.

Gold Bombarded

In 1942, the Bureau obtained 40 ounces of proof gold; exposed it to neutron bombardment in the University of California cyclotron.

Although only microscopic amounts of mercury 198 were produced, they were sufficient to indicate that light radiations of sharpness and clarity were possible.

First real success came in 1945, when the gold was taken to Tennessee and given another neutron bombardment. The Bureau distilled about 60 milligrams of mercury 198.

While the Bureau seldom is called upon for such exacting measurements as the Mercury 198 light wave will attain, Dr. Meggers said they are looking forward to research problems where more refined measurements are required.

Broadcasters Seek Facilities For Nationwide FM Network

Network transmission facilities will be sought to carry FM broadcasts across the Nation, the FM Association announced yesterday.

A resolution authorizing Leonard H. Marks, the association's general counsel, to seek procurement of common carrier network facilities for FM was adopted here Wednesday at a meeting of the association's executive committee.

The committee declared that, "As yet there are no line facilities available on a large scale to FM networks. Despite that drawback, however, at least eight regional networks, linked mostly by radio relays and the rebroadcast method, have came into existence," and more are under way.

More Than 340 FM Stations

Transmission facilities to be sought will be telephone lines or other circuits capable of handling frequencies up to 15,000 cycles, to connect regional networks into Nation-wide chains.

At present there are more than 340 FM stations on the air and within a year there will be more than 1000, the association said.

"FM stations," it was pointed out, "are denied the popular ordinary network programs containing music. The FM Association does not feel, however, that duplication of established programs on AM and FM stations is the solution to the public need.

"FM offers an opportunity to fill that need with new types and better programs."

FM Shows a Profit

Broadcasting of FM is "beginning to show a profit," the association said, while "scores of FM stations" are breaking even financially, with the industry's growth "far beyond the most optimistic predictions of those who pioneered it."

Gross revenue from manufacturing FM sets should reach 400 million dollars within a year, with investment in FM broadcasting facilities reaching 100 million dollars, said the association. "By early 1948 reasonably-priced FM sets in large quantities will be rolling off production lines."

Chief Rapillo, Meters Ousted At Same Time

Berlin, Md., Dec. 5 (AP).—Police Chief Jerry Rapillo was permanently ousted from office today, and the city's controversial parking meters installed under his regime went out with him.

Elmer C. Shockley, 52-year-old former police chief, has been permanently appointed to the post and Rapillo's "short leave of absence" extended indefinitely, it was disclosed by a city official who declined use of his name.

He said the City Council issued an order to remove the meters.

Businessmen Protested

A former boxer known as "The Patent Leather Kid," Rapillo's "tough" law enforcement methods during his two months on the job resulted in a mass meeting of local businessmen November 21, shortly after Storekeeper William Rayne got a parking ticket.

The citizenry said they didn't want any "foreigners" on the Eastern Shore (Rapillo comes from Washington, D. C.) and asked for removal of the parking meters, too.

Berlin youngsters held their own mass meeting an hour later, crying, "We want Rapillo."

He had become a teen-age hero after organizing several boys' clubs and a children's band.

Rapillo took a "vacation" the next day, and President Bowen Quillen of the city council explained "in the best interests of the town . . . the council thought best if Rapillo refrained from duty for a few days."

Two Agree to Remain

Patrolman William Lynch has agreed to return to the force, and William Weakley, acting chief since Rapillo's leave began, agreed to stay on.

The town's three patrolmen quit shortly after Rapillo took office, and Rapillo commented: "I guess I was too tough." Later, two returned.

After the mass meetings two weeks ago, Rapillo said, "the kids in Berlin and their parents are for me. What I am trying to do is stop child delinquency. I cannot do it alone and I need the help of the citizens and the council."

Judge Not Lenient In Light of Coat's Color

Baltimore, Dec. 5 (AP).—Sure, said Joseph Ferri, he carried an overcoat from the third floor of a department store to the main entrance.

But, he told Magistrate Preston A. Pairo, he did not—as a store detective claimed—intend to shoplife the garment; he just wanted to see it in the light.

"I am color sensitive," he said.

The judge ordered him held in $500 bail.

Public Welfare Office To Be Clearing House

Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 5.—Mrs. Alis L. Bailey, superintendent of public welfare, said today that her office would serve again this Christmas as a clearing house for distributing gifts for the needy. Churches, clubs, other organizations and individuals may obtain from Mrs. Bailey the names of persons and families in want, thus avoiding overlapping and duplication of giving.

"MISS MODERN FARM"—Here's one answer to that old question, "How you gonna keep 'em down on the farm?" She's Pat Varner of Chicago Heights, Ill., chosen "Miss Modern Farm" from a field of eight contestants at National Farm Show in Chicago. Candidates were sponsored by exhibitors of farm equipment at show

Hospital Board Sustained On Contract

Richmond, Va., Dec. 5 (AP).—Attorney General Harvey P. Apperson ruled today that the State hospital board was within its legal rights in its recent "emergency" award of a contract for some three million dollars of construction at Eastern State Hospital, Williamsburg.

Apperson's opinion came in response to protests filed by Beecher E. Stallard of Richmond, a member of the House of Delegates, and Lee Ford, Newport News attorney. They said they were acting in behalf of Paul F. Baker, sr., of Richmond, identified only as a citizen and a taxpayer.

Stallard and Ford appeared before the hospital board November 13, to ask for reconsideration of the award. The contract went to the J. Kennon-Perrin Co. of Richmond on a cost-plus basis with a fixed fee of $47,000.

Club to Present Play

Harrisonburg, Va., Dec. 5.—The Stratford Dramatic Club of Madison College will present "Ladies of the Jury" at 8 p. m. next Friday in Wilson Auditorium. The performance is under the direction of Dr. Mary E. Latimer, professor of speech education.

9 Md. Youths Awarded 4-H Scholarships

Chicago, Dec. 5 (AP).—Delegates from Maryland today held 9 of a total of 103 college scholarships valued at $200 each to lead all other States in scholarship awards at the National 4-H Club Congress.

Maryland's closest competitor was Oklahoma, whose delegates received eight scholarships. The Maryland winners:

Howard S. Streaker, jr., West Friendship; Kenneth T. Bosley, Sparks; Mary Wysong and John W. Wysong, Forest Hills; Barbara Ann Young, Middletown; Frederick A. Fry, Gaithersburg; Gulie J. Keller, Jefferson; William Dorsett, Sellman, and Clifton H. Giddings, Nutwell.

They were all winners in national contests in which the 1253 delegates competed.

Maryland Youth's Idea Puts $612 in 4-H Fund

Chicago, Dec. 5 (AP).—A suggestion by Robert Bull of Harford County, Maryland, brought in $612 at the national 4-H Club convention for sending food packages to Europe.

Bull proposed the collection to 1400 fellow farm youths after brief talks by youths from England, Canada, Uraguay and China.

Bull was a member of the International 4-H Club panel which resolved 4-H clubs must help to build a better world community.

Calvert Fire Auxiliary To Install Officers

Leonardtown, Md., Dec. 5.—New officers of the Calvert North Beach Women's Volunteer Fire Auxiliary will be installed next Thursday. Mrs. Heber MacWilliams is president of the group. Other officers are Mrs. Harold Tochtee, Mrs. Donald Graves, Miss Betty Kerns Mrs. B. R. Holmes, Mrs. Charles Smith and Mrs. Clarence King.

Md. Senators Make Own Oyster Study

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 5 (AP).—Maryland Senators who have heard legislative halls ring with oyster oratory had afirst-hand view of bivalve tonging and dredging in the Chesapeake Bay and the Choptank River today.

Under the guidance of experts of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission and the Department of Research and Education, the Senators watched the methods watermen use inN wining a livelihood from the chilly waters.

Besides the practical view of operartions, the Senators heard talks on oyster problems, illustrated with slides.

Speakers included John E. Clark, chairman of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission; David H. Wallace, executive secretary; shellfish culturist Ralph C. Hammer and G. Frangis Beaven of the Department of Research and Education.

Alen G. Sollers, another member of the commission, made the trip and George T. Harrison, the third member, joined the group at Cambridge, where they remained overnight.

Those on the State ship Potomac included Senators Bailey (R., St. Marys), Beck (D., Caroline), Bolton (D., Baltimore County), Byrnes (D., Balto. 5th), Davis (D., Montgomery), Ellison (R., Balto 4th), Fraley (R., Garrett), Hofferbert (D., Balto. 1st), McAllister (R., Dorchester), O'Neill (R., Hartford), Stromberg (D., Howard), Dr. Horace E. Fleck, director of the Legislative Reference Bureau, and William W. Travers, a former State senator and now a member of the State Tax Commission.

Surplus Buildings To Go on Sale at Proving Grounds

Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., Dec. 5.—Temporary frame buildings here will be sold to private buyers. The structures, with installed equipment, are to be dismantled and removed by the purchasers.

Sealed bids will be received until 1:30 p. m. December 30, and publicly opened in the office of the district engineer, Baltimore District, Corps of Engineers, 24th st. and Maryland ave., Baltimore.

Among the buildings which will go on the block are barracks, mess halls, and supply buildings. Invitations for bids may be obtained from the Office of the District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, Department of the Army, P. O. Box 1715, Baltimore 3, Md., and the Office of the Post Engineer, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

Rev. Schlotzhauer To Be Installed by Manassas Parish

Manassas, Va., Dec. 5 (Spl.).—The Rev. H. Earl Schlotzhauer will be installed as pastor of the Manassas parish at services at 7:30 p. m. Sunday at Bethel Evangelical Lutheran Church here.

The services will be conducted by the Rev. William E. Eisenberg, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, Winchester, and president of the Shenandoah Conference of the Synod of Virginia. He will be assisted by the Rev. L. C. Sparks, pastor of the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Front Royal.

The Manassas parish includes Bethel Church, Mount Zion Church, Nokesvile, and St. Lukes Church, Culpeper. Mr. Schlotzhauer has previously served parishes in Allentown, Pa., and Shenandoah, Va.

Turkey Shoot Today

The Kensignton, Md., fire department will sponsor a turkey shoot at 1 p. m. today at Garrett Park rd. and Maple ave., Kensington. Maynard L. Hawkins, assistant fire chief, will act as judge.

County Files Plea

Assessment Review Case Appealed

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 5 (AP).—Attorney Benjamin Michaelson, solicitor for the Anne Arundel County Commissioners, today filed an appeal from a court order that they hear Justin G. Buch's complaint regarding 47 alleged unfair assessments on county properties.

Michaelson filed the appeal after Judge James Clark ruled that Buch had the right to a hearing before the commissioners.

Buch, representing the Citizens Protective Association, had alleged that the properties were assessed too low by county authorities and in a suit in the County Court sought to force the commissioners to hear him.

Judge Clark said, "The petitioner is entitled to the hearing demanded as a matter of right," adding his writ of mandamus would make no attempt to mould the commissioners' subsequent decision.

The case on the Court of Appeals docket was listed as No. 142. When the court reconvenes next Tuesday it will be dealing with cases numbered in the sixties, so it probably will be sometime before the appeal is heard.

VEPCO President Denounces REA "Spite" Charges

Richmond, Va., Dec. 5 (AP).—J. G. Holtzclaw, president of Virginia Electric & Power Co., today denounced as "wild and reckless" charges made by Allan Arness, field representative of the Rural Electrification Administration, that VEPCO was engaged in "vicious spite-line" building to kill off a newly formed electric cooperative.

The co-op in question is the Chickahominy Electric Cooperate, established to operate in Hanover, James City, Charles City and New Kent Counties.

Arness declared that VEPCO sent line crews into this territory as soon as the cooperative was organized "to skim off the cream" of the territory. VEPCO has announced its opposition to the co-op's first application for a loan from the REA, and has indicated that this opposition will be expressed at length at a public hearing before the State Corporation Commission December 12.

Virginia Potato Crop To Be Cut 13 Per Cent

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 5 (AP).—The 1948 potato goal for Virginia will be slashed by 13 per cent as compared with last year, Dr. Edwin C. Cake, executive secretary of the Association of Virginia Potato and Vegetable Growers, announced today.

He said R. B. Bridgeforth, chairman of the production and marketing division of the Department of Agriculture, has been advised of the cut for Virginia growers from 34,700 acres to 32,200 acres.

State Auditor Makes Report On Winchester

Richmond, Va., Dec. 5 (AP).—State Auditor J. Gordon Bennett recommended today that the treasurer of the City of Winchester furnish a copy of the list of delinquent real estate taxes to the clerk of the court, and that he be required to hold annually land sales as provided by the Virginia Code and to make a report to the court clerk.

In an audit of the accounts and records of the various officials of Winchester, Bennett stated:

"In verifying the securities pledged for the protection of city funds on deposit in banks, we determined that the collateral pledged for these funds in one bank was deficient during the entire six-month period, in amounts ranging from $26,950.71 to $45,912.34, and in another bank during the entire six-month period in amounts ranging from $63,592.17 to $119,734.42.

For Protective Steps

"We point this out for the benefit of the treasurer and the council and recommend that in the future they take the necessary steps to see that the funds of the city are amply protected at all times."

The audit covered the period from January 1 through June 30, 1947.

The auditor noted that all accounts and records were satisfactory, and also revisions in the system of accounting were made as of January 1. Bennett also noted that the system, as revised, appeared to be functioning smoothly "and that the personnel charged with the responsibility of maintaining it have been diligent in their efforts to become familiar with the changes in operations."

Overpayment Noted

The auditor also noted that an overpayment of school warrants amounting to $100 occurred in January of 1946 through an error, and that the bank was unable from its records to determine whether excessive payments had been received. Bennett said the city treasurer to investigating, and recommended that the council take appropriate action to recover the money.

Audit reports of the accounts and records of five trial justices also were sent to the Governor's office today. All were described as satisfactory. They covered Jesse B. Wilson, Albemarle County, for the year ended June 30; James Ashby, jr., Stafford County; A. E. Cooley, Carroll County, and C. Lacey Compton, Prince William County, all for the same fiscal year ended June 30; and Harold M. Gouldman, jr., King George County, from March 15 through June 30.

Delegates Elected

Leonardtown, Md., Dec. 5.—Mrs. Frances Bevans and Mrs. Everard Briscoe of the Calvert County Garden Club have been named delegates to the Conservation Committee of the Maryland Federated Garden Clubs.

Annapolis, Goucher Singers in 'Messiah'

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 5 (AP).—Members of the Naval Academy choir will rehearse with the Goucher chorus tomorrow at the college in preparation for the presentation of Handel's "The Messiah" next week.

The group will be accompanied by Chaplain Everett P. Wuebbens. Frederick D. Jackson of Durham N. C., will be the midshipman in charge.

Man Sent to State Farm Day After His Release

Richmond, Va., Dec. 5 (AP).—Released from the state farm yesterday, Thomas Gilpatrick rushed back to Richmond to get his Christmas shopping done early — but neglected to pay for the merchandise he took.

As a result, Gilpatrick was on his way back to the farm today.

Gilpatrick, 43, of Boston, Mass., was convicted in police court today on a charge of stealing $37.40 worth of mechandise. His sentence—six months at the state farm and a $50 fine.

Louis Survives Battering, Rallies to Retain Title

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

FOR THE BOSTON BRAVES, who bought Jeff Heath from the Browns, it may not be a more abundant life in 1948 but it carries high promise of being a more interesting one. In Heath, the Braves acquired the biggest pair of shoulders in baseball, a player who bats left handed, throws right handed, and reacts both ways.

POVICH

Heath is as famous for his shortcomings as he is for his home runs. Our favorite Heath story is the one they tell at Cleveland where Manager Lou Boudreau upbraided Left Fielder Heath in disgust one day after he made no move to catch a fly ball hit into his territory.

When the Indians finally retired the side, Boudreau sent Heath to the dressing room, but in the midst of a Cleveland rally he was desperate for a hit and recalled Heath to take his turn at bat. Big Jeff got the hit that broke up the ball game, and Boudreau was in a forgiving mood.

"Great stuff, Jeff," he said, "but why didn't you try for that ball that dropped in front of you?"

Whereupon Heath replied, "Don't ask me why, Lou. I was hoping you'd tell me why."

HEATH WAS Oscar Vitt's biggest disappointment. When Vitt moved up from Newark to take over the management of the Indians in 1938, he proclaimed Heath as a better player than Charley Keller, the International League sensation who was going up to the Yankees that year. "I wouldn't trade Heath for Keller in an even swap," said Vitt.

Big Jeff had some whopping years, as in 1941 when he hit .340 for Cleveland, banged 24 homers and batted in 123 runs. But over a stretch of five seasons he landed within the .300 circle only once. He never did quite measure up to be the devastating hitter they thought he would become, and at the end of the 1945 season he was traded to Washington for George Case.

At Cleveland, Heath complained that the Indians' move to Municipal Stadium with its distant fence in right center, handicapped him, and in Washington he found the same complaint with the fences. He visioned the day when he could play in Yankee Stadium or Detroit with its inviting home run territory in right center, which was his power sector.

HEATH'S PREFERENCES for certain parks were well known, even among the Cuban fans who are avid readers of the Sporting News, so-called Bible of baseball, and the Havana customers were curious about Big Jeff when the Nats trained there in 1945. Heath took one look at the fences in Tropical Park and said, "I don't like to hit in this park."

And so it was that when Heath, playing left field for the Nats, staggered around under a fly ball and finally dropped it, a loud-mouthed Cuban fan near the press box yelled, "Beeg Jeff, he no like to field in thees park, either."

There never was any question of the big fellow's hitting power, however. Unfortunately for him, he wasn't a dead-pull hitter. In disgust he used to watch his long drives to right center, dead center and left center, fall into the gloves of outfielders who were playing far back. In Braves Field, with its shortened fences, however, he'll get a better break.

UMPIRE CAL HUBBARD always called Heath the best fast-ball hitter in the American League. It was knowledge shared, however, by the league's pitchers, and only the boldest and more foolish pitchers would throw him a fast ball. He saw a steady diet of curves, and his swing wasn't geared to the slow-breaking stuff.

In a year when Heath batted only .248 for the Browns, he pounded out 27 home runs last season, however. He failed by only four homers to tie Ted Williams for top billing in that department, and Joe Gordon was the only other man to top him in homers. It's another commentary on the strangeness of the waiver rule that permits a batter of Heath's power to slide out of the league.

Any American League club could have claimed Heath for $10,000, but they expressed no interest in the player whom the Braves deemed to be worth $30,000, according to reports. The Braves, apparently, are willing to abide Heath's unpredictability in the field on the evidence that he can ride that ball a long way.

Champ Gets Nod After Foe Floors Him Twice

By Gayle Talbot

Madison Square Garden, New York, Dec. 5 (AP).—Joe Louis survived two knockdowns tonight to defeat Jersey Joe Walcott in a gruelling 15-round fight and retain his heavyweight championship.

A stunned crowd of 17,000 people saw the champion go down for a count of two in the first round and again for a count of seven in the fourth.

ROUND ONE

ROUND TWO

California 'Dew-Storm' Greets Arrival Of Notre Dame But It's Still Favored

By Bob Myers

Los Angeles, Dec. 5 (AP).—Greeted by one of Los Angeles' famous demonstrations of "unusual" weather, the Irish of Notre Dame arrived today and their coach, Frank Leahy, matched the gloom of the skies in predicting the outcome of their annual football game with the University of Southern California.

Rain by the tubfull, with attendant thunder, lightning, hail, snow and one injudicious thrust by the sun, bit Los Angeles as the 40-man squad stepped from the train, and the weatherman chimed in with a warning for both teams and some 100,000 fans.

Reversing a previous forecast, the bureau said heavy rains were due overnight and the skies probably will be drippy during the game.

The weatherman was cheerful compared to the Irish mentor, however, who declared:

Leahy Challenges Odds

"Everything points to a Southern California victory tomorrow."

He enumerated a long list of worries and handicaps, and said he couldn't understand why his undefeated, untied warriors, frankly bent on capturing the mythical national collegiate grid title this year, reign as 13-point favorites to topple the Pacific Coast Conference champions.

Across town, the scene at USC was one of restrained celebration for homecoming week. Jeff Cravath, Troy's coach, knows what he has and what he lacks.

Chief lack is his first string right tackle, Bob Hendren, who is out of action with a broken jaw. His absence will be felt, but otherwise the Trojan team is intact.

"We can win if we get a break and don't make any mistakes, but naturally Notre Dame, off its record, deserves to be called the big favorite," Cravath said.

One of the most interested spectators will be Fritz Crisler, whose Michigan team plays USC in the Rose Bowl, New Year's Day.

Fighter or Not, He's Still Alive

Any heavyweight championship fight is the signal for boxing fans to bombard The Washington Post sports department with a thousand different questions.

Last night, however, one anonymous caller won the Oscar. After inquiring whether the Louis-Walcott fight would be broadcast, he asked:

"One more thing. Is George Bernard Shaw dead?"

The fellow at this end of the line muttered a meek, "didn't quite get you" and the caller's reply was:

"Oh, skip it. He's a writer, not a fighter."

George Pilots Colts

Richmond, Va., Dec. 5 (AP).—Charles (Greek) George, former catcher with the Cleveland Indians, has been signed to manage the Richmond Colts in the Piedmont League, the Times-Dispatch said tonight.

Demaret Leads Orlando Golf

Orlando, Fla., Dec. 5 (AP).—Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., veteran campaigner on the pro circuit, led the field by a stroke today at the halfway point of the $10,000 Orlando Open Golf Tournament.

Demaret toured the 6454-yard Dubsdread Country Club course in 32, 35—67, 4 under par, today to add to his first-round 68 for 135.

Within four strokes of Demaret are 23 other entrants of the 61 who will battle over the remaining 36 holes—18 tomorrow and 18 Sunday.

Three of these 23 are one stroke behind Demaret with 136s. Amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo fired a 69 and Ed Furgol of Detroit and Pete Cooper of Ponte Vedra Beach had 68's today.

Another stroke back are Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio; Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C.; Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., and Frank Moore of St. Louis.

Herman Scharlau, Bloomington (Ill.) pro, who is one of seven bracketed at 138, had the best round today—34, 32—66.

Yesterday's coleaders, Jerry Goss of Savannah, Ga., and Dave Douglas of Wilmington, Del., fell back. Douglas took 72 strokes today to total 138 and Goss skied to 76 for a 142 total.

20-Day Meetings

Three Tracks Get Trotting Race Dates

Baltimore, Dec. 5 (AP).—The Maryland Racing Commission today took another step toward inauguration of harness racing in the State next summer by assigning tentative meeting dates to three tracks which it has indicated it would license.

If there are no hitches between now and then, the Rosecroft Trotting and Pacing Association will open the season next May 22 on a new raceway it is building at Oxon Hill, in Prince Georges County on the outskirts of Washington.

Rosecroft was assigned the period from May 22 to June 19 for its 20 nights of racing.

Near Laurel Park

The Laurel Harness Racing Association, which plans a track across the Washington-Baltimore Boulevard from the Maryland Jockey Club's 1-mile flat racing oval at Laurel Park, was assigned June 21 to July 19.

Ocean Downs, being built just off the main East-West Highway outside Ocean City, was assigned July 20 to August 17.

The three tracks, if their raceways are ready to go and they can demonstrate their financial stability, will each be licensed for 20-day meetings, but the periods assigned them are 25 or 26 days.

Stuart S. Janney, jr., chairman of the racing commission, explained this is to allow for Sundays, on which racing is prohibited, and for days when the tracks are too slippery for the sulky sport.

Maryland's 1947 General Assembly authorized the commission to permit 100 days of harness racing each summer with pari-mutuel betting, but the commission has indicated it would issue licenses for only 60 days the first year.

Applications by several groups were turned down.

The dates for 100 days of flat racing at Maryland's four major tracks and another 50 days at five half-mile ovals have not yet been set for 1948, but if this year's schedule is followed there will be some periods in which the State has both flat and harness meetings under way.

The Rosecroft dates correspond with four days of the customary Havre de Grace meeting. Ocean Downs would overlap the meetings at the Hagerstown and Bel Air half-mile tracks.

Blaik Seeks Berth for Son

Earl "Red" Blaik, Army football coach, conferred with Representative Burke (R., Ohio) yesterday over the possibility of an appointment to West Point for Blaik's 18-year-old son, Robert.

Blaik maintains his legal residence in the Third Ohio Congressional District, which Burke represents.

Burke said that at the present time he has no more appointments to make for the Army school for next year, when young Blaik will be ready to enter, but that he is attempting to get another.

Burke has the right, as a member of Congress, to make appointments for 1949. He said he is attempting to get any one of these moved up a year.

Young Blaik now is a senior at Phillips Academy at Exeter, N. H., where he was quarterback of the football team. The Army coach, a West Point graduate, has another son, an Army corporal now stationed in Germany.

Brooks Name Pilot Today; Probably Durocher

Brooklyn, Dec. 5 (AP).—Leo Durocher's fate, the subject of wordy conjecture for eight months, will be determined at 11 a. m. tomorrow morning, when President Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers announces his 1948 manager.

The last obstacle to Durocher's appointment was removed today when the Catholic Youth Organization withdrew its objections.

Rickey cleared the stage for his announcement with a series of lengthy conferences involving all concerned parties.

Burt Shotton, who piloted the Brooks to the pennant after Durocher was suspended by Commissioner A. B. Chandler for the season, met with the big boss in his office.

Secrecy Surrounds Session

Ray Blades, Clyde Sukeforth and Jake Pitler, the three coaches who started the 1947 spring training season with Durocher and finished under Shotton, also were closeted with Rickey for a long meeting.

When it was all over Rickey said they had discussed the managerial situation and talked over a series of trades that he was considering. One of these is expected to send Dixie Walker to Pittsburgh, sometime next week during the major league meetings.

After Shotton and the three coaches learned Rickey's decision, they were whisked away to an undisclosed location to await the last act of the drama. Rickey had taken such precautions as having some of his men register under false names. Some, however, were expected to attend the Joe Louis fight.

Durocher, the central figure of the case, had been careful to avoid the public eye since his arrival from the Pacific Coast. He talked with Rickey for two days at his Maryland farm and huddled with him again today, presumably at the boss' apartment.

Six weeks before Chandler suspended Durocher April 9 "for conduct detrimental to baseball," the Brooklyn C. Y. O. announced it was withdrawing its support from the Dodgers Knothole Gang because it did not consider Durocher suitable to act as an example for the youth of America.

The Rev. Vincent J. Powell, diocesan director of the organization, declared today that if the Dodgers rename Durocher they "must have evidence and must be convinced that he will be a proper manager" if the Dodgers want the CYO's support.

Father Powell also said:

"It is to be hoped that Durocher, if hired, will recognize the honor bestowed upon him as a public leader and will live up to the responsibilities."

Chandler Bigger Factor

The CYO attitude, undoubtedly, was considered in the Brooklyn situation, but Dodger officials insist that the real issue all along has been the attitude of Chandler.

Ricked visited the commissioner earlier in the week and issued a statement that was interpreted to mean that he had been given the "green light" from Cincinnati.

It is expected that Chandler will match the Brooklyn managerial announcement, with a statement of his own clarifying Durocher's status with his office.

Through his secretary, Walter Mulbry, he already has indicated in a letter to Leo that Durocher is free to negotiate for his 1948 services.

Naming of the Dodger pilot will round out the big league managerial situation. The other 15 clubs have committed themselves.

'Skins Prep For a 'Cold' Giant Game

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

RYE, N. Y., DEC. 5.—Sleet and below-freezing temperature gave the Washington Redskins a cold reception as they took their first of two workouts at Westchester Country Club today in preparation for their Sunday date with the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds.

After an hour and a half workout Coach Turk Edwards called "enough" and began worrying about injuries.

"So far we're in good shape," Edwards announced, "unless you call a slight twist of the fingers on Sammy Baugh's pitching hand a major injury. If we can only avoid further damage . . ."

From New York, meanwhile, a Giant communique boosted Redskin hopes for victory in their next to last game of 1947. Tackles Jim White and Frank Cope, mainstays of the Giant forward wall, were declared finished for the season with injuries received last week in the team's upset victory over the Chicago Cardinals. Center Chet Gladchuk was called a doubtful starter with leg injuries.

SUNDAY'S CROWD, for a game which always before has had an important bearing on National League standings, promises to set a record—for smallness. In comparison to last year, when 60,337 watched the final battle at the Polo Grounds, a mere 35,000 is anticipated.

The teams' records can be blamed. Although it has improved somewhat, Washington has lost seven of its 10 games for a new all-time low. New York's triumph last week was its first of the season.

But behind the teams is as thrilling a series as the National League boasts. Since 1937 the Redskins have won eight, lost 12 and tied one, the latter being the only scoreless tie in Redskin history as the 1939 season opened. Other high spots have marked the series . . .

The Redskins played their first game in the Capital against the Giants. Riley Smith scored all points in a 13-3 Redskin victory. . . . Bo Russell's try for a field goal was called wide in 1939, depriving the Redskins of the Eastern championship . . . Tuffy Leemans gave the Giants a 1942 victory on the hurling end of a 50-yard pass play . . . A missed field goal again figured in a Giant triumph in 1944, Joe Aguirre the victim this time . . . In 1946 Steve Bagarus was around to help in a 24-14 margin over New York . . . And earlier this year the Redskins took a 28-20 margin, one of their three, after a seesaw scrap.

Troubles? Just Listen to Bell

Dallas, Dec. 5 (AP).—Coach Matty Bell of Southern Methodist said today he felt pretty hopeless about his Cotton Bowl game with Penn State.

Noting that Coach Bob Higgins of the Nittany Lions was quoted as saying he would lick SMU, that he had the best line and best team he ever had produced and that on his 40-man squad every man was as good in his line as the other, Bell declared it didn't seem like there was much use of playing the game—that is, from the standpoint of it being a contest.

"Oh, we'll go ahead and play since we signed a contract and need the money," said Bell. "But it sure looks bad for my boys out there on the field."

Bell was in a moaning mood all the way around. "If we had to play a game this week or next week we'd be in terrible shape," he groaned, pointing out that Dick Reinking, end; Paul Page, halfback, and Claud Hill, reserve tackle, were pretty well battered from last week's Texas Christian game.

Reinking's leg is in a cast and it won't be known until next week if any bones are broken. Page has a severe hip injury and Hill has some bunged up ribs. "I'm hoping they'll all be able to play by January 1 because Lord only knows we'll need everybody against that Penn State outfit," said Bell.

At Charles Town

DEAR FOLKS:

Dan Chamblin is leading the trainers here. He carried off conditioning honors at this track during the summer meetings of 1942 and 1943. The Virginian plans to invade the mile tracks in Maryland, Delaware and New Jersey next year and has signed the capable Johnny Tammaro to do the riding. Jockey F. McTague arrived from Canada. Jockey Wayne Weber turned in one of the better rides of the meeting aboard Buster Dewey in the fourth race. Clifton White and Rodger Hershey, the top men at the Cumberland and Hagerstown tracks, visited here. Chief improvements at their tracks for next year will be new jockey quarters. The first Saturday program of the meeting is promising. Under Cover clashes with Army Belle, Oksamsel, Bungalese and others in the Mahmoud, a test of seven furlongs. In a mile and a sixteenth test, Boston Man, track record holder here, tangles with Smiling Lass, Comedy Player and others. See you on the rail.

Price Tag Is 'Million' Too Much

Baltimore, Dec. 5 (AP).—Robert R. Rodenberg, head of a group interested in moving the St. Louis Browns' franchise in the American Baseball League to Baltimore, picked up his cards today and said the stakes were too high to stay in the bidding at this time.

Rodenberg, just back from St. Louis, put the squelch on the much-bruited about sale by saying, "I doubt very much that my associates and I are prepared to begin immediate negotiations for the purchase" of the Browns' franchise.

Still Interested

Like a poker player, Rodenberg intimated his cards were on the table even though he had not sat across from officials of the Browns, and the next call was up to them.

"We are definitely still interested in moving the Browns to Baltimore," said the president of the professional football Colts in this city. "However, the price which is currently quoted for the club is prohibitive for a sound investment."

Rodenberg's professed interest, coupled with unloading of several stars by the Browns in the past two weeks, had baseball interests believing the deal was really on the fire. Rodenberg put it out today—unless it can be a "fair transaction."

"Million" Too Much

Rodenberg didn't define what he and his associates considered a "fair" price, or what was "the price which is currently quoted." But he said it was about "a million" more than he was willing to pay.

Rodenberg had been expected to make his official move to obtain the franchise at the major league meeting opening in New York December 9. He now says "I am not sure whether I will attend," although making himself "available if any of the owners or the commissioner should desire my presence."

So. Carolina, Shaw Play

Shaw University, of Raleigh, N. C., and South Carolina State College clash in Washington's only postseason football contest—the National Bowl—in Griffith Stadium at 4:30 p. m. today.

Shaw's Bears, Colored Intercollegiate Athletic Association champs, are seven-point favorites over the Orangeburg Bulldogs who sport a season's record of six won and two lost.

Halfback Twillie Bellamy is the scoring spark of the Bears who have amassed 283 points in defeating nine opponents. Fullback George Turner led the heavier Bulldogs to victories over such teams as Lane, Tuskegee, Morehouse and Alabama State.

The game will be finished under the lights at the stadium. This is believed the first football contest ever to be played as a twinight contest.

Longden's 301 Winners Equals Modern Mark

San Mateo, Calif., Dec. 5—(AP)—Jockey Johnny Longden today equalled the modern record of 301 winners in one year by winning the third race at Bay Meadows astride Loretta Rice, a four-to-one shot.

The modern record was set in 1933 by Jackie Westrope. The all-time record of 388 winners in a single year was set in 1906 by Walter Miller.

'And I Hit .468, Too, Mr. Griffith'

'Sonny' Is a Man-Sized Ball Player

By Henry Rohland—The Washington Post

PITCHING PHENOM—With an oil portrait of Walter Johnson serving as a backdrop, 14-year-old Sonny Godfrey of Alexandria, Va., is presented with the outstanding player trophy by Clark Griffith in the latter's office yesterday. Godfrey, a star in the Washington Boys Club Midget League, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Godfrey

Young Godfrey Won 22, With 5 No-Hitters

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

IF THE YOUNG fellow to whom Clark Griffith presented a trophy yesterday could wear a Washington uniform next year, Manager Joe Kuhel's job of lifting the Nats out of seventh place might be lighter.

Just as the clock struck 4, the appointed hour for the presentation, 14-year-old Sonny Godfrey leaped out of a dairy truck and entered Griff's office to receive a trophy for being selected the outstanding player in the Washington Boys Club Midget League the past baseball season.

The trophy was awarded by the D. C. Umpires Association and the boys in blue booted another one when they decided that Sonny was merely the most outstanding player.

He's nothing short of phenomenal—this 90-pound, blue-eyed kid, who had to interrupt a sandlot football game to receive the bronze trophy.

Here's what the young right-hander did for his Alexandria team the last season and you can supply your own adjectives:

1. He pitched 24 games, winning 22.

2. Five of his victories were no-hit, no-run affairs.

3. In each of six games he struck out 18 out of a possible 21.

4. He averaged 11 strikeouts per game.

5. The two games he lost were by 2-1 scores and he fanned 13 in one and 10 in the other.

6. Not once during the year did he allow more than five hits a game. All but three of his triumphs were four-hitters or better.

Poise? He exudes it. When Griff told him he had a great record and hoped he could improve on it next year, Sonny very nonchalantly replied:

"Thank you, Mr. Griffith, but you haven't asked me about my batting average. I hit .468 and am right proud of that, too."

Griff thought it would be quite fitting to pose with Sonny under a huge oil painting of the late Walter Johnson for a picture.

"There was the greatest of them all," Griff told the wide-eyed Sonny.

"Yes sir," Sonny agreed, "he's my idol, too."

Minors Ask Big Leagues To Decide on Coast Status

By Joe Reichler

Miami, Fla., Dec. 5 (AP).—The minor leagues quit juggling the convention's "hot potato" today and dumped it into the laps of the majors when they asked the big leagues to vote either "yes" or "no" on the Pacific Coast League's resolution to become a third major league.

Passing a resolution of their own, the minors requested the majors to decide on the controversial issue at their meeting in New York and send their decision back to the National Association so the minor league presidents can immediately take a mail vote of their own.

The resolution was introduced by Victor Collins, president of the Hollywood Club, who said he feared a long delay might ensue unless immediate action was taken. Collins was the spokesman for a four-man PCL delegation consisting of Charles Graham, San Francisco; Bill Starr, San Diego, Roscoe Torrence, Seattle, and himself.

An objection was raised by President Frank J. Shaughnessy of the International League over the wording of the resolution, especially over a phrase reading "the minors agreed in principle to the PCL's resolution." Shaughnessy argued that the National Association had gone on record yesterday as voting against the resolution and Chairman George Trautman ordered the phrase stricken out.

The Yankee-Senator deal for Pitcher Walter Masterson was said to be still very much alive as the one between the Yankees and Indians involving Hegan and a Yankee outfielder, probably Allie Clark.

Rumors persist that Dixie Walker already has been traded to Pittsburgh in a six-player deal involving pitchers Hal Gregg and Vic Lombardi of Brooklyn, and Infielder Billy Cox, Gene Mauch and Pitcher Elwyn (Preacher) Roe of Pittsburgh. That, however, has been denied by both sides.

The only transactions today were the appointment of Al Vincent to Manage Tulsa in the Texas League and the sale of Pitcher Art Cuccurrulo and Outfielder Charley Workman by Oakland of the Pacific Coast League to Nashville of the Southern Association for an unannounced sum.

'Little Potato Bowl' Today

The "Little Potato Bowl," first cooked up by The Washington Post's roly-poly sports writer, Walter Haight, some 25 years ago, will have its official revival this morning at 10 o'clock, on the East Ellipse field in the shadow of the White House.

It'll be the No: 5 Club of the Metropolitan Police Boys' Club against the Georgetown branch, winners of the Boys' Club of Washington championship, with the "Little Potato" victors to be identified otherwise as the 90-pound kingpins of the Metropolitan Washington Area.

Police Boys' Club No. 5, led by Freddie Stone and Bob Dewdney, won the inter-club title easily, scoring 9 victories, having nary a defeat and rolling up 153 points to opponents' zero.

Coach Ollie Dryzer's Georgetowners have 6 victories, 1 loss, 1 tie and 121 points to their opponents' 12.

Owing to a certain Charles Town, W. Va., race track, founder "Pounds" Haight will be unable to attend.

| Police B. C. No. 5 | | Georgetown B. C. |
|---|---|---|
| Ross | L. E. | Timbo |
| Kallas | L. T. | Bryant |
| Hackley | L. G. | Hall |
| K. Stone | Center | Simmons |
| Cetwick | R. G. | Rosebelt |
| McAtee | R. T. | Kidwell |
| Hite | R. E. | Scrivenner |
| Inscoe | Q. B. | Turco |
| F. Stone | L. H. | Keane |
| Dewdney | R. H. | Sarsfield |
| Pumphrey | F. B. | Kelliher |

Other games today:

90-pound—Trinidad-Alexandria at Ellipse; Merrick-Georgetown, bye.

105-pound—Alexandria-Georgetown at Ellipse; Merrick-Eastern at Armory.

Club to Hold Dance

The Gaithersburg Athletic Club will sponsor a dance in Gaithersburg High School from 9 to midnight tonight. Funds raised will be used to finance amateur sports for boys and girls in the Gaithersburg area.

Mt. Vernon Purse Won By 4 Lengths

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., Dec. 5.—Equaling the track record, the Stevens Stable's Flying Raid became the first two-time winner at the meeting when she showed her 3-year-old heels to seven rivals in the Mount Vernon Purse, best offering on the Friday program.

With Jockey Baird riding, Flying Raid finished four lengths in front of C. Anderson's Endie Jane, another half length in advance of Mrs. M. Paul's Talcum Spray and left Roman Boy, Night Strike and other ambitious sprinters out of the money.

Mindful of Flying Raid's victory over Roman Boy, Louray O'Neil and others here opening day, the crowd played and replayed the daughter of Sky Raider and she returned a win mutuel of $4.80. The chestnut miss was clocked in 48 3-5 for the about 4½ furlongs, matching the time of Annie's Dream. Both Flying Raid and Annie's Dream carried 118 pounds in these efforts.

In contrast to her first effort here when she raced head and head with Roman Boy, Flying Raid did not have a horse close to her today. Baird shot her out of the gate on top and she stayed there. Endie Jane and Roman Boy were closest to the stretch, where Roman Boy faltered and lost the show money to the fast close of Talcum Spray.

The victory was the sixth in 26 starts this year for Flying Raid, owned by Joe Stevens of New York.

The program opened on a monetary downbeat, a $773.20 daily double payoff being the tops. B. Thompson's Tattling won the first race at $78.80 and D. Gray's Little Pom came back to take the second at a mere $62.20.

In fact, it was not until the feature that the payoffs reached anything resembling normalcy. For instance, Tacktist S. returned $16.40 in the third event and Buster Dewey scored in the fourth at $19.20.

Lions Meet Pittsburgh In Game Tonight

Coach Jack Riley's Washington Lions are to invade Pittsburgh tonight to meet the powerful Hornets in an American Hockey League match.

The local team goes to invade Springfield, Mass., on December 13 to meet the Indians before returning to Uline Arena against the Indianapolis Capitols on December 16.

High, Prep All-Stars Play Today at Stadium

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

The High and Prep all-star football teams, selected by the coaches of Washington's secondary schools, clash today at 1:30 p. m. in the fifth annual Scholastic All-Star Game at Griffith Stadium.

The Preps, 26-21 victors last year, will be out to prevent the first High win in the series. The first three games resulted in ties.

The Highs will send 12 members of the interhigh championship Tech team into the fray, while the Preps will have nine St. John's players available. The Johnnies were unbeaten in their eight games.

A wide open contest is forecast, with the Highs, coached by Anacostia's Kermit (Zuzu) Stewart, attacking from the single wing, and the Preps, led by Georgetown Prep's Orrel Mitchell, striking from the T.

Much of the Highs' hopes will rest on Halfback Robert (Bugs) Thompson, the swift, deceptive lad who helped bring Tech the interhigh championship over Central last week in the big game sponsored by the Board of Education and The Washington Post.

Prep's answer to Thompson will be squat, muscular Gil Buckingham, Gonzaga ace whose three touchdowns last year, sparked the Prep win over the Highs. Buckingham will get plenty of help from Tommy Dean, Sidwell Friends' high-scoring halfback.

The Preps will have a slight advantage in experience since players from Devitt were made available to Coach Mitchell.

Starting will be Jack Doffort at quarterback and Bob Back a left end, and in reserve will be Tackle Bob Hanrahan and Halfback Gene Taylor, all of Devitt.

Doffort and Taylor both played three years of interhigh football before moving to Devitt in 1946. Doffort starring at Coolidge, and Taylor gained all-high honors at Wilson.

The two opposing lines stack up equal in weight. The Highs will start six Techites in the forward wall with End Jim McCauley, Tacke Julius Poms and Center Bob Bell leading the way. The only non-Tech player is Central's stellar guard, Bob Petrillo.

Prep's line strength will be in Center Dick Fennell, Tackle Joe Kidwell and Guard Joe Cardaci of St. John's and Guard Ronnie Redmond of Gonzaga.

Drach Lost To Terp Team

Tackle Joe Drach, 20-year-old junior from Cheltenham, Pa., yesterday was lost to Maryland for its January 1 Gator Bowl engagement against the University of Georgia.

Drach was stricken with appendicitis at yesterday's practice session and was taken to University Hospital, Baltimore, where last night he underwent an operation. Drach alternated with Freshman Ray Krause as regular left tackle.

The Terps confined their practice to calisthenics and dummy scrimmages. Quarterback Vic Turyn, who wrenched his back in the first quarter of the N. C. State game last Saturday, was still among the missing. He's expected to rejoin the team next Friday.

Electric Firms Indicted for Trust Tactics

The Justice Department yesterday announced the indictment of 6 electrical contracting firms and 14 individuals in the Kansas City and Springfield, Mo., area on the charge of "conspiracy to restrain trade in the installation of electrical systems in housing."

Attorney General Tom Clark said that two such indictments were returned by a Federal grand jury sitting in Kansas City.

Both, he said, named as defendants the Greater Kansas City Chapter of the National Electrical Contracting Association and the manager of the chapter, J. W. Collins.

The department's statement added that the Kansas City area indictment alleges that the defendants "and their coconspirators, in order to eliminate competition among themselves, agreed unlawfully upon escalator clauses in bids."

"They also agreed upon a uniform, minimum markup to be charged for labor when selling electrical contracting service and to include in their charges for work on prefabricated houses a sum which would represent the profit they would have made if the electrical materials already in these houses had been sold by them," the department said, adding:

"The Springfield area indictment charges unlawful agreements not to contract to supply the labor required in the installation, alteration, or repair of electrical systems unless the owner paid an additional sum representing a part of the profit the contractor would have made if the electrical materials had been supplied by him."

Assistant Attorney General John F Sonnett, in charge of antitrust prosecutions, said in connection with the indictments:

"Conspiracies such as these in the food, clothing, and housing fields will be vigorously prosecuted."

Clark announced last summer that special instructions had been given to the antitrust division to investigate any situation indicating "conspiracy" to maintain or increase price levels in food, clothing or housing.

Trouble Threat Seen in Killing Mexican Cattle

A State Department official yesterday predicted "serious trouble" with the Mexican people if any effort is made soon to resume large-scale slaughter of disease-infected cattle in Mexico.

P. J. Reveley, acting chief of the department's Mexican affairs division, told a House Agriculture subcommittee is is a "terribly difficult thing to sell the avearge Mexican Indian on the results of the all-out slaughter campaign."

He expressed belief there is a "very good" possibility, however, of obtaining the cooperation of the Mexican government and the cattle producers of northern Mexico on a plan to "strengthen the quarantine line in the north with a combination of vaccination and slaughter."

Looked Dangerous

Dr. Charles E. Duckworth, California director of agriculture, agreed that the recent cessation of the slaughter program to eradicate foot-and-mouth disease in Mexico was advisable "because it looked dangerous to American lives."

He suggested it be renewed whenever Mexican farmers are agreeable. The program "bogged down," he said, because of failure to "prepare the field" through an educational campaign.

Duckworth and B. O. Wilson of Chicago, secretary manager of the National Livestock Producers Association, said it is necessary to keep the disease out of the United States at virtually any cost.

Duckworth said once it got started here, prices of meat and dairy products would rise sharply.

Wilson said the livestock industry was "shocked" by the abandonment of the slaughter program and substitution of vaccination and quarantine "which experts say will not control."

The Agriculture Department has "failed miserably" in its campaign and Congress should draft a whole new program, Senator Bushfield (R., S. Dak.) said yesterday.

The South Dakotan, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Subcommittee dealing with the disease, asserted in a statement that the plan to slaughter one million infected Mexican cattle collapsed because the department fell down on selling the program to peasants whose cooperation was needed.

"Furthermore, the Mexican troops relied on to enforce the quarantine on infected animals often were lax," he said. "Although nearly 500,000 cattle were killed to get rid of the disease, it spread from 334 communities to 455 during the program."

Missourian Named Highway Research Group Chairman

Election of officers wound up the twenty-seventh meeting of the Highway Research Board yesterday at the National Academy of Sciences.

F. V. Reagel, engineer of materials, Missouri State Highway Department, was elected chairman of the board, succeeding Roger L. Morrison. Reagel had previously been vice chairman.

New vice chairman is R. A. Moyer, research associate professor of highway engineering, Iowa State College. Reagel, Moyer and Pyke Johnson, president of the Automotive Safety Foundation, were also returned to membership on the board's executive committee.

Final general sessions yesterday morning were devoted to reports on soils investigations, including results of an airphoto study of the triassic areas in Albemarle County, Va.

Gland Tumor Found Cause of Sex Failure

Boston, Dec. 5 (AP).—A tumor on a gland near the brain can cause loss of normal sex desire in men and women, Dr. Lewis M. Hurxthal of the Mayo Clinic reports.

Dr. Hurxthal told the Radiological Society of North America that sexual impotency in men and premature menopause in women have been traced in some cases to a tumor of the pituitary gland. In the cases affecting sexual potency, he said, successful cure was effected in some cases through use of X-ray to shrink the tumor and, with men through male hormone injections to return the gland to normal.

18 Youths of Blue Lions Club Are 'Reason' For Chest—They Show What It Accomplishes

The Washington Post

MEETING OF THE "BLUE LIONS" of the Christ Child Settlement House, 608 Massachusetts ave. se., gets under way with Miss Pat Minter, 23, assistant director of the House, talking to the boys who range in ages from 13 to 18 years

Group in Northeast Has Plans Depending On Fund's Success

By Walter Pulliam
Post Reporter

Seventeen-year-old George Warren is president of the Blue Lions.

"See here," he said, "we don't want any toughies in our club . . . They'll make trouble, break things, leave cigarette butts on the floor . . . They'll ruin the good reputations we are building up."

Without knowing it, the sun-browned, bright-eyed youth from Northeast Washington was giving a prime reason the Community Chest's $3,900,000 campaign must go over the top—the youth of the area.

Every adult interested in boys ought to hear George's story about himself, his 12 companions and the Blue Lions. It shows what even a small amount of direction can mean to a teen-age youth.

Formed Six Weeks Ago

Before he and his companions formed the Blue Lions about six weeks ago on suggestion of a community worker at Christ Child Settlement House, a Community Chest agency at 608 Massachusetts ave. ne., they usually spent their evenings on Northeast streets.

"There wasn't anything else for us to do," George explained.

Sometimes they whiled away the time streetcar riding on borrowed passes. Sometimes they played a noisy game of "kick-the can" on the narrow, busy streets just east of the Capitol.

On some of the long summer evenings, George confided, they tried baseball in an alley off A st. ne., but nearly always a cop would show up, confiscate their ball and lecture them on how it was against the law for boys to play ball in Washington alleys.

"And all we were trying to do," said George, "was to have a little fun."

Membership of 18

When the settlement house began its fall program. They began going there so regularly that Mrs. Alice M. Cameron, the director, noticing them, suggested they form themselves into a club and join actively into the center's program.

So was born the Blue Lions.

George, who lives at 121 7th st. ne., was elected president; Charles (Chuck) Smith, 17, of 817 C st. ne., was elected vice president, and Donald McDevitt, 17, of 222 5th st. se., treasurer.

A few members have been added since the organization until the membership now totals 18.

They meet regularly three times a week—Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays—at the settlement house to listen to speeches on current affairs or vocational guidance or simply to crowd around a piano to spend the evening singing.

Nickel Fine for Cursing

One of their members, Arthur Hilley, 14, of 714 A st. ne., has studied piano, and a couple of others sang briefly at one time in a Northeast church choir.

They have adopted club rules, too. A member heard cursing draws a 5-cent fine; smoking when a guest is present at a club meeting brings a 25-cent fine; gambling, 10 cents; throwing butts or trash on the floor, 5 cents; interrupting a speaker, 5 cents, or touching alcohol, 25 cents.

"And they themselves decided on the program for the club and made up the rules," Miss Pat Minter, assistant director of the settlement house and club adviser, said. "The rules are enforced stringently."

What with plans for a basketball team, whenever they can get a gymnasium and a coach, a hayride and bright-colored jackets with the club initials on the backs, so many Northeast youths want to join that membership has had to be restricted.

Nine in National Guard

Nine of the club members have joined the District National Guard, which keeps them busy on another night during the week.

And at least four of the members, including George, say they plan to enlist in the armed services to learn radio work and then to set up their own radio shops when they get somewhat older. Their ages now vary from 13 to 18.

"We all feel proud of our club," George explained. "We have got lots and lots of plans. And now we don't have to spend our evenings on the streets."

The Community Chest provides 94.6 per cent of the funds needed to operate the Christ Child Settlement House. The Blue Lions is merely one of the many activities sponsored at the center.

2 Firemen Didn't Fight, Lawyer Says

Captain and Private Pals, According To Attorney Hired To Represent Both

Friendship is a strange thing.

Fire Chief Clement Murphy yesterday appointed a boar dof inquiry to look into a manifestation of it—the altercation Monday between Capt. William Carroll and Pvt. Abraham Goldwater, who, the chief said, "have been pals."

Captain Carroll and Private Goldwater, a Coast Guard lieutenant on inactive duty, also hired the same attorney yesterday as a result of the difference of opinion between the two of them late Monday afternoon at Engine Company No. 31, 4930 Connecticut ave. nw.

The attorney, Paul E. Jamieson, described Carroll and Goldwater as just "old friends . . . we deny "Were Goldwater's fists injured?" there was any fight.

"Pure fiction," said Jamieson. "They're all right as far as I know. He shooke hands with me today in my office."

Tuesday morning, however, Goldwater went to Bethesda Naval Hospital for treatment of fracturad small bones in the back of both his hands.

As to the cause of the disputes, the attorney was not yet aemaliar with the details.

Neither was Chief Murphy, though it was not about him, . . . ". . . positively not."

"There's both friends of mine," said the chief, center of a controversy over administration of the fire deparement, "and very close friends themselves."

The Chief in an order dated Thursday named Deputy Chiefs F. G. Berry, chairman, and J. A. Mayhew, and Battalion Chief N. E. Bowen, chief instructor, as members of a special boarl of inquiry "to investigate the altercation."

He directed that "the board shall submit report at completion of investigation with findings and recommendations.'

Only Two Involved

Deputy Chief Mayhew said yesterday Carroll and Goldwater were the only two implicated "if there was a fight.'

Goldwater, who lives at 908 Quincy st. nw., was on duty at the firehouse yesterday following his discharge Thursday from the Naval Hospital.

Carroll, who lives at 5030 1st st. sw., of Engine Co. No. 7 at 347 K st. sw., is off duty on sick leave.

Carroll could not be reached and Goldwater declined to comment.

Attorney Jamieson, who has been representing firemen about 20 years, said both men sought to retain him "so I made them put it on the line that they had no diverse interests."

Chief Murphy said a statement made by Goldwater, forwarded by Fifth Battalion Chief John L. Werheim, whose jurisdiction includes Engine Co. No. 31, and received Thursday, was not signed because Goldwater's hands were too sore.

Notes Give Funeral Directions

Mrs. Kendig, 60, Clerk, Found Dead in Room

Mrs. Bertha Elizabeth Kendig, 60, widowed salesclerk, was found dead on the bed in her second-floor bedroom at 633 6th st. ne., about noon yesterday by her landlady, Mrs. Flora Tucker.

Nearby were found four notes apologizing to Mrs. Tucker, describing the clothing she wished to be buried in and giving further burial directions. All of the notes were dated Tuesday.

Her sister, Mrs. Mary Twynham, 4312 Longfellow st., Hyattsville, to whom one of the notes was addressed, said that Mrs. Kendig had been lonely and despondent since the deaths of her father in 1944, and her mother the following year. Her husband, Harry Kendig, an electrician at Union Station, has been dead for nine years. They had been married for 28 years and were an extremely devoted couple, the sister said.

A half empty bottle of poisonous chemical tablets was found in the pocket of a coat hanging in a closet. The pills had been purchased at a nearby drug store on Tuesday, according to Detective Sergts. E. E. Scott and John K. Baker, of the homicide squad. Mrs. Kendig, who signed the druggist's register for the purchase, told him that she intended to bathe her feet in a solution of the chemical, they said.

Mrs. Tucker, the landlady, said that she had last seen her lodger alive at about 9:30 a. m. when they had breakfasted together. Mrs. Kendig complained of a headache at the time, she said, and stated that she was going to lie down until about noon when she would leave for work. She had been employed at Wahl's Department Store, 653 H st. ne., for about eight years, police said.

Going to Mrs. Kendig's room about noon to clean up, Mrs. Tucker found her on the bed. She was fully clothed except for her shoes, she said. A neighborhood physician summoned by the landlady pronounced the woman dead at 12:15 p. m.

Near her on the bed was an envelope containing a note to her sister, Mrs. Twynham, with a scribbled apology to her landlady on the outside.

To Mrs. Tucker she wrote:

"I thank you so much for your kindness to me and I am sorry that this happened in your house, but I just can't help it."

Mrs. Tucker, who disclosed the message, said that Mrs. Kendig had been living with her for only three weeks.

To her sister she left detailed instructions as to the location of the clothes she wished to be buried in, the jewelry she desired to be wearing and the arrangements of the funeral itself.

The chosen dress, gray with a red floral print design, was an especial favorite of hers, her sister said, and had only been worn once. It was neatly folded, together with other burial clothing, in a cedar chest with a note, "This is the dress," pinned to it. Also pinned to the dress was a gold brooch, which had been given her by her husband many years ago, Mrs. Twynham said. Request also was made for her adornment with a pair of pearl earrings and a pearl necklace, also gifts from her husband.

New School Plans Rushed To Ease Jam At Browne

Bids to Be Taken For Kelly-Miller Work Next Week; Strike Continues

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

District officials took steps yesterday to assure a permanent solution to the problem of part-time education for Browne Negro Junior High students.

The Commissioners informed Superintendent of Schools Hobart M. Corning that a bid for construction of the Kelly-Miller Junior High School at 49th st. and Washington pl. ne, will be accepted at their meeting on Tuesday.

This school is designed to end overcrowding at Browne.

Parents for the third day kept their children home from classes as a protest against the use of two former white elementary schools as Browne annexes. They also picketed the three schools and the Franklin Administration Building.

The two annexes, Blow, 19th and Benning rd. ne., and Webb, 15th and Rosedale sts. ne., were transferred to Browne last Monday to place 1223 part-time Browne students on a full-time program.

Can Begin in Month

A. G. Hutson, director of construction, said work on the Kelly-Miller building can begin in 30 days. The building may be finished by February, 1949, he said.

Forty-three students showed up at Blow yesterday morning and 42 at Webb. Blow was empty in the afternoon and Webb had five students.

Under the annex plan 589 students attend Browne in the morning for shop, laboratory and gym work and Blow and Webb in the afternoon for academic subjects. Another group of 557 attends Blow and Webb in the morning and Browne in the afternoon. A third group of 281 students attends Browne part-time in the morning and a fourth group of 394 students goes to Browne part-time in the afternoon.

'Promise Is Not Enough'

Mrs. Eulalia C. Matthews, 3944 Benning rd. ne., leader of pickets at the Franklin Buildin, said that "promise of Kelly-Miller is not enough."

"We want adequate school facilities for our children now and will continue to keep them out of school until we get them," she said.

"Parents are against this business of going half a day to one school and half a day to another."

Pickets distributed circulars to children at the three schools.

"We are not violating a law by keeping our children home. The Board of Education has violated a law by not providing adequate school facilities for our children," the circular said.

"It has been suggested that fines may be imposed on parents. We have more than $3000 at our disposal to pay any fines that come up."

No Legal Action Planned

Dr. Corning said that normally the school attendance department takes legal action against parents who keep children out of school two or more days without excuse.

"The department won't act in this instance," Corning said. "We are hopeful that the parents will see the logic and reasonableness of our position and send their children back to school."

It is "not feasible," Corning said, to put shops and laboratories in the Blow and Webb buildings. By transferring students back and forth between the buildings all have access to the facilities at Browne, he said.

Fifteen blocks between classes in "not excessive," Corning held, pointing out that the students walk the distance only once a day.

2 Policemen Fined by Board For Drinking, Improper Arrest

A Trial Board yesterday fined one Metropolitan policeman $150 for being under the influence of liquor and another $50 for making an arrest without just cause. Both were restored to duty, but one was transferred.

Pvt. Floyd S. Hathorne, 47, was assessed the $150 levy after a guilty plea. A veteran of 25 years on the force, he admitted taking "two drinks" of whisky November 15 while on duty.

Corpl. James B. Hale testified he found Hathorne at a filling station,

"unsteady" and smelling of alcohol, according to testimony by Lieut. Ernest P. Myers. Hathorne was fined $50 in October for failing to communicate with his station and was fined $75 in March for drinking on duty and failing to patrol his beat. He lives at 4604 4th st. nw.

The second policeman fined was Pvt. Oscar B. Johnson, 37, of 1243 Irving st. ne., but the board cleared him of charges involving a bribe. He was shifted from the Second to the Fourth Precinct.

Johnson, who pleaded not guilty to four specifications of conduct unbecoming an officer, did not testify and his attorney, Charles E. Ford, offered no witnesses for him.

Testimony showed Johnson had arrested two men November 9 with 10 half pints of whiskey in the glove compartment of their car.

At the Second Precinct station, Johnson booked one for disorderly conduct and left the other outside while charging the first. Oscar Morton, 1542 7th st. nw., a restaurant employe, said he came out of the restaurant as the arrest was beinb made and asked Johnson to give the two men "a break." At the police call box, he said, he "flashed" a $10 bill at the policeman and received a reply that the policeman would see him "later."

Two night supervisory sergeants, Thomas O. Thoman, jr., and John E. Winters, testified they had given one of the men a $10 bill after noting the serial number. They said the man had met Johnson November 14 while the sergeants watched, but they saw no money passed and the bill was returned to them.

Johnson, a policeman eight years, has faced the board on three previous occasions and has been fined once.

Cogswell Bans Speedup in Rent Boosts

Ruling Cites Need Of Testimony by Tenants, Hearings

Rent Control Administrator Robert F. Cogswell yesterday denied a request made by District apartment operators for a speed-up in granting rent increases.

The Administrator had been asked by the Building Owners and Managers Association of Metropolitan Washington to increase rents on various types of apartment buildings on the sole basis of sworn statements covering real estate taxes, water rents, fuel and service payrolls.

Cogswell said the proposal was objectionable for several reasons. He mentioned:

1. The procedure would eliminate hearings and testimony by tenants on standards of service being rendered in the units. The hearings are required by law, Cogswell said.

2. The method would give operators unsatisfied by the raises which might result a second chance for rent jumps.

"Such a plan would lead to nothing but widespread confusion, dissatisfaction on all sides and justifiable criticism. . . . We would be permitting a haphazard method of rental adjustments which would shortly result in a complete breakdown of orderly procedure," Cogswell said.

Rufus S. Lusk, secretary of the association, commented, on receiving the decision:

"Mr. Cogswell has been, and is now, doing piecemeal just what we have been asking; namely, increasing rents in the large apartment buildings. Now he rejects our formula under which time and money would be saved.

"Moreover, because of the present procedure, many hundreds of apartments are being held idle during hearing of rent adjustment petitions. This reduces the number of available dwelling units, thereby contributing to the acute rental housing problems," Lusk said.

Yesterday Rent Examiner Denis K. Lane granted a 9.65 per cent increase on 120 units of the five-story Sedgwick Gardens apartment house at 3726 Connecticut ave. nw. The apartment operators had requested a 9.75 per cent increase.

The new rents will range from $35.75 a month for one room and bath to $132.50 for five rooms and two baths.

Pilots Unclogged

Natural Gas Difficulties Ironed Out

Problems of conversion to natural gas, which have plagued some housewives, "are almost completely cleared up," the Washington Gas Light Co. said yesterday.

Failure of pilot lights on some gas appliances to operate properly in certain sections has provided a special problem for the company, H. B. Noyes, general superintendent, said yesterday.

Peak of the pilot light trouble is now past, he said, and complaints from this cause are now disappearing.

Early in October the company received numerous calls from the northwest section, complaining that pilot lights were not functioning. Complaints centered in the 16th st. and Columbia rd. area, then spread along New Hampshire ave.

"It was weeks before we found the real trouble," Noyes said. "Manufactured gas, which we formerly used, had legt a 'gum' residue on the inside of the pipes, and when the natural gas — which leaves no residue — was sent through, it dried the oily substance which clogged the openk ?t. .-l- "f which flaked off in tiny amounts and clogged the openings in some pilot lights."

The reason this problem developed in October, he said, was because of differences between the ground and gas temperatures.

Pilot lines were cleaned out and in some instances filters were placed in pilot lines of gas heaters.

"We think the system will purge itself of any residue remaining," Noyes said, "and that should end this problem."

City Center Cafe Ordered Investigated

Commissioners Ask Inspection After Unfavorable Report

The District Health Department was ordered yesterday to inspect the lunchroom in the Municipal Center and report any violation of regulations.

The order was issued by the Board of Commissioners after receiving a report from District Auditor A. R. Pilkerton, who declared bluntly:

"There appears to be little doubt that the lunchroom is being operated in violation of health regulations and it is presumed that the operator is unlicensed.

"This places the Commissioners in the embarrassing position of condoning violations of health regulations in a District building, notwithstanding the fact that certain pressure is being brought to bear upon Government Services, Inc., to correct nonconforming restaurants operated by that body in Government buildings."

The Health Department has inspected and approved 53 of the 61 GSI eating places. These have been issued licenses, but the Municipal Center Lunchroom has never applied for a permit, Edward E. Bailey, jr., superintendent of licenses, said.

Dr. Reed R. Ashworth, director of the Health Department's inspection service, said the inspection will await receipt of the Commissioners' order, but informal checks have already revealed several points in which the lunchroom falls short of inspection stahdards.

The auditor also reported that to date the District has received no rent income from the eating place.

Virginia ABC Board Reports 4 Million Profit

Richmond, Va., Dec. 4 (AP).—The Virginia Alcoholic Beverage Control Board today reported a net profit of $4,302,261 on ABC operations for the first quarter of the current fiscal year.

This net, for the months of July, August and September, represents an increase of almost one million dollars over comparable profits of $3,398,631 for the same quarter last year.

The increase, reported to the State comptroller today, indicates annual profits for the fiscal year ending June 30 would exceed the record-breaking total of the last fiscal year when ABC profits were more than $16,500,000.

Mason Asks New Seized Weapon Law

District Commissioner Guy Mason yesterday asked Congress to do something about the problem of dangerous weapons in the District.

He said the way the law stands the police turn over dangerous weapons taken from prisoners to the police property clerk. He has to hand back a weapon on demand to the individual from whom it was taken—unless the person has been convicted of a crime of violence, or of trying to commit one.

Commissioner Mason asked that Congress empower the prpoerty clerk to destroy all weapons if they have been obtained illegally or owned and carried unlawfully, unless otherwise instructed within 90 days by the District Attorney or the courts.

The proposed law, which Commissioner Mason outlined in a letter to Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr., would apply to pistols, machine guns, sawed-off shotguns, blackjacks, sand clubs, sandbags, metal knuckles, silencers and slingshots.

All these lethal gadgets would be defined, with deft understatement, as "a nuisance."

Mason's letter said the Commissioners believed the proposed law "will be of aid in the prevention of crime since it will enable the Police Department to destroy instruments coming into their possession which might otherwise be used in the commission of crime."

The request was routed to the House District Committee.

Maryland Awaits Survey Approval on Hospitals

Baltimore, Dec. 5 (AP).—Plans for improving hospital facilities will go ahead as soon as the State hospital survey has been approved by the United States Public Health Service, Herbert G. Fritz, who directed the survey, announced at a public hearing.

He said application blanks have been printed with which hospitals can get improvement funds from the Federal Hospital Survey and Construction Act and that action would start as soon as the committee plan had Federal approval.

The hospital survey plan will be administered by the State health department, which has appointed an advisory council, Fritz said yesterday.

Pressure Off On Publishing Murphy File

District officials have succeeded in heading off for the present, Congressional pressure to publish documents in the investigation of Fire Chief Clement Murphy on charges that he demoralized his department.

This became clear yesterday when it was learned that House District Chairman Everett M. Dirksen has decided not to press for publication of the corporation counsel's report on the Murphy case.

The decision was reached after the District Commissioners sent word to the Capitol that they opposed publication on the ground that such a move would raise "grave" legal issues.

This message was taken to the Capitol Thursday by Daniel B. Maher, special assistant corporation counsel, who is to prosecute the Murphy case before a civil board. Maher conferred with Mabel Haller, clerk of the House District Committee, who had been assigned by Dirksen to investigate whether the Murphy report should be published.

Dirksen emphasized that he would take no action that night prejudice the case, or the rights of any individual involved in it.

Foundation Aid Approved in Study Of Schools Merger

Richmond, Va., Dec. 5 (AP).—The request of Governor Tuck for Rockefeller Foundation assistance in studying the proposed merger of the University of Virginia Medical School and the Medical College of Virginia has been approved, a source close to the foundation said today.

The Governor, in requesting the study looking toward putting the administration of the two medical schools under a single board, asked that it be completed in time for him to make specific recommendations to the General Assembly which meets in January. It was understood, however, that because of the time limitation a full-scale investigation cannot be made and, instead, the work will be confined to a factual review of the existing situation against a background of the experience of other States.

Weekend Forecast Sunshine, Temperature at 40 and Up

Not even the National Bureau of Standards' light wave device which measures down to one hundred millionth of an inch could get that snow in the record book.

"You can't say much about a snow with 40 degrees of temperature," the Weather Bureau commented. Bare traces of a flurry flitted in and out of the area before dawn.

The weekend forecast is for bright sunshine and temperature in the 40s.

Weebee

Yesterday's high reading, under sullen clouds, was 46 degrees at 3:54 p. m. The low was 37 at 8:56 a. m.

Other places over the Nation had no difficulty measuring snow. A fall ranging from three to six inches covered a narrow belt from central and southeastern Minnesota through central and southern Wisconsin into Michigan.

A damaging ice storm that disrupted communications over central and western Kansas and parts of Iowa had tamed down. Freezing rains hit parts of western New York.

Storm damage in Iowa due to the freezing rain was estimated at $250,000 to $300,000. More than 50 Iowa communities were without selephone service temporarily.

Segregations Suit Action Is Proposed

A motion for summary judgment was filed in District Court yesterday to end a suit that would test the legality of the District's segreagted school system.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Milton Korman asked the court to throw out a suit filed in behalf of a 13-year-old Negro girl attending Browne Junior High School part time.

The girl, Marguerite Daisy Carr, 4233 Clay st. nw., sued for admission to Eliot Junior High School, a white school.

The motion and an affidavit from Superintendent of Schools Hobart M. Corning which accompanied it declared that part-time instruction is not peculiar to Negro schools.

At present there are 877 white children on double shifts and 2500 Negro children, the motion said. It pointed out that this is an improvement over November 13, 1947 when 5900 Negroes and 877 whites were on part-time programs.

The motion also said that segregation in the school system is required by law.

The drop in Negro part-time attendance was brought about Monday by the transfer of five white schools to use by Negro children. William B. Stinson, principal of Browne, said that Marguerite is one of 675 Browne students still on part-time.

Area News in Brief

Beer, Wine License Suspended 2 Weeks

The beer and wine license of the operator of a Chinese restaurant here was ordered suspended for two weeks yesterday after his one-time waitress admitted selling marihuana cigarettes while she was employed there.

The suspension, which goes into effect on December 10 and lasts until December 24, was ordered by the Alcohol Beverage Control Board against Shew K. Wong, of 918 8th st. se.

Wong did not appear before the ABC board to contest the charges. Instead he sent his manager, Miss Yut Ong Lee, who said he was in Chicago. A board stenographer, Miss Margaret L. Maynard, testified she had previously informed Miss Lee that Wong's presence was required.

The former waitress, Doris Gardner, was brought to the hearing from the District Jail where she is serving a six to 18-month term for the sale of marihuana.

In another case, the ABC Board denied a class B off-sale beer and wine license to Samuel Shefter, 901 S st. nw. They held that he didn't qualify under a requirement that licensees have one year's residence or gainful employment in the District immediately prior to the application for a license.

Ignorance of the Law . . .

A lot of nearby Maryland residents are not familiar with a State law prohibiting the carrying of more than two quarts of whisky a month across the District line into Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties.

So many, in fact, are ignorant of the law that Judge Stedman Prescott of Montgomery Circuit Court has refused to sentence a defendant convicted of the charge.

Pointing out that "a great many of our rather substantial citizens are unknowingly violating the law," he refused to impose sentence on Walter C. Stewart, 33, of Ken Gar, Md., who was convicted in Circuit Court yesterday.

Plane Hearings Delayed

Hearings for three District youths arrested by Prince Georges County police Wednesday morning after an unauthorized midnight plane flight at the Columbia Air Center, Croome, Md., were postponed for two weeks yesterday in Upper Marlboro Police Court.

The postponement was granted by Judge Alan Bowie at the request of Assistant State's Attorney Hervey G. Machen, jr., who said he would be unable to attend yesterday.

The youths, all one-time Anacostia High School students, are charged with unauthorized use of a plane.

By Seeking Truce

Soviet War Avoidable—Lippmann

Williamsburg, Va., Dec. 5 (NYHT).—The United States can prevent war with Russia by giving up hopes for the abolition of all Russian-American differences and seeking instead a truce in "the cold war," Walter Lippman, specitl writer for the New York Herald Tribune and The Washington Post, declared here today.

Lippmann told the annual anniversary dinner of the Phi Beta Kappa Alpha Society of Virginia at the college of William and Mary that the fundamental error of American foreign policy is it refusal to admit that conflict among nations is the normal condition of mankind.

For this reason, he said, the United States has failed to regulate and moderate international conflicts, and American efforts to deal with events, as if they could be made to conform with the American ideological picture of what they ought to be, has been "rather like using a map of Utopia to find your way around New York City."

Lippmann said that the "beginning of wisdom" on the Russian question is to recognize that the rivalry between Russia and the nations of the West did not begin with the Soviet regime and would not end if it were overthrown. The British Foreign Office has been preoccupied with Russia's world-wide imperial aims for 150 years, he said, and "we had better make up our minds that we shall now be preoccupied with it for a very long time to come."

Police Trial In Clegg Case Set for Friday

Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett announced last night that the trial of three policemen in the Clegg case will open "in all probability" next Friday.

Amid renewed protest over the customary composition of police trial boards, Barrett said that as far as he knew, "it will be the usual type of board."

Nonetheless, the District Commissioners were again reported reliably last night to be considering appointment of a board that will at least exclude a corporation counsel.

The usual type of board is composed of three members—a police captain, an assistant corporation counsel and Inspector Clement Cox, chief clerk of the Police Department.

Opposition to seating these three—all members of prosecuting agencies—was voiced again by Roger Robb, attorney for Julius Willie Clegg, 26-year-old Negro veteran who charges he was unlawfully arrested, detained and beaten by police August 2.

Robb urged the District Commissioners in a telegram to appoint a civilian trial board.

Charging that Barrett is trying to "smear" Clegg and "is determined that there shall be no conviction in the Clegg case," Robb asked: "In the light of Barrett's attitude and public statements how can anyone expect his subordinates to judge the case fairly?"

Robb's smear charge arose, he said, from a press conference Barrett called Thursday. At that time, Barrett released an unsigned statement in which Clegg's wife purportedly blamed a bite injury on her shoulder on her husband and a "spirit of playfulness." Mrs. Clegg later told reporters Clegg had bitten her in a family fight Tuesday, but that she had related the earlier story to protect her husband from a possible assault charge.

The three men who will face the trial board are Detective Sgt. Alex K. Kapsol, special investigator David S. Ennis of the sex squad and Pvt. John C. Gibboney of the First Precinct.

Barrett said he has received the papers in the case from Corporation Counsel Vernon West and has served them on the three officers. Their contents were not disclosed.

Top Steer Sold At $3 Pound at Chicago Show

Chicago, Dec. 5 (AP).—America's budding farmers today turned prize winning cattle, swine and sheep into dollars and cents as auction sales continued at the forty-eighth international livestock exposition.

Exhibitors in the junior livestock feeding contest led long lines of blue ribbon stock before auctioneers as buyers, eager to encourage the Nation's future farmers, offered prices far above the commercial market.

The junior class reserve grand champion, Bennie, a 900-pound Abardeen-Angus sold for $3 a pound, $1.80 a pound more than the 1946 reserve grand champion.

Owned and shown by Vern H. Carlson, 19, of Camanche, Iowa the sleek black steer was bought by Schenley Farm Products, Inc., of New York City, and will be used for exhibition purposes.

The grand champion barrow of the show, which won top honors in both the junior and open classes, drew a top bid of $2.65 a pound and went to Swift & Co.

Shown by 16-year-old Miriam E Meyer, 4-H club girl from Crescent City, Ill., the 260-pound hog, a Chester White, brought 40 cents a pound less than was bid for the 1946 purble ribbon winner.

Oklahoma A. and M. college's grand champion wether lamb, a 97-pound Shropshire named Oklahoma Ernie, sold at $5 a pound, equaling the 1946 price.

U. S. Officials To Inspect Seized Horses

European-blooded horses at the U. S. Army Remount Service's Aleshire Depot, Front Royal, Va., will be inspected today by a party of United States Senators, State Department representatives and Army officers.

Approximately 32 horses at the Aleshire Depot will be singled out by the inspecting party. The Senate's Armed Services Subcommittee is holding hearings to investigate Hungarian claims for 105 horses which the U. S. Army brought from European stud depots to this country in 1945-46.

Subcommittee Chairman Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.), Senator Edward V. Robertson (R., Wyo.) and Senator Barnet R. Maybank (D., S. C.), and other members of the Senate's Armed Services Committee, officials of the Department of State and Colonel Ralph E. Ireland, chief of Army Remount Service, will be inthe party.

"I think this case will necessarily lead to consideration of the entire restitution policy adhered to by the State Deparement. These horses horses are only one type of property on which restitution claims have been made."

"Your subcommittee is naturally and necessarily interested in the principles followed by the State Department in the restitutoin of all types of property."

At yesterday's session, Senator Morse said a State Department cable justifying return of the horses to Hungary, made "allegation of facts which if they are not supported by evidence, cannot be legally accepted as truth."

A cable, signed by Robert A. Lovett, acting Secretary of State, was sent to Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) in which he asserted the horses were not maintained in Europe as part of German military operations; and that "complete evidence" had been submitted concerning "origin and ownership" of "Hungarian" horses.

Contradictory testimony was heard Wednesday from Col. Fred L. Hamilton, former chief of the Remount Service, who selected the horses in 1945-46.

Processed Returns of Taxes In Arlington Top $1,500,000

More than $1,500,000 in tax returns had been processed at closing time by the Arlington County treasurer's office yesterday, deadline for the payment of State and county taxes.

County Treasurer John Locke Green said at least 15,000 mailed returns had been received through yesterday, with 10,000 more expected to arrive Monday.

Arlington residents were given until midnight last night to mail their tax payments and up to 5 p. m. to pay in person. Those who missed the deadline face a 5 per cent penalty, Green said.

He estimated that the office will have received a total of more than $5,300,000 by the time all returns have been processed, and that two to three weeks will be required before all receipts have been mailed out.

Calls from Arlington residents protesting their tax bills have jammed the county switchboard and kept employes of the treasurer's office hopping, Green said.

The county's tax rate has been raised from $3 to $3.25 per $100 assessment by action of the County Board, and real estate assessments have been increased.

Bishop Ryan Eulogized In C. U. Mass

The late Archbishop James Hugh Ryan of Omaha, former rector of Catholic University, was eulogized yesterday at a solemn requiem mass sung in the university's National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception.

Archbishop Ryan, who died November 22, was head of the university from 1928 to 1935 and rector emeritus from November 12, 1935 until his death.

The Right Rev. Msgr. P. J. McCormick, university rector, celebrated the mass. Attending were university faculty members, students and friends of the late educator.

In a eulogy by the Rev. Dr. Maurice S. Sheehy, head of the university's department of religious education, Archbishop Ryan was described as "fearlessly frank" and of "startling simplicity."

"The key to that simplicity," said Father Sheehy, "was his Catholic faith.

"A friend of three Presidents, but independent of political parties, he sought to wed the genius of our Nation to the age-old truths of Christianity.

"Twelve years ago he pointed out . . . the perils of fascism . . .; he condemned in strongest terms those saboteurs of our Government and its leaders who sought to divide our country through distrust; for opposing Nazism he was honored by personal condemnation from the pen of the cowardly suicide, Herr Goebbels; and in his opposition to the present menace to world peace, communism, his were no mealy-mouthed words.

"He believed that we must be strong, with a might that a Nation which recognizes only force must respect. He insisted that we feed starving countries at whatsoever cost."

Roy H. Beatty, 59, told his new friends he was feeling fine when he appeared at 9:30 a. m. yesterday for his job as a doorkeeper in the House gallery.

He told them he'd had a severe pain in his chest and arm about 2 a. m., and gone to Providence Hospital for treatment. The pain had left, he said.

Less than an hour later, Mr. Beatty gasped and slumped in his chair. He was pronounced dead at 10:25 a. m. by Dr. E. B. Vaden, assistant to the Capitol physician.

His body was removed to the District Morgue. Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of death by natural causes.

In Mr. Beatty's pocket was found a railroda ticket to his home in Evansville, Ind., where he was to spend the Christmas holidays with his family.

Mr. Beatty started on the doorkeeper's job on November 24. His sponsor was Representative E. A. Mitchell (R., Ind.). The latter's office reported that the burial will be next week in Evansville.

The doorkeeper was a native of Evansville, a veteran of Army service in the first World War, and had been employed with the Indiana State Tax Boar and with Servel, Inc. He was a member of the American Legion and the 40 and 8 Society and was active in the Zion Evangelical Church.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Minnie E. Beatty; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Jeannette Whitehead; a brother, Arthur Beatty, and a sister, Mrs. Sarah Patry, all of Evansville.

In Washington, Mr. Beatty lived at 232 1st st. se.

Mrs. Mary Jane Scheuring

Mrs. Knox Entertains Lecturer

By Marie McNair

MRS. McCOOK KNOX'S interest in art and artists' stems from the day when she and Helen Frick, who founded the Art Reference Library, were classmates at Miss Spence's School.

She has done extensive research work on early American art, written a book on the Sharples and their portraits of George Washington; has a collection of her own to delight any connoisseur's eye.

Her big enthusiasm right now is the Corcoran Gallery of Art, of which she is a member of the board of directors. Yesterday afternoon she entertained a few guests at tea time to meet A. Hyatt Mayor, curator of prints of the Metropolitan Museum, who had come down from New York to give an illustrated lecture last night at the Corcoran Gallery.

In her own gallery in her Georgetown house, Mrs. Knox has two still-life studies by Rubens Peale on the drawing room walls; a portrait by Sully mingling happily with a landscape by Marjorie Phillips of Washington's Phillips Gallery.

And yesterday Katharine Knox was as effective as any of her portraits in a gold colored satin gown and an exquisite black lace headdress arranged in mantilla manner.

Hermann Williams, director of the Corcoran Gallery, was on hand with Mrs. Williams. Breckinridge Long, former Assistant Secretary of State, and the newest member on the board of directors at Corcoran, came alone as Mrs. Long is enjoying a holiday in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Powell Minnegerode were there and Mr. and Mrs. McGill James, Mrs. David Barry, Miss Rhoda Lowe, who is working busily toward an exhibition at Newport, R. I., next summer.

Mrs. Peter Augustus Jay, who is Mrs. Knox's cousin, was in the paneled dining room downstairs to pour tea and between times reminiscing on old Washington with Clarence Hewes. Miss Elizabeth Houghton took her turn at the tea table and in the group of guests also were Miss Emily Chase and her sister, Miss Nannie Chase.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooke Give Cocktail Party

MR. AND MRS. Frederick H. Brooke entertained yesterday at a cocktail party and tea in honor of the Ambassador of China and Mme. Koo. Guests included Washingtonians who have shown a special interest in China.

Former Ambassador to China and Mrs. Nelson Johnson were there and Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Frank R. McCoy. Also former Ambassador and Mrs. Stanley K. Hornbeck, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant, 3d, Rear Admiral and Mrs. David LeBreton, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Louis Little, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mr. and Mrs. David E. Finley, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Coolidge and Mr. and Mrs. Conger Pratt.

Mrs. Deane Rucker Honored at Luncheon

MRS JAMES McSherry Wimsatt entertained at luncheon yesterday at her home in Chevy Chase in honor of Mrs. Deane Rucker of Grosse Pointe, Mich., who is here to see her son, Deane Rucker, jr.

Guests included Mrs. Martin Vogel, Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, Mrs. Charles Hurd, Mrs. Randall Hagner, Mrs. Clarence Burton, Mrs. George Holmes, Mrs. Emil Hurja, Mrs. William T. Mann, Mrs. Charles Kappler and Mrs. Gifford-Hull.

Clarence Grosners Entertain Visitors

MR. AND MRS. Clarence Grosner entertained 65 guests at a cocktails and buffet supper last evening in their apartment at the Shoreham for Mrs. Grosner's sister, Mrs. Lewis Garfield, who is visiting her from Columbus, Ohio.

Mrs. Walter Frank, also of Columbus, and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Krazne of New York, house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Grosner, were among the guests. Mrs. Garfield will leave Tuesday to return home.

Mrs. Calhoun to Give 'Autograph Teas'

MRS. C. C. Calhoun will give the last of her "autograph teas" this afternoon and on Saturday, December 13. This afternoon she will be assisted by Mrs. William Bulow, wife of the former Senator from South Dakota.

The hostess will be at home from 3 to 5 p. m. to all those interested in her cook book, containing her famous recipes which she has collected here and abroad.

Joseph Davies to Give Dinner Party Tonight

Former Ambassador and Mrs. Joseph Davies will entertain a small company of guests at dinner this evening.

MRS. M. P. FARNSWORTH, JR.

Miss McBride, Mr. Farnsworth Are Married

Miss Susanne McBride and Minter P. Farnsworth, jr., were married in Bethlehem, Chapel, Washington Cathedral, at 8 p. m. last evening. Gen. Luther D. Miller, Chief of Chaplains, USA, officiated. Mrs. Farnsworth is the daughter of Mrs. Allan C. McBride and the late General McBride. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Minter P. Farnsworth of Washington.

Andrew C. McBride of Newfoundland gave his sister in marriage. She wore a gown of ivory silk brocade and satin, and carried a shower bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Mrs. Clifton F. Barr, was matron of honor, costumed in antique gold velveteen and gold ostrich feather hat, and carrying a bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums.

Miss Sally E. Mallory and Mrs. Darrell L. Jones were bridesmaids, dressed in emerald green velveteen gowns and carrying yellow chrysanthemums. Minter P. Farnsworth, father of the bridegroom, served as best man, and the ushers were Jack Kenealy and Darrall L. Jones.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother immediately after the ceremony.

The bride attended American University and Washington School for Secretaries, and the bridegroom attended Randolph-Macon Academy. He is now attending Columbia Tech.

After a motor trip to Key West, Fla., the couple will live in Washington.

Quota Leader Reports on Trip To Australia

By Genevieve Reynolds

If you're opposed to the American and European tipping system, hop a plane or boat for Australia. No tips are allowed—government order—in that country. So revealed Mrs. Marie Higgins of Youngstown, Ohio, president of Quota International in an interview yesterday preceding the opening of the organization's three-day seminar for district governors.

The comely, brown-haired, brown-eyed leader recently returned from Australia where she went to visit Quota Clubs. Twenty Quotarians formed a guard of honor to show her the country.

Enthusiastic about the land of "Down Under," Mrs. Higgins said that she found the people very friendly. "Just being an American was an open sesame to everything," she explained.

She discovered that many of the women had never worn or seen a pair of nylons . . . that their hats were of good quality but lacked variety of styles.

First American Quota president to visit the affiliated clubs in Australia, Mrs. Higgins expected to charter two new clubs. But the Australians decided that would be too few and organized four others for her inaugurate.

Your Questions On Homemaking

I have a solid mahogany bedroom set which has given me very good service. It is still in good condition. However, it has quite a number of scratches, some of which have turned white, especially on the edges. The furniture isn't bad enough to need refinishing. Could you suggest a home method of darkening these scratches? I have been using furniture polish for my furniture. Do you think this is better than wax for general use? J. N. P.

Iodine will often darken light scratches on mahogany satisfactorily, or a matching wood stain (purchased at a paint store) can be applied. After the stain is dry, apply white shellac with a fine brush until the scratch is filled level with surrounding area. Let application dry thoroughly before polishing furniture.

There is no cut-and-dried answer to the question of whether to use wax or polish on furniture. Whichever you use depends on two things—how much time and energy can be spent on the furniture, and how desirable it seems to build up a protected finish by repeated applications and vigorous buffings. A furniture polish which cleans as it polishes can be buffed more quickly than a wax finish, but it leaves less wax on the surface and therefore does not offer quite the same protection as a wax finish. On the other hand, wax requires more buffing; and therefore more time in application, produces a hard, protective coating with a lovely glow which guards against light blemishes and which will resist heat and moisture to some extent. This kind of finish is highly desirable on coffee tables, dining room tables and other much-used tables, but is less important on furniture. So suit the treatment to the piece of furniture.

I have a gray mouton lamb coat (1 year old). Few cleaners will take the risk of cleaning it. Is there any kind of powder that can be dusted in the fur to take dust out of the coat? K. H.

A paste made by mixing corn meal and carbon tetrachloride is effective in the home dry cleaning of fur. Rub this mixture well into the fur and let it remain until thoroughly dry. Then brush all of it out. Considerable brushing will be required to remove all the particles of meal.

I should like to wash several pairs of glass curtains (eggshell in color). Is it possible to wash them in an apartment washing machine which you can regulate (as to the time washed) only by setting the indicator at silks, rayons, or cottons? Would the whirling and drying process be too hard on the curtains? Also, how can you dry these curtains without a curtain stretcher and yet have them hang evenly? J. W. D.

You do not mention the material of which these curtains are made. However, since you say they're glass curtains, I take it that they're sheer and probably cotton material. When washed in a machine, such curtains should be laundered with heavy suds and lukewarm water for 3 to 5 minutes. If they're still soiled at the end of that time, wash them again with fresh suds for about 2 minutes. Rinse three times in lukewarm water, allowing 2 minutes for each rinse, and extracting the water each time. Since there's no exact timing device on your machine, why not check (while you're doing other washing) and see how long the machine runs in washing and rinsing on "silk," or "rayon," or "cotton?" Then you'll know which to set it on to approximate the times given above for washing curtains. Unless the curtains are very fragile, the whirling and drying process shouldn't hurt them. Since you have no stretchers, hang the curtains evenly over the clothesline and straighten the edges carefully. Or, if they're short, dry them in this fashion: Hang the curtain on the rod at the window (being sure its absolutely free of dust first). Run a heavy, smooth, rustproof rod through the bottom hem, to pull the curtain straight and hold it taut as it dries.

We have just sanded our living room floor and given it two coats of a floor sealer and a coat of paste wax on top of that. It looks very nice now and I would like to know the best way of keeping its clean, glossy surface. Should fresh wax be applied directly on the old, or should the old be removed first? The floors are soft wood—pine. Should they be wiped up with a damp cloth or should they be kept free of all water? Detailed instructions for their care will be appreciated. B. B.

Here's the recommended procedure for taking care of floors of this type: Use an untreated dust mop on them regularly. (Never use an oiled mop as it softens the wax and leaves an unabsorbed film of grease to catch dust.) Once a week, remove dust with vacuum cleaner or soft hair broom. Once a month, polish with weighted brush or electric floor polisher. Rewax spots which receive heavy wear, if necessary. Liquid wax is most useful in this work of patching. Twice a year, rewax entire floor. Removing the old wax finish at this time will not be necessary unless the floor has been badly treated. However, if floors are gummy or stained, take the old wax off with a prepared wax remover or with carbon tetrachloride. (Be sure to work in well-ventilated room if you use the latter.)

Keep the waxed floor clear of water. If any is spilled on it, wipe up at once, or it will make white spots, which will require rewaxing. Remove soil spots with a cloth dampened lightly with turpentine or liquid wax. Rub on the spot until soil is removed. Allow to dry. Apply a new coat of wax. Allow to dry; then polish. Scratches are treated the same way as soil. Light scratches may disappear with polishing alone.

Met Soprano Likes Waffles After Concert

By Lucia Brown

There's nothing like pecan waffles after an evening of singing, take it from Eleanor Steber, who appears in concert at Constitution Hall Sunday afternoon.

The Metropolitan Opera soprano, who is Mrs. Edwin Bilby in private life, is an enthusiastic housekeeper. She is particularly fond of informal entertaining, with guests lending a hand if they feel like it.

"It's astonishing how much more point you can lend to a discussion of an aria if you have an egg in your hand!" says pretty, dark-haired Eleanor.

The pecan waffles Eleanor learned to make in Boston, during her student years at New England Conservatory.

"You simply add ground pecans to your favorite waffle bafter recipe," she says. "Then heat up your waffle iron, criss cross each waffle with strips of bacon—and prepare to be deluged with requests for second helpings!"

It was while studying in Boston that Eleanor met her husband, who is also a musician. Both were singing in the Unibn Congregational Church choir, and both studied with William L. Whitney of the New England Conservatory of Music. Next to Whitney himself, Edwin Bilby is probably the greatest living expert on the Whitney method of vocal technique.

The Bilbys live on Long Island now and, in the summertime, have a large vegetable garden. Last summer Eleanor put up enough tomatoes, lima beans, corn, cucumber pickles, and other garden products to keep the family table supplied with home canned goodies all winter.

Casserole dishes come in for a large share of praise from the busy singer. An inexpensive Saturday night favorite is a combination of rice, green peppers and frankfurters, helped out with a liberal flavoring of garlic. She also likes to serve spaghetti with marina sauce and, for a late snack, Welsh rabbit and beer.

Florida's Golden Tide Rolls To Local Fruit Counters

A GOLDEN tide of oranges and grapefruit is rolling in from Florida these days . . . they're just about the best buys on the fruit and vegetable market. Pink grapefruit . . . and the seedless kinds, too . . . are among the lot. The quality is improving all the time . . . they're getting juicier and sweeter.

Florida is the source of much of our fresh food at the moment . . . they are even sending strawberries! The first of the season arrived here last week . . . priced around $1.20 a pint!

And here's news: Two unusual Florida vegetables are on sale in this area now . . . the yam and the chayote. This yam is the true one (not the moist sweet potato that's often called a "yam"). This yam is a subtropical vegetable . . . looks a good deal like the white potato, can be cooked in the same ways . . . but has a more distinctive flavor. The pale green chayote . . . beautiful addition to a vegetable centerpiece! . . . can be served buttered, creamed, scalloped, stuffed, in stew or in salad. Shaped something like an avocado, it is closer kin to the squash . . . with a tantalizingly different flavor.

Prices on some "winter" vegetables . . . acorn squash and cabbage, for instance . . . have almost doubled in the last few weeks. Potatoes are cheaper, though. Cauliflower from Long Island is plentiful . . . but the quality is not so good. Turnip greens are about all gone . . . nipped by the frost . . . but kale and collards are abundant.

There is little change in the price of fresh meat this weekend . . . except for the "specials" run by some of the stores . . . generally the best bets for the thrifty housewife. Prices on smoked meats are on the rise, though . . . hams and shoulders are generally higher. Margarine prices have increased a few cents . . . while butter, of course, is leaping toward the $1 mark.

ALLAN FISHER, Attorney.
1333 G St. N.W.

IN THE MUNICIPAL COURT FOR THE District of Columbia. Civil Division. Leo J. Weingarden, 217-221 H St., N.E., Washington, D. C., plaintiff, vs. Fast Feed Machine Corporation, a foreign corporation, Kunkle Building, Ashtabula, Ohio, defendant. No. A-23663. Order of publication against non-resident defendant. The object of this suit is to recover the sum of $775 for money due and owing to the plaintiff by the defendant corporation as damages resulting from the plaintiff's purchase of certain mechanical equipment from said corporation; besides costs, and to have judgment of condemnation of certain property of the defendant corporation levied on under an attachment issued in this suit to satisfy plaintiff's claim. On motion of the plaintiff, it is, therefore, this 14th day of November, 1947, ordered that the defendant cause its appearance to be entered in this court on or before the fortieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, occurring after the day of the first publication of this Order to defend this suit and to show cause why said condemnation should not be had; otherwise the suit will be proceeded with as in case of default. Provided, a copy of this Order be published at least once a week for three successive weeks in the Washington Law Reporter and The Washington Post before said day. GEORGE Y. BARSE, Chief Judge. A true copy. Test: (Seal.) WALTER P. BRAMHALL, Clerk. By WILLIAM M. NEDROW, Chief Deputy Clerk. Nov.21,28,Dec.5

How to help a boy become a man

Many American leaders attribute their adult success to the lessons they learned as carrier boys for some newspaper.

They learned that success depends on service: American customers expect to get what they pay for.

They learned that 75% may be a passing grade in school but one missed paper on a route of 100 subscribers means an annoyed customer and very likely a complaint to the office.

They learned that a contract must be kept—when the customer agrees to take the paper the boy agrees to deliver it every day, and neither weather, sleepiness, nor any other excuse should interrupt that contracted service.

They learned how to talk to people—how to speak up with self-assurance when seeking new customers, how to handle non-payers politely but firmly, how to think fast and talk to the point when trying to make a sale.

They learned self-reliance, to stand on their own two feet and not be eternally dependent on parents for pocket money or even for clothes and college funds.

They learned, in short, to grow up as men in the proud American tradition of self-discipline and self-reliance.

D. C. Employe Run Down at Water Valve

Charles Howlin, 33, a District water department employe, was injured about 1:30 a. m. yesterday when struck by a car as he operated a water main valve on Connecticut ave. nw.

Howlin of 3941 Burns pl. se. regained consciousness late in the day at Providence Hospital. He suffered a compound fracture of the leg and severe cuts and bruises.

Driver of the car, booked for failing to give full time and attention to driving, was William T. Greenville, 23, of 4634 Hunt ave., Chevy Chase, Md.

A pedestrian, George Grayson, 55, of 2621 Sherwin ave. nw., suffered a head injury and bruises about 7 a. m. when struck by a car on Bladensburg rd near Queens Chapel rd.

The driver of the car, George Washington of Aquasco, Prince Georges County, stopped quickly, and his car was hit by another operated by Herbert A. Clarke, 39, of RFD 4, Alexandria, Va., according to police.

Clarke was charged with following another car too closely. Grayson was taken to Casualty Hospital.

British Travel Official Denies Hardship Tales

Tourist travel conditions in Britain are much better than Americans have been led to believe, John G. Bridges, head of the British Travel Association, declared here yesterday.

Bridges said "erroneous and exaggerated statements in the American press" had created false impressions about travel in England.

As head of the government-sponsored travel association, Bridges is in Washington on a country-wide speaking tour to deny tales of hardship for U. S. visitors to Britain, and to confer with travel and transportation officials.

A recent survey of overseas visitors staken in London, he said, showed that "tourists have been pleasantly surprised by conditions better than they had hoped for."

Bridges pointed out that tourists staying in Britain up to 28 days require no ration cards, and that visitors are able to purchase many goods, from clothing to cars, merely by producing a passport.

Bridges spoke before more than 50 airline and steamship representatives and government travel officials at an American Automobile Association luncheon in the Mayflower Hotel.

Reported Aboard Missing Plane

MAJ. FRANK LAWRENCE
of Modesto, Calif., was listed yesterday as the navigator of the Air Force's C-47 transport plane missing since November 28 with 20 persons aboard. The aircraft was on a flight from Pisa, Italy, to Frankfurt, Germany

Fire Explodes Dynamite Caps In Falls Church

A fire which exploded two boxes of dynamite caps caused $10,000 damage yesterday to a storage warehouse of a Falls Church, Va., contractor.

Principal damage to the Nance & Vivadelli Co.'s two-story structure was caused by the fire, however. The building, located on Westmoreland st. near Lee hwy, is only a short distance from the Falls Church Volunteer Fire Department on Lee hwy.

A truck, welding apparatus, some antifreeze and other supplies were damaged or destroyed, firemen said. Responding with the Halls Hill and Ballston department-Falls Church company were the ments.

Mathematicians to Meet

The Maryland-Virginia-Washington section of the Mathematical Association of America will meet today in the Arts and Sciences building at the University of Maryland, College Park. The morning section opens at 10:45 o'clock and the afternoon meeting will begin at 2 p. m.

Armada Seeks Missing C-47, 20 Passengers

Frankfurt, Germany, Dec. 5 (AP).—Encouraged by the first clear weather in a week, United States Air Forces in Europe today put aloft the largest aerial armada since the war in a desperate search for a United States Army plane missing seven days with 20 persons aboard.

But at dusk there still was no trace of the C-47 transport which disappeared a week ago on a flight from Pia, Italy, to Frankfurt.

There was not even a radio signal or a fresh rumor.

The last message believed to have come from the plane's survivors was picked up early yesterday morning. It said passengers and crew were in desperate need of help.

The plane carried food for only a day and a half. Snow and cold rain has fallen almost constantly since the plane disappeared.

Today more than 200 planes flew in criss-cross patterns over eastern and southern France, western, southern and central Germany, and the Alps of Switzerland and Austria.

2 Fraternity Youths Jailed In Beating

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 5 (AP).—A judge who said there "is nothing left for me to do" sentenced two members of a sub-rosa high school fraternity to prison today for one to five years for the "unlawful wounding" of an outsider who dated a fraternity brother's girl friend.

Richard E. Pendergast, 20, and Robert T. Patterson, 19, pleaded guilty. Prosecutor Edward H. Greene said the incident was one of a series of "gang beatings" in which the illicit fraternity was involved.

Commons Pleas Judge H. Clay Warth said in pronouncing sentence:

"If it were just the two of you, it would be different. But there is an organization, reportedly still active, which seems to think it has the right to take the law into its own hands.

"According to my information, five of you boys went to the victim's home and two of you attacked him in his own house. His eyes were almost put out and his nose was broken, and when his sister-in-law tried to intervene she was bitten on the arm."

The attack was on Rafael Bastianelli, 18, last May 19.

Woman Files $50,000 Suit In Death of Unborn Child

A woman who claimed that injuries received in an automobile accident caused the death of her unborn child and made her sterile filed a $50,000 damage suit yesterday.

Victim in the accident, according to the suit filed in Montgomery County Circuit Court, was Mrs. Agnes Inez Walker, 20, of 1354 Talbert ter. se.

Another damage suit for $25,000, arrising from the same accident, was filed by the woman's husband, Marine Col. Arthur E. Walker, also 20, who claimed his wife's inability to bear children caused him "intense mental pain and anguish."

Woman Driver Is Defendant

Name defendent in both legal actions was Mrs. Adriana S. Sweeney, of 9009 Sudbury rd., Silver Spring, Md., who, the suits said, was driver of the other car in the accident September 18 on Reno rd. near Elton pl. nw.

Mrs. Walker, the papers claimed, was being driven to Bethesda Naval Hospital for delivery of her first child. The suits were filed for the Walkers by Joseph M. Mathias and Walter H. Moorman, Bethesda attorneys.

Firm Sued For $50,000

In another suit, the Columbia Specialty Co., 503 Bradly blvd., Bethesda, was sued for $50,000 as a result of an accident, Dec. 16, 1944, at 41st and Ingomar st. nw.

The suit filed by R. Duncan Clarke, Bethesda attorney, listed Mrs. Viola Green, 29, of Greenbelt, as the plaintiff claiming she suffered permanent injuries in a collision with one of the firm's trucks.

At the time of the accident, Mrs. Green was en route home from Georgetown Hospital with her seven-year-old son.

Alexandria Council Criticized By Judge on Zoning Decision

Alexandria Circuit Court Judge Paul E. Brown, yesterday termed "very unfair" an action whereby Alexandria City Council granted a rezoning application at a public rehearing and rescinded it without notice at a later meeting.

Brown's comment was occasioned by a suit brought in Alexandria Circuit Court by Claude C. Nalls, 2707 Mount Vernon ave., Alexandria, who applied in July to rezone his property to commercial use. Council granted the application at a public hearing.

In September, when council adopted an ordinance containing a number of rezonings granted in the past several weeks, Nalls' request was deleted by unanimous consent.

Judge Brown refused Nalls' plea that he declare the rezoning had legally occurred in July, however, because, he declared, "an ordinance (the zoning ordinance) can only be amended by an ordinance." He said he must deny the plea despite his feeling that the rezoning should have been granted.

Judge Brown urged that council set a definite date for another hearing on the application within the usual six months limit

Alexandria Mayor William T. Wilkins told the court the original action was only "tentative" approval, merely a "signal to the city attorney to prepare an ordinance." He defended council's action, though admitting it was not the usual course.

Captain Cleared In Traffic Death

Acting Trial Justice Harry Thomas of the Arlington Police Court yesterday found no evidence of criminal negligence in the traffic death of Mrs. Margaret Pettit Ellis, 45, of 3314 S. 1st st., Arlington, on September 21.

Mrs. Ellis was crossing Lee blvd. opposite the Columbia Gardens Cemetery with her husband, Joseph A. Ellis, 60, when both were struck by a car driven gy Capt. Joe M. Gold, jr., 5940 N. 10th st., Arlington. They were taken to Arlington Hospital, where Mrs. Ellis died shortly afterward. Ellis suffered cuts and a leg injury.

Fliers Have 3 Hops to Go

Kansas City, Dec. 5 (AP).—The Cub plane globe fliers, George Truman and Clifford Evans, arrived here at 4:29 p. m. (CST) today after a flight from Oklahoma City. Three more hops to their New Jersey take-off place will complete their world tour.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

BARNABY

Pop will be very mad about that robot stopping the oil furnace, Mr. O'Malley. So when he comes down here, you explain—
Hmm. I daresay he'll be down here soon . . .
Too bad, m'boy, that Blotto and I are just leaving. By the back door. This cellar seems to be growing a trifle chilly. And—
But—
Ready, Blotto? . . . To the rear—MARCH!
Can I go with you?
I'm sorry our little visit seems to have upset your Dad, m'boy. I wish I could do something to put him in a good humor. Say, what is this rubbish pile here?
Pop cleaned out the attic. But the garbage man won't take so much stuff away—
Blotto! —That yo-yo!
POOF!
The pile is all gone!

TODAY'S RADIO HIGHLIGHTS

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S address at the official opening of the Everglades National Park will be broadcast some time between 2:30 and 3 p. m. by WRC, WOL and WWDC.

Tonight is the night when some happy contestant will guess "Miss Hush" on the Ralph Edwards "Truth or Consequences" program over WRC-NBC at 8:30 and win $20,000 in prizes.

If, by chance, nobody guesses in this sixth week of the contest, Edwards will probably scream since last weeks' clews were obviously intended to give away the identity of "Miss Hush" beyond a question of a doubt.

If it doesn't turn out to be Martha Graham, the dancer, plenty of other people will scream.

Other highlights:

We Have Small Town Habit of Sleeping at Night

"We're newcomers to Washington," writes Etta G. Stern of 320 34th st. se., "and we wonder about the lack of all night radio programs here.

"In Philadelphia and New York we used to enjoy listening to such programs on Saturday and Sunday nights. Do you know why there isn't much interest in them here?"

I don't pretend to be an expert on radio programming, Etta, but the answer seems to be rather obvious.

Most folks here go to work at an early hour, and they can't hold down their jobs unless they get to sleep at a reasonable hour.

After midnight you could shoot a cannon down the middle of Pennsylvania ave. without any great danger of hitting anybody.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Earle Atwater, jr., of 2201 Massachusetts ave. nw., passes along a pertinent thought in connection with the current L. S. M. F. T. (Let's Save Meat For Truman) campaign. He says:

"If you can't make both ends meet, then make one vegetable."

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Dawes of 4100 Parkwood st., Cottage City, Md., forwarded this clipping from one of our esteemed afternoon contemporaries:

"The injured man is Howard H. Smith, whose plane stalled at an altitude of about 300 feet shortly after he had taken off and crashed near the runway."

This raises the interesting question of how Mr. Smith managed to get the plane up in the air "shortly after he had taken off and crashed near the runway."

ADD NAMES

Our discussion of strange place-names moves Ellen Kincannon of Hood College, Frederick, Md., to write:

"Don't forget my favorite—Hot Coffee, Miss."

Mrs. John D. Atkins, jr., of Hamilton, Va., writes that her favorite place-name is Double Toll Gate, Va.

I tried to find it in the United States Postal Guide, and on several road maps—but failed.

Can anybody tell me how to get to Double Toll Gate, Va.—and what's the toll when I get there?

PET PEEVE

"On practically every streetcar," writes Eddie Phelps of the Marine Barracks, "there's the type of woman who is constantly complaining about the current lack of gentlemen.

"In other words, no male has risen to offer her a seat.

"This is usually the same woman who has rudely pushed her bundlesome (Good word, Eddie—W. E. G.) way through the other passengers, displaying a wanton disregard for everybody but herself.

"To this type of woman the only proper answer is: It takes a lady to find a gentleman."

STREET SCENE

Mrs. Edna Wherrity of 316 11th st. sw. is our reporter for this amusing incident:

As the man tried to start his parked car at 15th and K sts. the other day, it quickly became apparent that there was something wrong.

After a series of pops and sputters, the motor caught fire, and clouds of smoke began to issue from beneath the hood.

The motorist got out of his car, walked calmly around to the back, opened the trunk, and took from it an empty bucket.

Then he returned to the front of the car, set his bucket on the street, and opened the hood.

Passersby watched, with breathless anticipation, waiting to learn how the empty bucket was going to figure in the extinguishing of the blaze.

But they were doomed to disappointment. He just stood there and watched the blaze.

He might still be standing there, if it hadn't been for Act 2 in this little drama.

A bus pulled up alongside the burning car, the driver emerged with an extinguisher in his hand, and the blaze was out in a jiffy.

PERSONAL NOTES

To church groups, P.-T. A.'s, social and fraternal organizations: I'm sorry I haven't been able to carry all the announcements you've sent me. I use as many as I can squeeze in, but the Christmas season is too much for me to cope with singlehanded. I'm sure you'll understand.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

The Washington Post is celebrating its seventieth birthday anniversary today.

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK—Britain's Lord Justice Asquith turned anecdote-reporter for England's Sunday Times, and cited his favorites: Of Lord Westbury who, when his horses bolted, told his driver: "Drive into something cheap." This was the Westbury who said of a newly appointed judge: "When he's had a little more experience he'll be the worst judge on the bench" . . . Of Dr. Riddings' report on a scholar: "He seems to know more than he doesn't" . . . Of St. John Raikes' reply to Winston Churchill: "I have been a Conservative longer though less often than Mr. Churchill" . . . Of Churchill's comment on a long, dull speech by an M. P.: "The Sahara, in salt-spoonfuls."

Asquith's other favorites are o' the inaccurate reporter "who heard half of what went on, and reported the other half."

Of Historian Herbert Paul, after hearing his opponent admit that while he wasn't a brilliant orator he at least was a sound churchman: "The first is obvious, and the second of limited interest" . . . Of H. F. Bradley, Fellow of Merton College, commenting on a talkative colleague whose arm had been broken: "I suppose he did it trying to hold his tongue" . . . And finally of A. E. Housman, dismissing an eminent German scholar as having been "born in Strasbourg—a city still famous for its geese."

Sam Goldwyn should harvest another crop of Academy Awards with his newest picture, "The Bishop's Wife." Its warmth and charm are a welcome relief in these tense times. The news at the command performance in Britain last week was that "The Bishop's Wife" was to the Queen's taste.

The first article by an authorized spokesman for De Gaulle will appear in the next issue of the U.N. World. The author is Paleski, De Gaulle's chief adviser.

Bob Hope was asked by a Londoner if he had seen the Royal Wedding. "No," said Hope, "but I came close—because Cobina Wright, who saw the wedding, waved to me."

George Jessel returned to Broadway Friday night, at Nicky Blair's Carnival. In bearing and routine, whether offstage or on, Jessel, more than any other, epitomized show business and its traditions. He started with Gus Edwards when he was 12. And when the Gerry Society representative came backstage he found the boy pretending to be 19, wearing a derby, smoking a long cigar and muttering: "I feel awful. I was out with a girl last night. She was fine, but the liquor was awful." Jessel's pretense fell when the Gerry Society man asked him the first question, which he couldn't answer: "How much is 9 times 8?"

GOP Raked Foreign Aid in Caucus

By Drew Pearson

House Republicans locked the doors, turned off all telephones and really "let go" at their caucus on foreign aid to Europe. One reason for the caucus was to let belligerent party members blow off steam to their own colleagues rather than before the world on the floor of the House. The meeting accomplished this end.

BENDER

One highlight of the long secret session was a lecture by Representative George Bender of Ohio on GOP aggressiveness.

"I see where President Truman thanked Arthur Vandenberg for his help in getting the 597-million-dollar aid bill through the Senate," said the Ohioan. "That's very nice, but where does it leave Republicans? What is your program? I think it's time we got one without always blindly following the White House and State Department on foreign affairs."

Representative August Andresen of Red Wing, Minn., was insistent that steps be taken to prevent profiteering in the distribution of relief goods. We should make sure that it goes to the right people in distressed nations and is given to them, not sold, he asserted.

Pointing to the Friendship Train, the Minnesotan added that some such system should be used in all future aid.

"Governments had little or nothing to do with the Friendship Train," said Andresen. "It was a people-to-people proposition. If you want to be certain the food we send Europe gets to the rank-and-file, and is appreciated by them, this direct method of aid is the best answer."

Bolstering European Governments

South Dakota's Karl Mundt agreed that the Friendship Train had done an excellent job, but added:

"Feeding the people is not the whole problem. We are trying to develop increased confidence in the governments of western Europe. The big thing is to encourage and support those governments. We can't forget that if the American people are going to get some benefit out of the money they spend."

The applause favored Mundt. However, general GOP opinion was that foreign relief should be handled through an independent agency, not the State Department.

Mundt seconded Bender's call for party aggressiveness in foreign affairs, charging that Roosevelt and Truman had made the "deals" that have led to Communist troubles in Poland and other countries.

"Republicans," he declared, "ought to be more diligent in pointing this out."

Representative Reid Murray of Wisconsin reported rumors of wheat purchased by the United States from Argentina, despite the fact that Dictator Peron had taken over his country's entire wheat crop and at a boosted price of $5.30 a bushel.

"If this is true and we continue such purchases, it will only add to our inflation problem," proclaimed Murray. "American farmers cannot be expected to sell their wheat for $3 a bushel if we are paying $5 to a foreign government."

Note—Investigation by GOP Representative Karl Stefan of Nebraska after the caucus revealed that we recently bought 25,000 bushels of Argentine wheat for $2.67 a bushel f. o. b., New York.

Congressmen Under The Skin

Former Congresswoman Clare Boothe Luce and New York left-ish Vito Marcantonio clashed vehemently in a radio debate over the possibilities of "war with Russia." Mrs. Luce said Russia's tactics made war certain. Marcantonio repeated the Vishinsky theme about warmongers.

After their bitter debate, however, Mrs. Luce and the New York Congressman, once colleagues on Capitol Hill, relaxed.

"You know, Marc," said Mrs. Luce, "after the lesson I taught you tonight, you should get down on your knees and pray."

"Clare," replied Marcantonio, "you don't pray with your knees. You pray with your heart."

Diplomatic Chaff

Diplomats suspect one reason for moving further atomic-bomb experimental headquarters to lonely Pacific islands is that the United States now has A-bombs so powerful we're afraid an accidental explosion will wipe out an area hundreds of miles square . . . The new Jewish state of Palestine will ask for a 20-million-dollar loan from the United States for water-power development.

In Every Dream

In every dream of you, my dear . . . I seem to see the sun . . . And all the glory of a day . . . For duty to be done . . . And then I see the silver stars . . . That light the way at night . . . And just because of you they seem . . . More beautiful and bright . . . Each dream is like the magic of . . . An inspiration true . . . And that is why I feel I owe . . . A world of thanks to you . . . The very mention of your name . . . Is music to my ears . . . That fills me with encouragement . . . And takes away my tears . . . Whenever you are in my dream . . . I never feel alone . . . Because I am in love with you . . . And I am all your own.
